ALL THE TRAPPINGS — San Rafaal High School students stage a realistic "Democratic National Convention" in the school gymnasium. The event today included a keynote speech by California Senate Democratic Leader George R. Moscone of San Francisco, floor battles over delegate seating and party platform, and was to include a vote battle over which candidate to choose among a wide field. Moscone congratulated the students on being able to hold "a convention in California without interference from the Justice Department."

Water Connection Ban Is Considered

New Construction Would Be Affected

By PAT ANGLE

A moratorium which would withhold water from many new developments — large and small — in the Marin Municipal Water District became a distinct possibility yesterday when the district board decided to give serious consideration to a connection ban. (Another water district story, page 9.)

Director Eugene A. Miller proposed that the district declare a one-year freeze on all new connections requiring pipeline extension, and the board set a public hearing on the proposal for May 24 at 1:30 p.m. in district offices.

Some of the approximately 30 persons who jammed the small meeting room eagerly supported a moratorium, while others held it would mean "economic disaster" for Marin.

Directors agreed to consider the ban after Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger warned "another dry winter like the past one" could create a water shortage by September 1973 and force water rationing if current consumption remains stable and no new water supply is developed by that time.

Seeger said the county has experienced two consecutive dry years in the past 90 years and estimated there is "a 50-50 chance" of another dry winter ahead.

Affected by a moratorium would be all large developments which have not yet signed contracts for district water service, as well as small developments and even single houses located on land which does not front on existing water mains and would require pipe extensions.

Although board members did not express their views on the proposed freeze, an informal survey of individual directors by the Independent-Journal revealed a majority of the board believes some form of moratorium on pipeline extensions is needed.

In proposing a moratorium, Miller reported that:

1. The district's watershed normally produces an annual firm yield of 30,000 acre-feet of water.

2. During the past winter, the watershed produced only 21,000 acre-feet and filled the district's five reservoirs to only 75 per cent of capacity.

3. Water consumption, without additional connections, is expected to reach 33,000 acre-feet this year, requiring a draw of 12,000 acre-feet from reserves.

4. A proposed intertie to bring surplus North Marin County Water District water to the MMWD, scheduled for completion next summer, is expected to bring in 4,000 acre-feet of water annually. Commitments already made by the district to supply water — including vacant land fronting mains and developments already approved but not constructed —will de-

Soviets Demand U.S. Halt Blockade; Mines Activated

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The Soviet Union demanded today that the United States immediately stop blockading North Vietnam. But the mines sown in Haiphong and other North Vietnamese harbors became active at 7 a.m. EDT and the U.S. 7th Fleet moved in to enforce the American ban on war supplies for Hanoi.

The Soviet statement, first official Russian reaction to President Nixon's Monday night announcement of the blockade, gave no hint of direct Soviet retaliation nor did it mention Nixon's scheduled May 22-30 visit to the Soviet Union.

(In Washington, neither the White House nor the State Department would comment immediately on the Soviet statement pending a close study of the text.)

The Soviet statement, drafted after rounds of conferences in the Kremlin by the Soviet leadership, reiterated the Soviet Union pledges of "necessary support" for Hanoi and urged the United States to return to the Paris peace talks.

Moscow warned that the blockade "is a dangerous and slippery road" and said "it can lead only to another aggravation of international tensions and lawlessness in international relations." It branded the blockade a "gross violation"of navigational freedom of the seas.

UPI correspondent Henry Shapiro reported from Moscow that diplomats there considered the Nixon visit still a 50-50 possibility, and did not rule out subsequent Soviet reaction. President Nixon met in Washington today with Nikolai Patolichev, Soviet minister of foreign trade, in what was called a cordial meeting. There were unconfirmed reports in Moscow U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam was conferring at the Foreign Ministry.

In Saigon, the U.S. command reported that several freighters including at least one Soviet vessel steamed out of Haiphong harbor Wednesday about 36 hours before the mines automatically activated themselves. The mines were laid Monday and the 36 ships in port were given until dusk today, Hanoi time, to leave.

The Pentagon said that as of 10 a.m. EDT no ship had struck a mine and that "not much change" was seen in Haiphong Harbor where 36 ships were berthed at the time the mines were laid, including 16 Russian vessels and five Chinese.

Navy sources said there was no word on whether the mining had actually become lethal, but technical information distributed in Saigon indicated once they were set and dropped there was no way to change their instructions except by fishing them out of the water. There were no reports of minesweeping activities.

U.S. sources in Saigon said President Nixon ordered a

MOSCONE IS KEYNOTER

Convention In More Than Name

By JEFF GREER

California Senate Majority Leader George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco, was wildly applauded today as he — in the best conventioneering fashion — assured 2,000 San Rafael teen-agers that voters this year would oust President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Ronald Reagan two years hence.

Moscone was keynote speaker for a daylong "Democratic National Convention" at San Rafael High School. The learning exercise in democracy lacked only the smoke and the alcohol to be as realistic as Miami, Chicago or the Cow Palace national conventions.

Other than his reference to the elections' outcome, Moscone got his next biggest hand when he declared that, "without the furore of young voices raised in this nation against our role in Vietnam, their elders, today, would be of a markedly different sentiment."

He also called for an end to the draft, declaring that the United States is no longer "the single great power" needing to "enshroud" its youth "in the uniform of might and send them to all corners of the Earth to demonstrate our might."

He lashed out at federal government for spending $1,100 a year to feed each military serviceman, but only $145 in food subsidies for the poor. He said bigoted claims that racial struggle could be cured by jailing black militants, that poverty could be ended by halting welfare fraud and that the generation gap could be closed by "isolating . . . long-haired hippies" were "simplistic."

"How self-defeating it is to reward those who run for office against Black Panthers, hippies and welfare fraud," he argued.

Television camera lights glared, balloons bobbed, state delegation and candidate signs waved in the gloom and paper airplanes flew as nearly all the students from San Rafael High, swelled by segments of Terra Linda and San Marin social science classes, enthusiastically went through the convention roles they have been preparing for weeks.

There even was a floor fight over which Illinois delegation to seat, with a challenge against Mayor Richard Daley's faction. Temporary chairman Brian Rhodes turned a deaf ear to the chorus of "nays" against seating the Daley faction, and declared "the ayes have it."

Democratic Party stalwart Roger Kent of Kentfield introduced Sen. Moscone, remarking that if this were a real convention he would have strung out the process by introducing every dignitary in the hall beginning with the host city mayor, would have gone through a routine of political jokes, and would have introduced the convention officials including teacher Virginia Franklin, who organized the school's total involvement in the convention.

Debate over the national party platform was to be followed this afternoon by the showdown over selecting a presidential candidate from a field of all the names mentioned nationwide including Ralph Nader.

The high school's gymnasium was festooned with signs such as "Arizona Wants Nader" and "Wallace Is Honest About America."

Music instructor Byron Jones sang an elaborate version of the "Star Spangled Banner" as the convention opened. Temporary chairman Rhodes then led a Pledge of Allegiance. His lone voice over the hall's microphones was swelled into a low-pitched roar as the "delegates" joined in.

Tamalpais High Students Strike

Approximately 50 to 100 students at Tamalpais High School struck their classes today as part of the nationwide protest of President Nixon's recent mining of North Vietnamese harbors.

According to principal Raymond J. Bell, there was no disturbance or disorderly conduct.

Antiwar Protests Mount; Human Chain At The U.N.

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Hundreds of antiwar demonstrators, including the president of Amherst College, were seized by police late Wednesday and early today. Groups protesting the air and sea mining of North Vietnamese waters blocked highways, rails, streets and doorways in cities coast to coast.

In some areas, they battled police and were dispersed by tear gas. In Minneapolis, National Guardsmen patrolled the University of Minnesota campus.

At the United Nations, Secretary General Kurt Waldheim closed the United Nations headquarters to the public today after 17 antiwar protesters chained themselves to seats in the Security Council chamber.

A U.N. spokesman said demonstrators entered the chamber as part of a guided tour. No immediate decision was made on their removal.

Meanwhile, other protesters jumped the wall separating the U.N. compound from First Avenue after public entry gates were ordered shut by Waldheim. The small group of protesters was seized by guards and later turned over to New York City police.

A non-violent protest by Rutgers University students at New Brunswick, N.J., resulted in 18 arrests when some 200 demonstrators blocked one track of the Penn- Central's main comuter line early today.

At Madison, Wis., three policemen were shot when they chased a group of persons into a house near the University of Wisconsin campus, but there was no indication the incident was connected with the antiwar demonstrations there the past two nights.

Police said they arrested between 300 and 400 persons, including Dr. John William Ward, president of Amherst, a former Marine, outside the gate of Westover Air Force Base, a strategic air command post in western Massachusetts. Other faculty members also were seized.

Demonstrators for the fourth straight day marched around

14 More Bodies Found In Mine

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI)— Rescue workers fanning out through the depths of the Sunshine Mine today found 14 more bodies of miners trapped when fire broke out nine days ago, raising the death toll to 65.

Only two survivors have been found so far.

"That leaves 26 men still unaccounted for," said Marvin Chase, the mine's vice president and general manager. "We're still hoping these men are alive."

Candidates Eye Michigan Votes

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Sen. George S. McGovern joined Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in Michigan today where 132 delegate votes to the Democratic National Convention are believed to hinge on antibusing emotions.

The third major Democratic presidential candidate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, was in Maryland in response to Gov. Marvin Mandel's appeal that only heavy personal campaigning could head off Wallace in the Chesapeake Bay State.

Both Maryland and Michigan hold primaries next Tuesday.

Wallace, discounting his poor showing in Nebraska and West Virginia, said in Dearborn Wednesday, "The other primaries at the moment are not important. Everybody's watching Michigan."

Although court-ordered busing has raised emotions in Michigan, a recent poll by the Detroit Free Press listed busing as the sixth most important issue after crime, drugs, the economy, unresponsive government and Vietnam.

Wallace led the poll with 28 per cent popularity, followed by Humphrey with 21, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie 14 and McGovern 10.

Wallace, in the fourth day of an 11-city blitz of Michigan, criticized claims by McGovern and Humphrey that they would stop the war.

"They were in office when the war started," Wallace said. "Why didn't they stop it then."

McGovern, who scored a solid victory in Nebraska with 41 per cent of the vote, compared with 35 for Humphrey and 12 per cent for Wallace, planned only a brief campaign in Michigan.

Frank Mankiewicz, McGovern's campaign coordinator, said the South Dakotan hoped to pick up 25 to 30 delegates in Michigan.

Humphrey was to meet ministers in Baltimore today before moving on to Michigan Friday. He toured the Baltimore fish market Wednesday, where he eyed a 14-pound rockfish and conceded jokingly that he was "fishing for votes."

Mandel has made no endorsement, but is said to be quietly supporting Humphrey and has expressed concern that Wallace could win Maryland's 53 convention votes. McGovern plans only a token appearance.

In other political developments:

—President Nixon's only active opponent, Rep. John M. Ashbrook, said in Columbus, Ohio, that China is using narcotics as a "weapon" against the United States.

—Muskie, Humphrey and McGovern in a telephone hookup from Washington to Gainesville, Fla., urged University of Florida students to avoid violence in protesting the war.

State Police Check Protesters

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Chanting "we want Ronnie," about 200 youthful antiwar protesters marched into the state Capitol Wednesday and tried to barge into Gov. Ronald Reagan's office before being repelled by state police.

After chanting and stomping in front of the governor's office, the demonstrators then paraded three floors up to the Senate gallery entrance and attempted to swarm inside but were again stopped by state police.

The protesters, who kicked holes in the walls outside the Senate gallery, dispersed after they had shifted their protest to a committee hearing on no-fault insurance.

State police reported no arrests after the incident. One policeman was scratched on the ear when he was jumped by three protesters who tried to ram through the doors of the Senate gallery.

During the demonstration, Assemblyman Willie Brown, DSan Francisco, was asked if the youths should be marching in the Capitol.

"Hell no," Brown said. "They ought to be out ringing doorbells for McGovern and replace that fxxxxxx Nixon."

The demonstrators, chanting "one, two, three four, we don't want your fxxxxxx war," marched into the state building and began shouting "We want Ronnie" in front of the governor's office.

"Let's go in," some shouted but nine state policemen and one of Reagan's body guards blocked the huge doors to the governor's office.

Only about a dozen of the protesters tried to force their way into Reagan's office suite, and when they failed the demonstrators marched upstairs to the Senate gallery.

The demonstrators had marched up Capitol mall from the Sacramento River where they had earlier blocked a bridge on Interstate 80 between Sacramento and Davis for more than an hour, with many of them sitting in the middle of the freeway.

The California Highway Patrol said seven protesters were arrested at the bridge.

At a noon rally earlier, about 3,000 demonstrators staged a peaceful protest urging President Nixon to immediately end the war.

Messy Forged Check Is Ohio's Largest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—A woman rather messily altered an $84.36 workmen's compensation check to read $200,984.36 and a bank cashed it last week, state Treasurer Gertrude Donahey said today. It was one of the largest forgeries in Ohio history.

The forger, who was not identified, fled with the money to Florida before the fraud was discovered. But Mrs. Donahey said a police officer found her last Friday and recovered all but $7,000.

Mrs. Donahey said the woman laid plans for the forgery.

"For the past several months when she went to the bank to cash her compensation check she informed officials she would soon get a large sum settlement," the treasurer said.

So when she gave the bank in Trotwood, a suburb of Dayton, the large check, she was not questioned. She had been receiving compensation payments since Jan. 1969 for a back injury.

Mrs. Donahey said a close inspection of the check, however, would have shown that it had been altered.

Erasure marks were visible and a typewriter, whose type was larger than the rest of the figures on the check, had been used to type in the new sum. Also, she said, the correct amount—$84.36-had been placed on a corner of the check by a computer.

Mrs. Donahey said the check cleared both the Trotwood Bank and another in Dayton and was not caught until it had reached the data processing section in her office. It was then brought to her attention and she notified the banks.

"The bank that cashed the check, with the help of local police, was able to track down the whereabouts of the woman who cashed the check," she said. "This resulted in a flying trip last Friday to Florida to recover most of the money."

No charges have been filed against the woman, but may be after the state completes its investigation and turns over facts to the Montgomery County prosecutor.

The Trotwood Bank stands to lose the $7,000 that was not recovered.

Carnival Sideshow Slapped With Suits

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—A carnival sideshow featuring the "transformation" of a woman into a gorilla that breaks out of its cage apparently was too realistic.

Four suits totaling $46,000 were filed Wednesday against the Royal American Shows of Tampa, Fla., owners of the midway, by patrons who claimed they were injured in a stampede to escape the "animal."

Top FBI Aide Stepping Down

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Alex Rosen, the FBI's chief of investigative operations, has resigned for personal reasons, according to acting FBI director, J. Patrick Gray III.

Gray said the resignation of Rosen, 66, on May 31 would bring to a close his "vital role" in 38 years with the FBI.

Rosen is a graduate of Ohio State University and the Cleveland Law Sschool. The New York City native joined the FBI in 1933.

North Viet Call Mining 'Crazy Act'

HONG KONG (UPI)—North Vietnam, in a statement broadcast by the Chinese news agency today, termed the U.S. mining of its ports a "crazy act of war escalation".

The government statement, made Wednesday and broadcast by the New China News Agency (NCNA) today, said "this highly adventurous and crazy act of war escalation and flagrant aggression of the Nixon administration is a brutal encroachment on the sovereignty and security of the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam and an insolent challenge to the Socialist countries."

It said North Vietnam "appeals to the governments and peoples of the fraternal Socialist countries, other countries which stand of peace and justice, international organizations, the world people and the people of the United States, to act in time to stop the blood-stained hands of the U.S. aggressors."

ITT To Continue To Honor Defense Pacts

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Stockholders of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. (ITT) overwhelmingly rejected an attempt Wednesday to end the firm's production of military material through defense contracts.

"This is hardly the place to try the foreign policy of the United States," ITT president and board chairman Harold Geneen said during a heated argument on the Vietnam War.

While two dozen antiwar demonstrators marched outside the Sheraton-Peabody Hotel, several stockholders tried to get the annual meeting to withdraw ITT's defense commitments.

They proposed that ITT form a committee "to provide for an orderly transition to civilian oriented production." This was beaten by a vote of 85,269,437 to 210,437, including actual and proxy votes. Another proposal to force ITT to bare its defense, aerospace and atomic energy contracts over the last 10 years was defeated by a similar 40-to-1 margin.

In New York City, a demonstration by 3,000 persons outside ITT offices on Park Avenue erupted into brief violence when mounted police charged into the sitting group. Two youths and a policeman were hurt.

Geneen was criticized by several stockholders for allowing the international conglomerate to take part in the war effort, although he said only 6 per cent of ITT's business is in defense contracts such as aircraft bombing sensors. He also said ITT is far down the list of U.S. companies involved in defense contracts.

The resolutions were opposed by a New York City group calling itself Clergy and Laymen Concerned (CLC), which owns only a few shares of ITT stock.

A young, bearded Franciscan priest from New York spoke with several others in favor of the resolution. Father Dale Olsen said he prayed that the company would see fit to end its defense contract obligations.

But another priest, the Rev. Edward J. Berbusse of Fordham University, drew prolonged applause from the 600 stockholders when he spoke against the resolution. He called the war "an obligation by the United States to end oppression."

"Some of us feel very strongly against war," said Berbusse. "Who doesn't? But some of us also feel very strongly that the United States should be a big brother for justice there."

ITT maintains it builds no offensive weapons such as bombs and guns, but it passed out a statement at the meeting that "ITT feels that American industry must continue to support the goals of legitimate forms of national defense until such time as our nation can be sure in this peace."

Nixon On Potomac After Viet Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After private meetings on the mining of North Vietnamese harbors, President Nixon relaxed Wednesday night on a dinner cruise aboard the Navy yacht "Sequoia."

Mrs. Nixon joined the President for the two-hour dinner cruise on the Potomac River.

China Says Blockade Is Provocation

HONG KONG (UPI)—China today called President Nixon's blockade of North Vietnam "a flagrant provocation" and said it would do everything in its power to support and assist Communist forces throughout Indochina.

The Chinese reaction came in a commentator's article in the People's Daily, official newspaper of the Chinese Communist party. The article was broadcast by the New China News Agency and monitored here.

"This is a dangerous move on the part of the U.S. imperialism to extend the war of aggression against the people of Vietnam and the world over," the article said. "The Chinese people express the greatest indignation at and the strongest condemnation of this grave act of war escalation of U.S. imperialism."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Treaties Delayed

BONN (UPI) — Opposition Christian Democrats today demanded clarification from both Moscow and the West German government before they will approve nonaggression treaties with Russia and Poland.

The treaties were to have come up for a vote in Parliament this week, but Chancellor Willy Brandt bowed yesterday to opposition demands for a postponement —demands made when Russia raised last-minute questions about West German interpretation of the pacts.

Parliamentary consideration of the treaties was suspended until next Wednesday to give all parties time to find their way out of the confusion over interpretation of the treaties. It was the third postponement in as many weeks.

A NATO Warning

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Soviet advances in sea power and electronic warfare threaten the West's entire defense structure in Europe, a North Atlantic Assembly report warned today.

The report urged an increased North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) naval presence in the North Atlantic, protection for oil tankers plying between the Middle East and Europe and increased U.S. sharing of its electronic expertise with its European allies.

"The threat to NATO's security," the report said, "is coming increasingly from the sea and is increasingly taking the form of a Soviet capability to outflank NATO-Europe by cutting off its oil, reinforcement and supply routes from the North Atlantic.

Abortion Repeal

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York Senate narrowly passed a bill last night to repeal the two-year-old law which allows abortions for any reason in the first 24 weeks of pregnancy. It replaced it with one that would permit an abortion only when the mother's life is in danger.

The measure, approved by a 30-27 vote in the Senate and passed by the Assembly the night before, went to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for his almost certain veto.

It would replace one of the most liberal abortion laws in the nation with its 142-year-old predecessor.

Spanish Pamphlet

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Acting to comply with a 1970 court ruling, Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. has issued a Spanish-language pamphlet containing information about the June 6 ballot propositions.

The pamphlets, a Spanish version of the regular voter pamphlet, are being mailed to county clerks, the Spanish language news media and Mexican-American service organizations throughout the state.

Boyle On Stand

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — United Mine Workers President W. A. (Tony) Boyle appeared before a federal grand jury yesterday to dispel "wild innuendos" involving the murder of UMW leader Joseph A. Yablonski, his attorney said.

The UMW president spent one hour and 20 minutes before the panel, which is investigating the murder. On the advice of his lawyers, he did not meet with newsmen after his appearance.

"He answered every question with no hesitation and no reluctance," UMW general council Edward Carey said afterwards.

A Lucky Astronaut

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Astronaut Charles (Pete) Conrad parachuted safely out of a crippled T38 jet trainer last night, landing only 100 yards from the base operations building at Bergstrom Air Force Base.

Conrad was not hurt. He had been on a flight from Georgia to Houston, was diverted to Austin because of bad weather, and then developed some kind of aircraft problem while approaching Bergstrom for an emergency landing.

Air Force officials would not say exactly what the problem was. It crashed in an open field two miles east of Bergstrom and was destroyed.

Join McGovern

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Six lawyers, charging that President Nixon is trying to roll back civil rights achievements, have resigned from the Justice Department to join the presidential campaign of Sen. George S. McGovern.

They said in a statement Wednesday that the administration "has retreated from the national commitment to racial equality."

"This administration must be challenged at the polls by an informed American public," said the statement by Arthur Chotin, Richard Green, Richard Master, Thomas O'Neil, Arthur Wolf and Ruth Zack.

All six were "line attorneys" in the Civil Rights Division and worked under supervisory lawyers.

Engraving Tools To Fight Thefts

The Larkspur Chamber of Commerce has appropriated money to buy four electric engraving tools to give to the Larkspur Police Department for use in Operation Identification, according to Sue Schaefer, president.

She said the tools, which together cost $32, will be loaned by the police department to citizens so that drivers license numbers can be etched on valuables, making them easier to trace if stolen.

Tight Job Market For Older, Talented People

By MARC NURRE

Employers turn a deaf ear when they find out that job applicant Edwin H. Hilden of San Rafael is 63 years old.

It doesn't matter, he says, that he worked successfully for 20 years with a mechanical engineering firm which finally went broke, leaving him jobless at an age when most men think about retiring.

It doesn't seem to matter that he speaks seven foreign languages and that he has also had experience as a hospital orderly and a jeweler.

It matters only that he is 63 years old in a tight job market when most employers seek younger persons who are, in the abbreviated jargon of the help-wanted advertisements, "career-minded".

He is but one of more then 400 other persons, men and women, ranging from unskilled to highly-skilled, who are over 45 and registered with the State Department of Human Resource Development in San Rafael. Their inability to find work is a loss to the community, the department says.

"What they don't understand is, what's in my head cannot be replaced by textbooks," said Hilden. "I tell you truthfully, I don't like to be inactive. It's a terrible thing to sit at home and do nothing and to have to sit and wait and wait for someone to call you.

EDWIN H. HILDEN
Wants to keep busy

"I think it's all due to my age. It can be the only answer that I know of."

The short, stocky man with a white moustache continued: "As far as the dollars and cents are concerned, it isn't a question of money — it's a question of being occupied.

"I even tried to get one of these crossing guard jobs and I was told they don't hire men anymore, they only hire women."

Blanche McKee, 53, of Mill Valley, is in a similar situation. A full charge bookkeeper, she has been out of work for four months. No one ever tells her she's "too old" to work for them, she said. They tell her she's "too experienced" for the positions she seeks.

She has theory that a woman who really needs work is up against an even roughter time in Marin County than elsewhere. This is so, she says, because the job market is glutted by housewives who will work for less just to have something to do.

"These women have gotten children past the babysitter stage," she said. "The women didn't like housework to begin with, so they go out and offer to take much less money than a single person can live on."

The small, trim woman said she has lived in Marin County for 32 years, and wants to remain here even though finding a job is so difficult. She is registered with many employment agencies and scans the paper each day looking for something suitable.

She said she has responded to at least 20 ads in the last four months and sent her resume and a cover letter, but has heard from one company only, and that one didn't work out.

Many of the ads contain the reference "must want a career," she said. "Well, that's where they want a young girl. If they're worded that way, you just don't even bother with them."

Marvin O. Price, 59, of San Rafael, has such varied experience that there are many jobs for which he is qualified.

After getting out of the Army after World War II, the small, wiry man worked as a coal miner, tungsten miner, electrician, refrigeration technician, truck driver, guard, aircraft worker and deck hand.

His last job was as a machinist for seven years, but that job ended in March of 1970. Except for eight weeks as a janitor and maintenance man, he has been unemployed ever since.

"I've been discouraged," he admits. In fact, he said, "I'm beginning to suffer from apathy now."

How can the situation for older workers be improved? "I haven't the slightest idea," he admits, though he thinks national policy changes such as banning immigration and calling for repayment of loans to foreign countries would bring more money into the country and help the job situation.

Statistics showing the number of older workers now seeking jobs in Marin County are unavailable, said Edwin W. Ayer, manager of the State Department of Human Resources Development in San Rafael. But, he said, he believes they would be much the same as for a six-month period ending last December.

Then, he said, there were 456 persons 45 or older seeking work in the county who had registered with his department. During that period, 53 persons were placed in jobs. He said the 456 was out of a total department registration in Marin of 4,140.

"Industry and society need the contribution in wisdom and experience which mature workers can make, if given the opportunity," Ayer said.

"Too often, workers over 45 have found employment opportunities restricted in their customary occupations because of having passed some chronological benchmark."

Chevelle Malibu Sport Coupe and Impala Sport Sedan.

There are certain things no family should start out on vacation without.

Things that will help make your trip more enjoyable and less worrisome. We've packed many such things into our Chevelles and Impalas, the two most popular cars in their fields.

Chevelle: the most popular intermediate.

Impala: the most popular full-size car.

"Talking" seat belts.

Traveling around, getting in and out of the car a lot, it's easy to forget about buckling up.

Consequently, every new Impala and Chevelle has a front seat belt reminder system that speaks up if you try to start out before buckling. A buzzer buzzes and a light flashes to make sure you get the message.

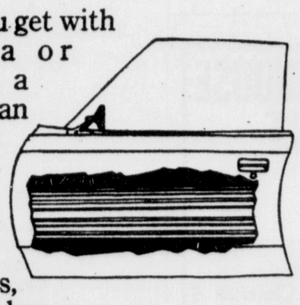
What you get with an Impala or Chevelle is a body that's an all-welded steel superstructure, painstakingly put together. In other words, a Body by Fisher.



You get a sturdy steel guard beam in every door for added protection in case of side impact.

You get a steel cargo guard that walls off the passenger compartment from the trunk and helps keep everything in its place.

Up inside the fenders: inner fenders to protect against corrosion and kicked-up stones.

What you get, in both of these popular cars, is a lot of built-in strength and durability.

Good things to have along as you travel.

Let's talk comfort.

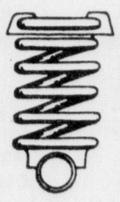
Impala is one of the roomiest cars around.

And Chevelle, though slightly smaller, gives you room for six. Plus plenty of baggage.

But comfort is more than just room.



So at all four wheels we've put big coil springs to gentle up your ride.

And between the body and the frame we've placed a network of little rubber cushions to help keep things quiet inside.

There's even more.

Here are a few more items you'll be taking along this summer if you travel in a new Impala or Chevelle:

A tough acrylic lacquer finish.

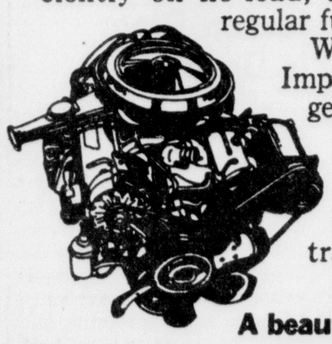
An engine that operates efficiently on no-lead, low-lead, or regular fuel.



Why, on the Impala, you even get power steering, power disc brakes and Turbo Hydra-matic transmission—all standard.

A beautiful choice.

We suggest you stop by your Chevrolet dealer's soon, to take a close look at the 1972 Chevelle or Impala. Take them for a drive.

It's nice to know that whichever way you go, you'll be getting a whole lot of car.

Packed with good old American value.

Have a good trip.

RICHARD W. BEBAN
Seeks investigation

REBA G. MASON
Cites inmate death

Beban Says Stabbing Study To Be Pressed

Richard W. Beban, maverick member of the Marin County Grand Jury, said today he would press for an investigation by the panel of the May 1 stabbing death of an inmate at San QuentinPrison.

Marian Dale Cook, 32, was knifed in the east cell block of the prison. Beban, joined at a press conference at the College of Marin by two members of the Committee for Prisoner Humanity and Justice, said the group believed prison officials had not conducted an adequate investigation of the death and of prison slayings in general.

Reba G. Mason, one of the three, intimated a connection may exist between Cook's death and the inmate's activity in the prison reform movement.

An investigation of the Cook death by the grand jury, Beban said, would offer a "chance for the grand jury to acquit itself after the bullxxxx it has been issuing."

Beban indicated previous jury reports of conditions at San Quentin have been superficial.

WAR

sharp cutback in American air raids over the north today and only 200 planes crossed into the area in daylight hours as contrasted with the 300 or more that struck the Hanoi-Haiphong area Wednesday.

Those raids produced the biggest aerial battles of the war between supersonic U.S. F4 Phantoms and supersonic MIG21s. The U.S. command reported 10 MIGs shot down and three American planes lost with four pilots missing and two rescued. Hanoi claimed 16 U.S. planes shot down and "many" pilots captured.

The battle produced the first aces of the Vietnamese War—Pilot Lt. Randy Cunningham of Mira Mesa, near San Diego, Calif., and his radar officer, Lt. JG William Driscoll, of Framingham, Mass. They were the first to shoot down three MIGs in the same day, but their own plane was lost and they parachuted into the China Sea and were rescued.

Saigon reports said as many as 60 ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet were off North Vietnam to carry out Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird's promise that no supplies would reach the North Vietnamese military. Both destroyers and cruisers bombarded targets in the Haiphong area.

The American actions touched off angry reactions in Moscow, in Peking where the Chinese called the blockade a "flagrant provocation" and in Hanoi where the North Vietnamese called the mining a "crazy act of war escalation" and called on their Communist allies to stop it.

The blockade and the bombings touched off angry protest demonstrations throughout the United States, and thousands of demonstrators battled police, barricaded streets and besieged government and campus buildings Wednesday in the third night of angry protests.

In London, Britain once more tried to reconvene the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina—efforts blocked so far by Russia, the cochairman. This time the British Foreign Office called on India to help. India is the neutral member of the three-nation International Control Commission set up after the 1954 conference to oversee peace efforts in Indochina. The other members are Poland and Canada.

In Washington, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, chief of naval operations, said the mining of the North Vietnamese harbors and the bombing of rail lines would have an immediate psychological effect on the North Vietnamese war effort.

Officials concede that Hanoi's offensive forces have stockpiled enough supplies to sustain their campaign for some time but Zumwalt said the Hanoi leaders now face the prospect that the incoming flow of supplies will be slowed to a trickle or zero and that they must decide whether to throw present supplies into one big push or into a series of smaller efforts.

In South Vietnam there was no indication of any slowing down of the North Vietnamese offensive.

North Vietnamese forces carried out a series of coordinated attacks on bases and outposts 30 miles northwest of Saigon early today. They hit the town of An Loc 60 miles north of Saigon with 7,000 rounds of rocket and artillery shells during the night—the heaviest single attack of the war—before sending in tanks and troops in yet another attack on the beleaguered town.

WATER

mand most of that additional water, or 3,500 acre-feet.

5. Alternative plans for future water supply are being studied, but no specific program has yet been proposed.

"A substantial number of new connections added to our system at this time would impair our ability to serve our existing customers," Miller said. Director Jack R. Felson concurred. "If any of these large developments come in, where do we get the water for them?"

The directors stressed it is not the water district's function to control growth in tha county by limiting water, but said the district's primary obligation is to serve its existing customers.

David Greenlee, executive manager of the Marin Builders Exchange, registered strong opposition to a connection ban. He said that $95 million worth of homes, factories and other buildings were constructed in Marin in 1971. "Of that $45 million went for payroll," Greenlee said, and added: "If we take $45 million out of the pockets of people working for a living, there will be economic disaster."

Developer Paul Broman argued that it was not likely the next winter would be a dry one, since two-year droughts had occurred in Marin only five times in the last 90 years and contended a moratorium on connections was too extreme a step to take without more evidence that a critical water shortage would develop.

Dr. Ronald Stafford, a candidate for the water district board from the Fifth District (Sausalito, Marin City, Belvedere, Tiburon and Tamalpais Valley) said the district must act now to insure a continuing, ample water supply for present users. He supported the proposed ban. "The public should not be forced to approve a bond issue by the threat their faucets will run dry if they don't vote 'yes.' "

Greenlee said the value of much property in the county will drop significantly if the land becomes undevelopable because of the freeze on new water connections and said this devaluation will lower Marin's tax base. If we decrease the tax base, everybody's going to pay for it."

As an interim method of saving water, the board yesterday adopted a voluntary water conservation program.

Canadians Desperate To Stop Oil Shipping

By BRUCE HUTCHISON
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

VICTORIA, B.C. — The Canadian government is making a last desperate effort to forestall the sea transport of Alaskan oil to Washington state, risking spills on the British Columbia coast.

If the United States will agree, instead, to use an overland pipeline through Canada, it can get extra Canadian oil from existing fields to meet its temporary requirements until the costly Alaskan oil project is completed several years from now.

Ottawa's proposal was outlined privately to President Nixon on his recent Canadian visit and later disclosed to Parliament.

Donald MacDonald, minister of energy, said the controversial trans-Alaskan pipeline system might face such long delays in the courts of the United States that a line up Canada's Mackenzie River valley could be built first.

Admitting that this alternative overland route has been slow to take shape, MacDonald said the necessary studies would be finished by the end of the year. Then late in 1973, the National Energy Board could make a final decision on the plan.

Canada has sought to expand its oil exports to the American market because it realizes the United State's need for reliable northern fuel, should overseas supplies ever be cut. But there is no indication yet that Canada's present quotas limiting these exports will be limited, MacDonald added.

As this official discussion of energy resources continued, Canadians suddenly learned the United States already is surveying a channel through the Strait of Juan de Fuca for tankers carrying Alaskan oil to a refinery at Cherry Point, Washington.

The appearance of a survey ship in neighboring American waters deeply alarmed the government and people of British Columbia. They are concerned that the United States is determined to go ahead with the Alaska pipeline and Canadian sea route despite its environmental hazards and Canada's objections.

In Ottawa, however, these long-term international problems were overshadowed by immediate political uncertainties and grave labor disputes.

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau must call a national election during the next week or so if it is to be held before the summer holiday season. His Liberal Party and the opposition anxiously await either his decisive word or a continued silence, which would mean an election in the autumn or next year.

Meanwhile Quebec settled the largest strike in Canadian history. A law pushed hastily through the legislature forced 200,000 provincial government employees to resume their duties after 11 days of idleness and much public hardship. The civil-service unions talked of joining the unions in private business to hold a general 24-hour strike on May 1 as a protest against the new law.

In British Columbia, deadlocked negotiations between the huge forest industry and its workers seemed to threaten a long summer strike and nationwide economic loss.

PROTESTS

the John F. Kennedy building in Boston, and between 100 and 150 persons were taken into custody. Others were seized as they tried to halt workers going into an army research laboratory at Hanover, N.H.

Pickets carrying pamphlets again disrupted traffic on Chicago's Lake Shore Drive, a main automobile artery for workers bound for Loop area and downtown jobs in Chicago. Police arrested 16.

Some of the demonstrations were marked by rock-throwing, window-smashing, burning and in a few cases looting.

The University of Minnesota placed the school under police jurisdiction today as National Guardsmen patrolled the campus. The decision was reached following a meeting between school officials, students and city and state representatives at a meeting in the home of Minneapolis Mayor Charles Stenvig.

Gov. Wendell Anderson activated three units of the guard totaling 715 men when Stenvig reported the situation was "very critical" Wednesday night.

Stenvig's plea for help came after 150 policemen clashed with a crowd of 2,000 demonstrators who had stopped traffic in the campus area, overturned and burned a car and thrown rocks and bottles at police. Tear gas was used to break up the crowd and 30 persons were arrested.

Nearly 1,000 persons have been arrested in protests across the nation since President Nixon announced in a televised address to the nation Monday night that he had ordered the mining of North Vietnam ports and bombing of supply routes. The announcement resulted in the most widespread and turbulent protests since May, 1970, when four Kent State University students were slain by National Guardsmen.

In Carbondale, Ill., a curfew was imposed for the second night after police used tear gas on at least three occassions to break up groups of rock throwing protesters on and off campus at Southern Illinois University. At least 16 persons were arrested today for curfew violations.

Three hundred riot-equipped police clashed with 2,000 University of Florida students at Gainesville, using tear gas to disperse crowds. Arrests swelled to 140 early today, bringing the two-day arrest total there to at least 359. At least seven persons also were arrested at the University of Southern Florida and 34 at Florida State University.

Housing Study Continues Today

The Sausalito Planning Commission will continue its study of a tentative map for a proposed 204-unit subdivision on Wolfback Ridge at a special adjourned meeting at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The development, planned by Edward R. Fitzsimmons and Frank Lynch, would be located on 160 acres of the ridge.

The commission will also continue consideration of a ferry terminal policy for Sausalito.

Jordan Dinar Is Devalued

AMMAN (UPI)—The Jordanian government today announced an 8.49 per cent devaluation of the Jordanian dinar.

A government statement said the devaluation was made necessary by recent financial developments, particularly devaluation of the American dollar.

The devaluation returned the dollar and the dinar to their old rate relationship—$2.80 to the dinar.

His body was found lying next to his pickup truck about 7:48 a.m. by a passerby, police said.

Stegora apparently placed a shotgun shell inside a pipe and detonated it with a hammer and nail, according to police.

The victim had had a history of heart trouble, according to Donald L. Cornish, coroner's deputy. He reported a shot had been heard in the Smith Ranch Road area about 3 p.m. Wednesday.

Two Women Are Hurt In Crash

Two women were treated for injuries following a two-car collision yesterday at Second and Shaver streets in San Rafael.

Towana Wallace, 19 of 805 Rosal Way, San Rafael, was treated for neck strain at Marin General Hospital. The passenger in her car, Maureen Barnacle, 17, of 190 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital, San Rafael, for a cut right knee.

According to police, the Wallace car and one driven by Roger A. Smith, 18, of 24800 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, collided at 7:43 p.m. after the Wallace car failed to stop for a flashing red light. She was cited for failure to stop and for not having a valid driver's license, police said.

Sausalito Police Probe Is Halted

By LARRY MOWELL

Claiming the Marin County Grand Jury exceeded its authority by probing Sausalito police, the city's police association yesterday won an order temporarily halting the investigation.

The order signed by presiding Judge Henry J. Broderick of Marin Superor Court also prevents any jury communication with the committee of the Sausalito City Council, also investigating police operations, until a court hearing May 26 on whether the order should be declared permanent.

The 19-member grand jury recommended in March the removal of the city's police chief and his two top subordinates following an eight-month investigation requested last year by Alexander R. Imlay, then Sausalito mayor.

Even though sought by the mayor, the investigation and resulting report went beyond the jurisdiction of the grand jury, Michael H. Metzger, an attorney for police, maintained yesterday.

"I want the jury changed by the court with what its functions are. It is apparently totally unaware of its jurisdictional limits. The result is it ends up violating the law," he said.

The action states the report has caused the police "irreparable damage" and subjected them to "public censor to the same degree as if they had been formally accused while at the same time it deprived (the police) of the right to defend themselves and to have their day in court — their absolute right had the grand jury returned an accusation."

Metzger emphasized police are not trying to prevent an investigation, but want to halt an improper investigation.

He said that if the grand jury investigation is halted, the police association will seek to have the controversial recommendation of March 27 expunged, then may seek some sort of public airing of the charges.

In supporting documents to the order, Metzger and attorney Harry C. Singer questioned whether the grand jury was empowered to make the investigation and to take the action it did.

In the case of a city official, they said, the grand jury can investigate only willful and corrupt misconduct in office or criminal charges.

"Since the existence or nonexistence of a quota system constitutes neither willful nor corrupt misconduct, the Grand jury had no power whatsoever, even though requested, to engage in an investigation concerning arrest quotas," the attorneys argued.

Even if the investigation were legal, the jury was required either to issue an accusation or keep its deliberation secret, the supporting document said.

Instead, the jury issued a recommendation that the officers be fired, an action the attorney compared to merely suggesting someone committed a crime.

Metzger said the grand jury had handled the investigation "like 19 ordinary people doing surgery."

After a preliminary report of a grand jury subcommittee on the Sausalito police was leaked to the press, the grand jury formally recommended firing Chief James D. Wright, Capt. R. David Malkin and Lt. William Fraass.

Angrily rejecting the recommendation, the Sausalito City Council said the grand jury offered no evidence to back its stand and began an investigation of its own.

Jury foreman, Milen C. Dempster has said testimony on other matters than the quota system was not presented to the grand jury.

Police Budget's Review Planned

A preliminary budget of almost $825,000 — including more than $213,000 for the city's first police force — will be reviewed at 7:30 p.m. today by the Tiburon City Council.

According to city mgr. Bert A. Balmer, the proposed budget will increase the city's tax rate by 1.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, from 73.5 to 75 cents.

The increased rate is expected, according to Balmer, despite the fact that the city's total assessed valuation is expected to climb more than $1 million to approximately $30 million.

The city's expanded budget includes $118,000 to acquire six acres of Blackie's Pasture and almost five acres adjacent to the Hilarita and Reed schools for development into two new city parks.

It also provides $10,000 to hire a park and recreation consultant to prepare a master plan for the development of Tiburon's waterfront from San Rafael Avenue to Blackie's Pasture.

The new police force will cost the city $67,000 more than this year's contract with the Marin County Sheriff's Department for seven officers and one clerk-dispatcher.

Beginning July 1, when the new police force takes over, the city will double its personnel to 11 officers and five clerk-dispatchers.

The new force will maintain an open police station 16 hours a day and offer, for the first time, around-the-clock communication capability.

Budget figures for 1972-1973, with this year's figures in parentheses, are:

City council $700 ($700); city attorney $15,400 ($11,400); city manager $36,396 ($34,961); city engineer $15,500 ($22,250); public works $78,376 ($75,590); community development $51,118 ($62,350); and parks and recreation $21,650 ($11,010). Retirement system $33,000 ($11,196) and equipment replacement $13,500 ($14,446); general services $44,800 ($49,928); capital expenditures $218,000 ($227,200); contingency fund $20,000 ($40,000) and general expense $50,200 ($28,720)

Protest Time Given Students

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)— The University of Kansas' student-faculty senate has given students the right to drop out of school without penalty, but also without credit, to give them time to protest President Nixon's Vietnam policy.

But the senate did not go as far this time as it did in 1970 during U.S. action in Cambodia when it allowed students to skip finals and still get credit for their courses.

The ruling Wednesday, coming in response to student demands that schoolwork be reduced to give them time to demonstrate against the war in Indochina, said if students miss final exams they will not get failing grades, but they will not get credit.

Report On EOC Future Greeted With Praise And Some Doubts

By ERIK M. INGRAM

A report outlining the future of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council was praised by some last night and criticized by others as offering few services to the poor.

The spirited debate on the document came during a special meeting of the EOC board attended by less than a quorum of members.

Consultant Benjamin I. Young of Belvedere, hired at $100 a day last month to help pick up the pieces of the financially shattered agency, conceded that the so-called "work program" offered few direct services to Marin's poor. However, he told the board, the agency's meager budget of $113,000 for next year doesn't leave much "seed money" for funding direct services after the poverty agency's bills are paid.

As a result, he said, the EOC must strive to make sure other social service agencies are doing their job and help fill in the gaps where needed.

The document, liberally laced with bureaucratic jargon, claims the EOC's future success "will be measured not by the services it provides directly but rather by the improvements and changes it achieves in Marin County's attitudes and practices toward the poor. . ."

Board member J. Kevin Donovan, an attorney, remained unswayed by Young's endorsement of the document, which will be submitted to county supervisors along with a request for $42,000.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Young, this is a hollow document," he said. "With a $113,000 budget all we're really offering is an emergency food program at $2,400. Is it worth it?"

(The agency's proposed budget, broken down into two six-month periods, lists some $90,000 in salaries. The remaining amount — besides the $2,400 food program —would go to operational costs, such as rent and supplies. Other revenues, not included in the operating budget, would be used to pay past debts.)

"It doesn't make sense to me," Donovan told Young. "You were hired not only to put the agency in fiscal shape but to develop a program. This document doesn't do it."

"I think it does," responded Young, who reported earlier the document had been drafted by employee Gail Theller.

Young drew support from chairman Barbara Eaton and board members Robert P. Simmons, Adelaide P. Wilson and William S. Mrdecai, among others.

Mrs. Eaton, responding to criticism voiced by Donovan, said the "new direction" of the agency will be to stimulate activities by others —a catalyst approach." In the months to come, she said, "the EOC will be less obvious."

Simmons —who later in the meeting said the lengthy document should have a 10-page explanation "written in plain English" — blamed the agency's past failures on trying to provide services rather than encouraging others.

Young added that the proposal had received the "warmest response" from the directors of other poverty agencies.

Mrs. Eaton, meanwhile, said she and Young had been discussing some direct services but had not included them in the document since they were still unformulated. Being considered, she said, are a soup kitchen in San Rafael and taking over off-hour suicide prevention calls.

Miss Theller said the document was simply a structure in which programs such as those mentioned could be developed. She outlined a proposal that the EOC consider going into the referral business.

"The basic question is: is this worth $113,000?" Donovan persisted. "I'm concerned where this $113,000 is going to be spent."

The document is expected to be taken up again next Wednesday during another special meeting called to interview candidates for the positions of executive director and controller.

55,000 Die On Roads During 1971

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Transportation Safety Board estimated Thursday that 59,215 persons lost their lives in transportation accidents in 1971, 55,080 of them in auto mishaps.

The board said its preliminary statistics for last year showed an increase of 421 deaths over the 1970 toll, with an increase of 200 deaths in auto accidents accounting for almost half the total increase.

Other modes of transportation and the 1971 death toll included: a rise in deaths due to airline accidents from 146 to 199; an increase from 1,254 to 1,322 in general aviation (light plane) crashes, and a climb from 1,418 to 1,582 in deaths due to boating mishaps.

Railroads showed a decrease, with the number of fatalities dropping from 706 in 1970 to 607 in 1971.

Board Chairman John H. Reed, in releasing the prelinary figures, described the toll as "a double tragedy —tragic in the terrible toll which our nation can ill afford, and tragic in that these statistics show a repersal of the hopeful downward trend of 1970."

He noted that the 1970 total of 58,794 transportation-related deaths had been 1,302 fewer than 1969's toll.

Sewer Districts Union Scrapped

The Marin County Local Agency Formation commission last night scrapped a proposal to consolidate eight southern and central Marin sanitary districts under a single agency.

County administrator John F. Barrows, who recommended the consolidation earlier this year, said today he requested the proposal be rejected "without prejudice" pending outcome of current engineering studies.

"I heard a couple commission members say something on consolidation will be back in the future," Barrows said, indicating his general idea of one overall agency is not dead.

Barrows said the commission also scrapped a counter proposal from several of the sanitary districts that a single agency be formed to handle treatment of sewage only. Collection of raw sewage would have remained under control of the individual districts.

Barrows proposal would have dissolved the eight districts and would have placed their sewage collection and disposal responsibilities under the Marin Municipal Water District.

He switched his position, however, after new engineering studies, covering the entire eastern portion of the county, were started. Results of those studies may show it unfeasible to limit consolidation to Southern Marin.

The affected sanitary districts included Alto, Homestead Valley, Richardson Bay, Almonte, Sausalito-Marin City, Tiburon, Corte Madera and Ross Valley.

The commission continued to its July meeting a request that Nicasio Reservoir be annexed to the Marin Municipal Water District. The district owns the lake but has never annexed it.

The commission, in moving the continuance, said it wanted more information on how the annexation will affect taxes.

The Correct Age

Man Booked In Crash Of Stolen Car

A Corte Madera man yesterday was booked at county jail after a car stolen from a Fairfax home was wrecked in San Anselmo.

Booked by Fairfax police on suspicion of car theft was Leland Howard Jones, 22, of 81 Lakeside Court. He was held in lieu of $1,225 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Jones was the driver of a car which smashed into a light post and cement wall at 12:47 a.m. Wednesday, at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Spaulding Avenue, San Anselmo police said. Routine checks showed the car had been stolen two hours earlier from the 241 Cascade Drive home of James C. Welch, in Fairfax.

Jones, who had been taken to Marin General Hospital following the wreck was arrested by Fairfax police as he was released from the hospital several hours later.

Planners Seek More Open Space

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night said it wants the city to preserve 130 acres of open space along the peninsula's ridge line, 40 more than the 90 acres previously proposed by the city manager and planning staff.

According to director of community development Richard G. Arjo, the commission reviewed the open space of all 30 parcels under consideration before making its informal recommendation. The decision will be acted upon formally by the planning commission at its next meeting.

The commission's recommendation, said Arjo, was basically a confirmation of a previous policy towards open space in Tiburon by the city council.

Arjo explained that a recommendation to preserve open space is not the same as a recommendation to acquire open space.

Werber Decides Against Leave From Jail For Fatherhood Role

On the day he was to begin a three-week vacation from jail to be at the birth of his child, Frank N. Werber changed his mind about the leave he fought for the week before.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday again changed Werber's sentence so he will complete a six-month jail term on June 13 for a marijuana conviction.

Last Thursday, after a moving speech by Werber, the judge gave him leave from yesterday until the end of the month to be present when 18-year-old Diane Barrett bears his child.

The birth is expected prior to May 21.

The 42-year-old former owner of the Trident restaurant in Sausalito had sought to have his sentence cut short for the natural home delivery of the child, but the judge told him he would have to come back and serve the final five weeks of his sentence beginning June 1.

However, he decided it would be more "psychologically disruptive" to go back to jail after the birth than to complete his sentence now, according to his attorney, Colleen Gershon.

Werber was convicted in April 1970 of possessing and growing pot and Judge McGuire sentenced him to six months in jail and three years probation and a $2,000 fine.

He did not begin serving the sentence until appeals were exhausted in January.

FAMOUS BEDSPREAD — According to Vice President Agnew's office yesterday, this bedspread was sent by Maine's Democratic Gov. Kenneth Curtis a day after the vice-president's car was pelted with food and other debris by antiwar protestors when Agnew was in Maine to speak at the Republican State Convention. Agnew plans to return the bedspread. But an 89-year-old immigrant born in the same section of Greece as Agnew's father now says he was the one who sent Agnew the bedspread.

Petaluma Bike Path Study Due

The Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission last night approved an in-depth study for bicycle paths throughout the city.

Recreation director James R. Raymond told the commission a survey should be taken to determine the best and safest bicycle routes as well as a survey on bicycle uses.

Raymond said paths should be set up for recreational riding, for students riding bicycles to schools and for the increasing number of Petaluma workers who have abandoned cars and are riding bicycles to their jobs.

Raymond said he hoped hills could be marked for paths as well as the flat portion of the city. An application for state funds for the study has been filed.

The Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission also:

RIVER PARK — Heard a report that nothing has been decided yet on county funding for the proposed Petaluma River Park adjacent to the city boat launching ramp.

CELEBRATION — Approved plans for an "old fashioned" Fourth of July celebration with a community barbecue, contests such as sack races and pie-eating as well as the traditional fireworks display at the Sonoma-Marin fairgrounds.

GRANT — Heard that an application has been filed for a $20,000 federal grant to complete La Tercera Park.

LIGHTS — Heard that new lights will be installed at McNear Park in two weeks.

Four Candidates Are Endorsed

Two candidates for Marin County supervisor, including one of its own officers, were endorsed last night by Marin Alternative.

Secretary Madeleine Sloan said the group, in split votes, backed its vice chairman Barbara Boxer in her bid for the Second Supervisorial District seat in the June 6 election, and attorney Gary T. Giacomini in the four-way fourth district race.

The organization failed to make an endorsement in the third district race when incumbent Michael Wornum fell just short of obtaining the needed 70 per cent favorable vote. Wornum's opponent is Rev. Uamuel J. Banks Jr.

The secretary said the endorsement of Mrs. Boxer, a one-time stockbroker seeking to unseat incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., was nearly unanimous, while Giacomini outpolled James C. Dougan, Michael R. Peevey and Patricia T. Maginnis.

Dr. William J. Filante of Greenbrae also is in the second district race.

Sen. George McGovern was endorsed for president with just over 70 per cent of the vote.

A total of 38 ballots was cast.

A father and son art show by creative photographer Fred C. Berensmeier of Forest Knolls and collographic prints by his son Fred L. Berensmeier of Lagunitas is on display throughout this month in the San Rafael Library.

Maine Greek Claims He Sent Bedspread

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An 89-year-old immigrant born in the same section of Greece as Spiro T. Agnew's father says he was the one who sent the vice president a bedspread as a gift.

Aides to Agnew say they were not "aware of any Greeks bearing gifts" and consider the bedspread an unacceptable present from Maine Gov. Kenneth Curtis, a Democrat. They said the gift has been mailed back to the governor in Augusta, Maine.

Curtis said he did not and would never send Agnew a gift.

The way aides in Agnew's office tell it, the bedspread was sent by Curtis a day after Agnew's car was pelted with food and other debris by antiwar protesters when the vice president was in Maine to speak at the Republican state convention.

Agnew wrote Curtis he could not "in good conscience accept your gift" because he had received reports Curtis had encouraged the protesters and defended their unlawful actions.

Curtis denied sending the bedspread, described Agnew's letter as "juvenile" and said the vice president should find something better to do during a time of "national crisis."

Then A.J. "Tony" Petropulos, a former Lewiston, Maine, policeman and a former Republican county chairman, entered the controversy. He said Wednesday he was the one who purchased the "George Washington" style bedspread. He said he planned to give it to Agnew at the GOP state convention April 28.

Before he attended a VIP reception for Agnew, Petropulos said, someone took the box from him. It presumably was a Secret Service agent. He said he told Agnew he had left a gift for him and Agnew had replied he "would be happy to have it."

A staff member in Agnew's office was asked about the Petropulos account and said he "wasn't aware of any Greeks bearing gifts" on the Maine trip. The aide said the bedspread still was regarded as a gift from Curtis.

Agnew was in Hawaii.

Stereo Tape Deck, Tape Are Taken

A stereo tape deck and tapes worth a total of $130 were stolen from a car parked at 119 Nova Albion Way sometime between 7:30 p.m. Monday and 7 a.m. Tuesday, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Police believe thieves gained entry to the car — which belonged to Ryland R. Reeve, 18, of the Nova Albion address — by using a wire to unlock a door.

INSPECTS DAMAGE — A member of a Belfast inspect team views a bombed out building, one of the latest in a series of new bombings. Dixie School Budget Discussion Put Off

A budget up 6 per cent from this year was discussed last night by the Dixie School District board then put off until next month, according to Supt. Clifford W. Campbell.

The proposed $4,718,000 spending program for 1972-73 will be further discussed at 8 p.m. June 7? Campbell said.

The proposal, $268,000 higher than this year's budget of $4,450,000, included employee requests for pay raises, Campbell said. Teachers are asking a 3.6 per cent raise in the salary schedule and other employees are seeking up to 7.5 per cent in raises, he said. Those requests amount to $130,000, or half the total budget increase.

The property tax rate under the new proposal would rise a maximum of 22 cents, to $4.62 per $100 assessed valuation, Campbell said.

The board also heard reports from citizen groups on the budget, possible unification with the San Rafael district, and enrollment trends, the superintendent said.

"In essence, the budget committee felt district expenditures are reasonable; the unification committee presented a fact sheet to be distributed in the two districts prior to the June 6 election; and the enrollment committee forecast a continued decline of 200 students per year in the district," Campbell said.

He said enrollment, at 4,389 in 1971-72, will drop to 4,190 next year. In 1968, more than 4,900 students were in the district.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

LANDSCAPE — Accepted a $353 donation from the Don Timoteo School Club for trees and bushes to landscape the school amphitheater.

LEASE — Terminated the lease, effective in July, for eight portable classrooms at Oak View school and two others at Miller Creek Junior High School.

BID — Set June 7 at 4 p.m. in the district office for opening of bids for construction of the Lucas Valley School amphitheater.

BENCHES — Approved $3,200 for purchase of picnic tables and benches for Oak View School, and $500 for a sprinkler system at Nova Albion School. The Oak View School Parent Group donated $2,200 for tables and benches, Campbell said.

ENGINEER — Agreed to hire an engineer at an estimated $300 to $400 to study possible building modification of Mary Silveira School.

SUMMER — Hired 55 teachers for the summer school session, with salaries ranging from $7.50 an hour to $1,000 for the five-week session.

RESIGN — Accepted resignations of teacher Suzane Henderson of Bernard Hoffman School and library assistant Edna Hansen of Lucas Valley School, both effective at the end of the current school year.

LEAVES — Granted leaves of absence for 1972-73 to teachers Olga Hemingway of Santa Margarita School, Beverly Craig of Miller Creek Junior High, and Dixie James of Oak View School.

TEACHERS — Decided it will not be necessary to terminate any district teachers for 1972-73. Although five teachers are on the layoff lists, "we decided that anticipated resignations and leaves would open up jobs for them," Campbell said.

MEET — Adjourned to its next regular meeting at 8 p.m. May 24.

Manslaughter Charge Killed

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)— Because of a State Supreme Court ruling, a superior court judge on Wednesday dismissed a vehicular manslaughter charge against the son of an underworld figure.

Judge W. Howard Hartley dismissed the charge against Gregory W. Genovese, a Daly City dentist who is the son of Vito Genovese.

The judge said the high court had prohibited police from taking blood samples without consent unless a person has been arrested. Taking the samples, which revealed barbiturates, was illegal search and seizure, the judge held.

Review Board For Freeway Given Push

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Assembly Ways and Means committee has approved legislation creating a coastal corridor review board to study a proposed freeway along the Pacific Coast in Orange County.

The bill by Assemblyman Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach, was sent to the floor Wednesday on a 12-0 vote.

Antiwar Singer Given New Job

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Singer Carole Feraci, who displayed a sign that read "stop the killing" during a White House performance for President Nixon last January, will begin working again this month.

The 30-year-old singer said since the incident she was having difficulty getting work.

Thursday, Connie Stevens announced she will hire Miss Feraci for a series of performances at the Magic Mountain Amusement Park, beginning May 26.

A spokesman said Miss Stevens has "no political axe to grind."

Terra Linda Annexation Talks Fading

After an hour-long noon conference yesterday, officials from both sides indicated little or no hope of a resumption in talks concerning annexation of Terra Linda to San Rafael.

William J. Bielser, San Rafael's assistant city manager, said the exploratory conference ended with each side "thinking about what we discussed with the idea of getting back to it in the near future."

But Robert N. Bennett, a member of the Terra Linda Community Services District board, said, "Before the meeting we were nowhere, and we still are. I don't anticipate another conference."

Walser had earlier said "it's only fair that the people of Terra Linda be able to decide if they want to grow with the city."

Terra Linda voters in 1961 had turned down an annexation proposal, and a meeting by officials from both sides in March 1971 failed, as merger talks reopened but with no subsequent action.

"We just talked about what we talked about before (March 1971)," Bennett said.

New Proposal On Equal Rights

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Senate leader James R. Mills, a "principal obstructionist" in blocking California ratification of the federal Equal Rights Amendment, today proposed submitting the issue to a nonbinding statewide plebiscite on the November ballot.

"A plebiscite would bring the Equal Rights Amendment discussion out in the open so all Californians would be in a better position to judge its merits," the San Diego Democrat said.

At a news conference, Mills announced he is introducing legislation to put the issue on the general election ballot. As a nonbinding expression of the voters, it would serve as an "advisory" to the legislature on whether or not to ratify the amendment, he said.

Magee Seeks Ouster Of Carrow In Case

San Quentin convict Ruchell Magee today filed a motion in Marin Superior Court to remove his cocounsel, whom he called "state agent" Robert D. Carrow.

In the latest of a long line of penciled petitions with which he has bombarded the courts for years, Magee said the Novato attorney has joined in a racist plot to obstruct his defense.

"The same state agent Carrow has methodically and skillfully, while acting in a racism combination with the Attorney General of California, proceeded to keep defendant in a bind and deprived of his absolute right to compel the attendance of any and all witnesses," the convict wrote.

He also charged Carrow with operating illegal Ruchell Magee defense committees "with the specific intent to defraud the public of U.S. monies."

Carrow was appointed in the murder, kidnap and conspiracy case stemming from the Civic Center shoot-out of August 1970 less than two months ago after Los Angeles attorney Ernest L. Graves was allowed to withdraw and Magee was allowed to become cocounsel in his own defense.

Magee is to be in court tomorrow on a motion for a change of venue.

Thorne Takes Stand In Angela Case; Phone Quiz

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Attorney John Thorne changed his mind today and testified about a telephone conversation with Angela Davis, but said he was mistaken when he told a grand jury it took place two days before the Marin County shoot-out.

On two previous occasions, Thorne, accompanied by his attorney, Charles Garry, had appeared in court in Miss Davis' murder-kidnap-conspiracy trial and refused to testify on grounds it would violate the attorney-client relationship.

Today, however, he answered questions while Garry remained silent.

Thorne testified for about 30 minutes before Judge Richard E. Arnason recessed the trial until next Monday morning.

Thorne was asked if he had a telephone conversation with Miss Davis on Aug. 5, 1970, two days before the Marin Civic Center gun-battle for which Miss Davis is being tried. Thorne replied that he had not.

The prosecutor, Albert W. Harris Jr., then read from a statement Thorne had given in the attorney general's office Sept. 29, 1970, in which he told of the conversation and placed a date on Aug. 5.

The statement said Miss Davis asked about a petition to be filed with the State Court of Appeal after a Superior Court had refused to allow Miss Davis visiting privileges as an investigator with Thorne's client, George Jackson.

Jackson was one of the so-called "Soledad Brothers" and the prosecution claims it was love for him that motivated Miss Davis in the Marin Civic Center gun battle.

In the telephone conversation, Miss Davis was reported to have told Thorne she was with Jonathan Jackson, 17, George's brother, and was en route to Santa Cruz to pick up "some of his clothes and stuff."

Young Jackson was one of three kidnapers killed in a gun battle outside the Marin County courthouse after Judge Harold J. Haley was abducted along with four other hostages. Haley also was killed.

IRA Troops Beat, Tar, Feather A Schoolgirl

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—For five days they beat her. Then they tore her hair out by the roots and shaved her head. Finally there was a public tarring and feathering.

That punishment, meted out by the Irish Republican Army (IRA) to a 15-year-old Belfast schoolgirl they accused of being a police informer, had even hardened troops and policemen shaking their heads.

Said one police officer: "We have come to expect some pretty low things from these people, but this must be one of the worst."

The girl was identified as Elizabeth Hyland, who lives in a Roman Catholic area of the city. Hospital spokesmen said today she was "recovering" but would give no details.

Army troops found her Wednesday night slumped against a lamppost in Belfast's Catholic Lower Falls area. A crowd of 200 persons stood silently by.

Police said the girl's sister, 19, also had been beaten by IRA men last week and has since suffered a nervous breakdown.

"The soldiers moved the crowd on and were horrified at what they found," a police spokesman said. "The girl was in a condition that can only be described as sickening."

The official IRA, in a statement circulated to the crowd, described the girl's treatment as "lenient."

It said no brutality had been used and went on: "This treatment is not regarded as severe considering the crimes to which she had admitted. Her age and sex were also taken into consideration. Let others be warned."

Her family told police she had been abducted from her home Friday night, held prisoner in various IRA hideouts and beaten regularly before the tarring and feathering.

In other developments:

Twenty-five persons were injured Wednesday when a bomb exploded in Belfast's largest department store. A spokesman for the Belfast Cooperative Store estimated damage at $26 million, one of the highest damage estimates for any single incident since secular violence broke out on the province in 1969.

The army said its Bligh's Lane post overlooking Londonderry's Roman Catholic Creggan Estate came under sniper fire throughout the night. Troops claimed at least four gunmen hit. There were also at least 18 sniper attacks on army units in Belfast with no casualties.

Roman Catholics clashed with Protestants in Portadown, 13 miles south of Belfast. The army said about 200 persons were involved on each side and that trouble broke out after Catholics stoned Protestants coming from a soccer game.

A Voice For Students Is Tossed Out

Faculty at the College of Marin yesterday rejected, better than three-to-one, a proposal to allow students to vote in hiring teachers.

Two measures were voted on during the faculty referendum, which ended yesterday. One sought approval of a new college policy on faculty selection, which would allow students voting representation during the faculty screening process.

The committees in which students were to be given votes only make recommendations to the president of the college and the Marin County Community College District board, which has the final decision in hiring faculty.

This proposal was rejected 124-54, with 178 of 256 eligible faculty members voting.

The other measure posed two broader questions not tied to specific proposals; should students have voting representation on department selection committees for new full-time faculty members (rejected 95 to 75) and should individual departments have the option of deciding whether students can vote on selection committees (rejected 95-67).

Alaskan Line Permit Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A spokesman for Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, said today the senator had been informed a permit for construction of a trans-Alaska oil pipeline was to be issued later in the day.

The spokesman said he did not know the exact route approved for the pipeline but that the Interior Department had said Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton would issue the permit.

The Alyeska Pipeline Co., formed by seven oil companies to build the pipeline, has applied for a route from the North Slope oil field to the icefree port of Valdez.

New Rates For Water Outlined

A proposal to change the Marin Municipal Water District's water rate structure and initiate water connection fees to help defray the cost of future water supplies was presented to the district board yesterday. (Another water district story, page 1.)

Directors took the recommendations, by John C. Luthin of Brown and Caldwell Engineers, under study and agreed to review them further at their June 14 meeting.

The plan would establish a uniform rate of 34 cents per 100 cubic feet of water used, regardless of the quantity consumed.

Larger water users, who now pay less for water used above 10,000 cubic feet (descending scale of charges ranging from 31 cents above 10,000 feet to 25 cents above 40,000 cubic feet) would experience the largest increases in their water bills, Luthin said.

Residential water customers, who use an average of 3,000 cubic feet during each two-month billing period, would not be affected by the rate change.

Luthin estimated the district's largest consumers would find their current water charges increased from 20 to 35 per cent.

The consultant also suggested that a system of connection fees be established to insure that those who create the need for additional water supply contribute to its cost.

He recommended connection fees ranging from $800 for a single-family dwelling to $2,400 per acre for commercial and industrial developments.

Marin Municipal Water District Board Also:

ASSISTANCE — Accepted an offer from Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, county health officer, to assist district staff in preparing water conservation hints.

GRADUATION — Agreed to rent the district's Rock Springs parking area on Mount Tamalpais to the Redwood High School senior class for graduation ceremonies.

COMMITTEE — Accepted the resignation of Cyril J. Hansen as the Sausalito-Marin City sanitary district's representative to the Improvement District A Advisory Committee and appointed George Carney to replace him.

PUMP SITE — Voted to pay $60,000 to the Soiland Co. for 1.5 acres of land in Nicasio for use as a new pumping station.

APPRAISER — Agreed to proceed with an appraisal of property in North Marin proposed for the Kastania pump station.

BOND PROGRAM — Heard a staff report on what projects in the district's 1970-74 bond program must be delayed in order to reduce the improvement program's cost from its current $14.5 million to the $11.5 million it was estimated to cost when voters approved it in 1970. Noting that inflation caused the rise in price, the staff recommended some storage facilities, including Chapman Reservoir be reduced, that construction of 110,210 feet of pipeline be delayed, that the number of storage tanks be reduced and more tanks added in a future bond issue.

SUBIDIVISION — Reviewed a tentative map for the proposed 109-unit Miller Creek subdivision in Marinwood and agreed to notify its developers that the district does not know if water will be available to serve the project.

BIDS — Awarded contracts to these low bidders: $10,503 to Groeniger and Co. for valves; $40,000 to Delta Switchboard of Sacramento for electrical material; $1,645 to Orrell-Keefe Inc. of Oakland for repainting of the Bon Tempe treatment plant; $13,208 to the Clay-Val Co. of Belmont, and $1,242 to Charles M. Bailey of Emeryville for control valves.

BONDS — Authorized sale of $7 million worth of bonds for the 1970-74 bond program.

PAYROLL — Agreed to install an automated payroll system in the district at a net cost of $15 per year.

RESIGNATIONS — Accepted resignation of Frank L. Garatti, who is retiring after 25 years with the district and E. Naomi Toulouse.

MANAGER — Agreed to change the job of the newly-proposed position of manager of community interest to manager of land management. The board agreed the manager should have jurisdiction on recreational areas and the water shed, as well as land uses in the district.

Time Granted To Reapportion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Supreme Court will give the legislature some extra time to agree on a plan to reapportion both its own and congressional districts.

The court previously had given the legislature until the end of its 1972 session to draft plans. The court retained jurisdiction to draft its own plans if the legislature failed to do so.

But the state Senate argued that it would be impossible to reach agreement until after the November election. It asked for permission to prepare plans during a special session following the regular 1972 session.

The court said Wednesday it found the request reasonable, and granted it in a brief unsigned order.

McGovern: Must Win California

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Sen. George S. McGovern says he cannot win the Democratic presidential nomination unless he wins the California primary, and he is asking antiwar protesters to help.

"If we want to end this war there's one way to do it. And that is to defeat President Nixon next fall and get a new leadership," McGovern said Wednesday in a telephone interview distributed by his California campaign staff.

Asked how important the June 6 California primary is to his campaign, McGovern replied: "Well, we have to win the California primary in order to win the presidential nomination. I think we can win in California."

McGovern and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey are in a showdown battle for California's huge bloc of 271 delegate votes to the Democratic national convention in July.

"Let's face it,even if (Los Angeles Mayor) Sam Yorty went to the convention with 271 votes from California it would be quite a thing," said Humphrey's California spokesman, Mel Horowitz. "We think California is vital."

Humphrey's campaign staff said the Minnesota senator will pass up the May 23 Oregon primary to spend maximum time in California. He intends to campaign virtually fulltime in the nation's most populous state starting no later than May 20.

McGovern aides reported the South Dakotan probably will stump Northern California for two days prior to the Oregon primary, alternating between the two states. Then he will devote virtually fulltime to California beginning May 24.

Expansion Of Bus Runs To Seashore Points Proposed

Expansion of weekend bus service to West Marin to help relieve recreational traffic was recommended yesterday by a committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The proposed expansion of district service would link San Francisco and Marin points with the Bear Valley trail head at Point Reyes National Seashore, also providing a link with a shuttle bus to start operating this summer from the park headquarters to Limantour Spit.

As outlined by Bus Transit Mgr. H. Donald White, the service via Route 65 would go from two to six round trips a day on Saturdays, Sunday and holidays. He estimated the additional cost at $450 a day, adding that it wuld take 900 paid rides to cover it.

The unanimous recommendation by the transportation committee to expand the service was subject to approval by the finance-auditing committee on May 25.

The route connects east and west Marin via Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. The shuttle bus service in the seashore will be operated by Marin Transit Systems of San Rafael under a subsidy from the county's transit district. It will use two bus vans, each carrying eight or nine passengers.

The committee also voted to expand its subsidies to charter bus commuter clubs serving the same routes as district buses. District Engineer Robert E. Shields argued successfully that there would be no "competition" between the charter and district services because the district's primary interest was in moving people, regardless of whether they use district or charter buses.

White had objected that the charter buses serving the same routes as the district's fleet were "fading out completely," and should be allowed to do so.

Not mentioned during an hour-long discussion of the issue was the threat by Eastshore Lines, operator of charter buses for commuters from Central an Northernd Northern Marin, to sue the district for using its federal grant to buy buses to compete unfairly with the company's already established business.

The company thus could jeopardize more than $13 million in pending federal grants to the district for ferry and other transit purposes.

The committee met behind closed doors for 25 minutes to discuss the threatened litigation and to instruct their attorney on negotiating terms with Eastshore Lines.

Committee chairman Michael Wornum, a Marin supervisor, stressed after the meeting that the committee favored expanding the charter bus system for commuters as a separate issue having nothing to do with the Eastshore Lines dispute.

In other business, the committee postponed a decision on whether to continue to provide bus service for San Francisco school children between the Sausalito ferry and The Army Corps of Engineers Bay Model. Director Dean N. Meyer of Mill Valley insisted it was only a 10-minute walk, but other directors said it was much longer. Meyer was asked to time the walk and report back to the committee.

Vehicle Charge Denied In Court

Lanny Irvin Johnson, 19, of San Rafael, originally charged with burglarizing a truck, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a misdemeanor court of vehicle tampering.

The district attorney's office changed the charge prior to a preliminary hearing Tuesday.

Johnson was arrested on a warrant April 18 by San Rafael police after his fingerprints were matched to those listed from the broken wing window of a van broken into at the Country Club Bowling Alley in San Rafael Feb. 11.

Nine Ex-Kissinger Aides Slap Mining

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Nine former aides to Henry A. Kissinger today denounced the mining of North Vietnamese harbors as a "fruitless and ill-conceived effort to preserve the President's concept of American presidential prestige."

In a letter to Kissinger, President Nixon's top adviser, the ex-White House aides who served on the National Security Council staff urged him to "do everything possible to extricate the United States from the perilous and false position in which it has been placed."

The letter was distributed to newsmen by Roger Morris, now an aide to Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., after it was delivered to Kissinger.

"We worked with you on a wide variety of issues, including Vietnam," Morris and the other former aides wrote Kissinger. "We still respect much of the work you have done and remain proud to have shared in some of it.

"But we are appalled that the councils of common sense about Vietnam should have failed once again, that our nation's basic interest in movement toward detente and arms control should be so jeopardized, and that our government should have undertaken a course of action which even some of its own analyses have shown to be dangerous and probably ineffective.

"This further waste of human lives in a fruitless and ill-conceived effort to preserve the President's concept of American and presidential prestige is doubly shocking to us as citizens and as former members of your staff.

The letter was signed by Morris, Fred Bergsten, Daniel Davidson, Morton Halperin, Charles Herman, Anthony Lake, Donald Lesh, Walter Slocombe and William Watts.

A Senate move to legsialte an end to the war meanwhile was stalled by Nixon's proposal to withdraw all U.S. forces from Indochina within four months aftter agreement on a ceasefire and release of American POWs.

Senate backers of an end-the-war amendment interrupted their campaign Wednesday to ponder the possibility of adding the cease-fire proposal to their legislation.

The antiwar measure, introduced by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., would forbid appropriations for the war four months after North Vietnam and the Viet Cong agree to release U.S. prisoners of war. Nixon also included the release of prisoners as a condition in his proposal, made at the same time he announced the mining of North Vietnamese harbors.

Church and Case said they would oppose an amendment offered by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., to permit continued funding of the war unless the Vietnamese Communists agree to a cease-fire. Byrd's amendment, however, is believed to command majority support in the Senate.

Church said he did not believe the Byrd proposal would make the funds cutoff meaningless and "doesn't do all that much damage." But he said he preferred the "simplicity" of his original proposal.

Many critics of the war believe a cease-fire condition would turn the Case-Church amendment into a mere ratification of Nixon's peace offer. The defect in a cease-fire, they tried to convince their colleagues, is that Communist forces would not agree to it because it would force them to give up the momentum they have established in the current offensive, give South Vietnam a virtual veto over the timing of U.S. withdrawals, and all but signal a surrender by Hanoi in its struggle to force the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu out of power

Senate Republicans have served notice they will fight the Church-Case proposal and have predicted President Nixon would veto it whether it contains the cease-fire provision or not. GOP leader Hugh Scott said Nixon opposed any encroachment on his powers as commander in chief

In the House Wednesday, Democrats on the Foreign Affairs Committee agreed to rally behind new antiwar legislation, but some of them complained it lacked a ceasefire provision that would end fighting among the Vietnamese.

The Democrats agreed to back legislation that would order an end to U.S. military involvement and a withdrawal of all American forces by Oct. 1. The withdrawal would be subject to the release of prisoners, an accounting for missing U.S. servicemen, and the "safe" departure of remaining American troops.

Five House Democrats are sponsoring an attempt to impeach Nixon. They contend Nixon is guilty of "high crimes and misdemeanors" by arrogating to himself "the power to declare war". The five are Reps. John Conyers of Michigan, Ronald Dellums of California, and Shirley Chisholm, William F. Ryan and Bella Abzug, all of New York.

'Unethics' And The Law

"We've given you a complete tune-up," the repair man tells you. "New points, new condenser, new spark plugs."

You look at the itemized statement. "Full set spk. plgs., $18.75." Then you look at the plugs with their nice, shiny terminals. The only trouble is, the "new" plugs have your secret mark you put on before taking the car in. The plugs are actually the old ones, shined up.

This sort of cheating by a few unethical repairmen has resulted in a new law. The law set up the Bureau of Automotive Repair, which went into action March 1972.

This state agency with a director and staff checks out complaints against dealers who violate these laws.

By June 30, 1972, all auto repair businesses will have to register with the state. It's a crime to operate without being registered.

A repairman must record all work so that the customer and the bureau can review it if they need to.

"The repairman shall give the customer a written estimate of price for labor and parts for a specific job and shall not charge for work done or parts supplied in excess of the estimate," the law says. The customer has to give his consent for the repairman to go above the estimate.

If a customer says so when he places the work order, the repair dealer must return replaced parts to him. If the part is too big or the manufacturer is under warranty arrangement (where there isn't a charge) and wants the part back, then the replaced part need not be returned.

A repairman can be disciplined and his registration revolked if he does the following:

1. Makes misleading or false statements about the repair.
2. Gets a customer to sign any work order not requested by the customer.
3. Fails to give a customer a copy of any signed documents of repair.
4. Engages in fraud, gross negligence, or does work in wilful departure from accepted trade standards of good repair work.
5. Makes false promises or has repair work done by someone other than himself or his employees without the knowledge of the customer.

If a repairman works without a good registration, he won't be able to collect by legal action.

The dissatisfied customer can complain to the Bureau of Automotive Repair. Or he may sue in small claims or any other court.

Rail Land Purchase Is Asked

The Sausalito Community Appearances Advisory Board last night recommended the city council purchase the Northwestern Pacific Railroad property, across Caledonia Street from Central School, as soon as possible.

Board member Violeta Autumn said the group believes the purchase is important since the city has tentative plans to buy the school site for a new city hall.

She pointed out the railroad land, bounded by Bridgeway, Litho, Bee and Caledonia streets, would link the proposed city hall to the city's water front park across bridgeway. "This would be a way to really connect our new civic center to the water," Mrs. Autumn said.

The advisory board also approved architectural plans for 90 units of the Marina Vista townhouse subdivision and approved Frank Anderson's plans to make improvements, including new fences, to his nursery at 1505 Bridgeway. The nursery and garden service is located on the railroad property.

The board approved a location plan for buildings in the proposed 392-unit Whiskey Springs subdivision in Northern Sausalito.

Novato Fire Board Sets Budget; Tax Rate Hike

The Novato Fire Protection District board last night adopted a budget of $753,281 for 1972-73 carrying an expected hike of 22 cents in the tax rate.

Fire Chief Jack Kidder said the budget is up $138,637 from the current budget, and the tax rate is expected to be 70 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The major portion of the budget, $585,054, is for salaries, including a 5 per cent pay hike for firemen.

Kidder reported a substantial share of the increase resulted from the hiring of four new firemen this year and increasing pay for off-duty responses.

Directors approved a capital outlay budget of $64,500, after cutting out $50,000 recommended for the building fund for a new fire station at the Atherton Avenue fire tower, the chief said. The budget includes funds to purchase a new fire engine, as a replacement for a 1947 engine, and two four wheel vehicles for grass and brush fires.

The maintenance budget totals $103,728.

On the expected tax increase, the chief said the owner of a $30,000 home pays about $36 a year for fire protection, and under the new budget would pay about $16.50 a year more.

Directors also authorized paying Herman Olive Co. of Inglewood, Los Angeles County, $50,500, representing 75 per cent of the cost of the new radio alarm system.

The system is 75 per cent completed, poles and antennas will be installed starting next week.

School Tiresome? Not Redwood

(EDITOR'S NOTE: How do you feel the high school in your community should be run? At Redwood High School in Larkspur, a group of parents, students and teachers is looking for answers. Paul Cane and Karen Gjerde, in this account from the Redwood Student News Bureau, report the progress.)

"It is tiresome to hear education discussed, tiresome to educate and tiresome to be educated" — Lord Melbourne.

Many people agree with Lord Melbourne and thus avoid getting involved with the educational system. Still others work to make education interesting.

The Redwood High School Task Force is composed of people from the latter group. Students, adults and faculty of the Redwood community are spending time discussing, educating, and being educated in their search for the ideal high school.

Even though research is time-consuming and laborious, they continue working together, adults and students joining productively rather than antagonistically.

One example of this cooperative effort by parent and student is Elaine Gutstadt, one of four community members of the task force, and her daughter, Lynn, a sophomore, who is involved as a student discussion leader.

There is another type of task force relationship. Parent Edward Hennessy, for instance, is directly involved as a member. His son, Tim, not in the official structure of the group, participates only as one of the 2,600 students at Redwood being asked the difficult question: "What do you think your high school should be?"

And it was with that question that Mrs. Gutstadt, Hennessy and the rest of the force began work six months ago. Formed by trustees of the Tamalpais High School District, the force is headed by teacher Glenda Gentry and consists, besides the four community members, of four students and four teachers.

The district board gave the force $10,000 and the responsibility of finding out what students, faculty and the community thought changes in the school's operation should be. The ideas that the force uncovers will then be placed into a list of priorities to be considered by the board in the fall.

It is toward this goal of finding student ideas, that several discussion sessions were held in classes at Redwood the past month. The ideas from these sessions, still being organized, will be discussed with the community in a three-day forum at Redwood, beginning Monday.

At the forum, final ideas will be gathered and priorities formed.

The effort put into the force thus far, judging from Mrs. Gutstadt's involvement, is too great to be lost now. Participating on the subcommittee collecting student ideas, Mrs. Gutstadt works at Redwood as much as four days a week.

She became a member of the force last October as a representative from the Redwood International Student Exchange (RISE) group. She has contributed her time, not just so she can voice her own ideas, but to help find a method by which students can participate in changing Redwood.

"There's going to have to be a built-in way for students to participate in change," she stressed. "This could be a one-shot deal and not much could come of it unless we structure a way for students to participate in changing curriculum and making school policies."

Lynn Gutstadt, a discussion leader, is skilled in bringing students out, making them voice their ideas.

"We need to get more people happier with Redwood," she said, explaining her hopes for the force. "And we need to give students better realizations of their own goals."

It is evident that Lynn Gutstadt and her mother are enthusiastic over the force's progress and plans. And although mostly involved in gathering the ideas of others on what Redwood should be, both have many ideas of their own.

They agree that Redwood's main problem in an excessively large student population.

As Lynn explained, "It all boils down to the fact that there are too many students and not enough teachers and counselors. There have to be better relationships, student-to-student and student-to-teacher."

Mrs. Gutstadt said a solution might be a breakdown of the student body into smaller units, similar to the "college-system-within-a-university" program at the University of California at Santa Cruz. Also, instead of counselors trying to work with students on an individual basis, small group sessions in the counseling department might be the answer.

Mrs. Gutstadt said that in her high school days, the school didn't feel the need to relate to students or achieve a closeness. Today, however, in a mobile society where families don't have the same sense of community, she said, "schools can no longer be separated from what's happening in the total society."

Mrs. Gutstadt and her daughter are optimistic on how suggestions will be received by the board.

Perhaps the most difficult question that the force faces and that the board will eventually have to face is what group should have the strongest voice in determining what changes will take place — students who attend or parents who pay for it?

Lynn Gutstadt said, "Although community members have more experience, they don't know Redwood. Kids have enough experience to know what is right and wrong about their school."

Mrs. Gutstadt, generally agreeing that students should be given a definite voice, added, "Kids are anxious to have adult help, but I think many times adults are not interested."

Hennessy became involved in the task force as representative of the Benchwarmers, the Redwood parent organization supporting the athletic program.

Tim, his second-eldest son and a basketball player, took an active part in the student forum of the past month, not as a force member, but as a rank-and-file student.

The father and son agreed that students alone should not be able to decide school policy.

"Students should not have the right to decide solely for themselves what their school should be like," Hennessy said firmly. "It should be an all-encompassing situation. I don't think the students should dictate, or the community or the teachers. That is why the task force has arisen, to bring all three groups together."

Tim said he felt an obligation to contribute to the student discussions in the past month — "In our group, the leader made the whole deal seem so important, we understood and took it seriously."

PARENT PARTICIPANT — A remark by parent Elaine Gutstadt (right), brings a light moment during a session of the Redwood High School Task Force, which is delving into ways of changing the school's operation. Ideas will be offered at a community forum at the school, starting Monday. The Tamalpais High School District board ultimately will consider recommendations.

LYNN GUTSTADT
'Better relationships'

From a parent's point of view, Hennessy's criticism is with the Redwood English Department. "In the context of grammar and structure — the basics — the English program stinks."

He continued, "If there's one think that comes out of this task force, I hope it's something to do with improving instruction in the basic aspects of grammar."

Tim agreed: "There ought to be one year of just sentence structure, maybe as a freshman."

He compared the conservative-liberal educational philosophy conflict with flying a kite. "It's a helluva lot easier to let the string go way out (make the system more liberal) than it is to try and pull the string back in agin.

"This is one of the reasons underlying the whole task force situation," he continued. "We must get this into a perspective; there is an awful lot of disillusionment from all quarters — the students, faculty, and community — and it's time we brought them all together."

Marin City Plan Meeting Slated

Endorsement of the proposed Marin City Master plan has been delayed by the Marin County Redevelopment Agency Board pending a meeting with the county housing authority board.

Executive director Wallace K. Shepherd said the agency board reviewed the document Tuesday and decided to defer action until after that joint meeting.

The plan, drafted under a federal grant by the consultant firms of Kennard and Silvers and Whisler-Patri, calls for a preponderance of cluster housing, extensive open space and eventual phasing out of high rise units as public housing.

It was to have been considered for adoption by the county planning commission last week but that special meeting was canceled at the request of the redevelopment agency.

Shepherd said a "generally favorable" staff paper has been prepared by him on the plan and will be discussed at the boards' meeting, for which a date has yet to be set.

He said an important aspect of the plan to be discussed is scattering public housing about the community. While it is a good idea, he said, it may prove unworkable.

The board also heard the Marin City Council ask to be appointed the advisory board for redevelopment in Marin City, but took no action pending further study, according to Shepherd.

The board approved an amendment to its contract with the federal government for a loan of $700,000 including extension of time to complete the redevelopment project. The project was to have been completed years ago but was stalled when a dispute erupted with the former developer, California Development Co. of New York.

The board also approved the agency's administrative budget for next fiscal year totaling $43,000 — up about $10,000 from last year.

Shepherd said the increase was due to rising costs of operation and employee fringe benefits. It does not include salary hikes which will be considered at a later meeting, he said.

Budget Up In Fairfax Proposals

The Fairfax School District board has discussed its 1972-73 proposed budget of $1,221,294, up about $35,000 from this year's, then set another study session for next week, according to Supt. H. Reginald Hammond.

"I'll take the board's suggestions and incorporate them into the budget. I expect to have a firmer proposal for next week," he said. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at White Hill School.

Hammond said he is "trying to hold the line" on staff cutbacks.

He said tax rate of the $3.93 per $100 assessed valuation could remain the same. However, "it all depends on a $20,000 rise in fixed charges," he said, he told the trustees Tuesday. Fixed charges include contributions to retirement funds and social security, and were increased this year by the state, which sets the rate, he said.

The board Tuesday also is expected to consider a 5.5 per cent salary increase request by district teachers, he said.

Two Propositions Expand Voting Rights

Two proposed state constitutional amendments having to do with voting will be on June 6 primary ballots.

Proposition 4 would give California open presidential primaries.

Proposition 6 would allow newly naturalized citizens to vote on the same basis as others, instead of the present requirement for a 90-day wait after naturalization.

CALIFORNIA'S presidential primary law has been criticized by many for shutting the door against candidates and limiting the choice available to the voters.

A case in point was in the 1968 primaries. Gov. Ronald Reagan filed for "favorite son" nomination on the Republican ticket. As it is traditional for candidates not to challenge "favorite sons" in their home states, no other Republican candidate was offered. California Republicans went to the polls in June with no choice.

Reagan did not introduce this gimmick. It had been used by other governors before him, including his predecessor, Democrat Edmund G. Brown.

By the "favorite son" device, they denied Californians of their own parties the right to show their preference for standard bearer for the presidency.

PROPOSITION 4 would change that very simply. Here is what it would add to the state constitution:

"The Legislature shall provide for an open presidential primary whereby the candidates on the ballot are those found by the secretary of state to be recognized candidates throughout the nation or throughout California for the office of President of the United States, and those whose names are placed on the ballot by petition, but excluding any candidate who has withdrawn by filing an affidavit that he is not a candidate."

This would permit qualification by the petition method now used, but would make that unnecessary for a recognized candidate.

We recommend approval of Proposition 4.

PROPOSITION 6 is a simple matter of justice. Newly naturalized citizens now must often wait two years to vote for county officials or congressmen, or four years to vote for President or governor, because of the requirement that their naturalization must precede the election by 90 days.

Removing that requirement would put them on the same basis for registering and voting as anyone else. Often, having just completed their studies for citizenship, these new citizens are both more interested and better informed than many native-born citizens. They should not be kept "second-class" for a 90-day waiting period.

We recommend approval of Proposition 6.

Take Time To Observe

Too many Marinites are so caught up in their rituals of daily living and working that they have no time to see, hear or smell the lovely, lively world of nature about them. In a way they are to be envied, for their world is full and true happiness lies within.

But they miss something. In their concentration on the workaday world, they miss the song of the golden crown sparrow, the acrobatics of the squirrel, the assorted fragrances of a hundred flowers, and a myriad of natural pleasures.

To those who have been raised to take time and observe, this voluntary impoverishment from the riches of nature's beauty is unthinkable.

If you don't already, try taking a little time and becoming more aware of the natural world around you. Awareness is the key.

Nothing Secret About Opposition To Coastal Bills

By EARL G. WATERS

Just why the environmentalists should have portrayed great surprise upon learning that lobbyists opposed to the Sieroty-Grunsky coastal protection proposals were meeting in collaboration is hard to figure. Even more difficult to understand is the naivete pretended by some of the press in disclosing the meetings. One would have to be just off the boat not to know this is standard operation.

Lobbyists have teamed up to gain passage or defeat of legislation ever since people first started sending representatives to Sacramento to look out for their interests.

Probably one of the greatest battles that ever took place around Sacramento was the highway tax fight in the late '40s. Industry, business, labor and public officials took up sides, dragged out their heavy artillery and fired their best shots. Even Governor Warren got into the fray and twisted arms of legislators.

IN THE CURRENT fracas, almost all of business, industry, labor and local officials are together against the environmentalists. These are the people disparagingly referred to as "posy pluckers" and "echo nuts".

They are sincere persons who believe progress is destroying the ecology and should be completely halted. They want to return to the wilderness and the horse and buggy.

They are zealous, and like all zealots are blind to other points of view. They are right and anyone opposing them is evil. So when they found out about the meetings being held to defeat the Sieroty-Grunsky bills they called "foul." It wasn't fair for the opposition to meet together to discuss their mutual problems. The fact that they themselves have banded together about 100 organizations into the California Coastal Alliance is different. Theirs is a just cause.

THE INFERENCE has been made that the meetings have been secret. While ordinarily collaborating lobbyists are not eager to divulge their strategy to the opposition, their meetings are not secretive. In this instance those lined up against the coastal measures have been quite open and have held large public meetings. And they delivered to Senator Grunsky a formidable list of those in opposition to him.

It was this list which was published in the press as though it were some kind of a big scoop disclosing something somebody was trying to hide.

Quite the contrary, the lobbyists want the public to know just how solidified business, industry, labor and local government leaders are against the measures.

"We want the public to realize the great dangers inherent in these bills," a spokesman said. "They not only threaten thousands of jobs but the ability of people to have home rule."

On the job issue, James Lee, president of the State Building Trades Council claimed the bills would halt 70 per cent of all construction.

"You're damn right we have been holding meetings," he said, "and we are going to keep meeting until we kill those bills and any more like them."

"Quick, Wilson! Where are the refund windows?"

Some Airy Comment On Buchwald's Breezes

Art Buchwald's article, April 27, "Hurricane is Femme Fatale."

Thank you so much for that bit of airy info.

According to my friend, Noah, a hurricane is a violent cyclone which is from a Greek word which means to whirl around, twist.

Wonder if that means that Mr. McAlphin's wife, Gretchen, was a whirling twister.

Wind in proper amounts is great for winnowing and/or flying kites. Good luck, Tiny Tim.

Keep Death Penalty Outlawed In State

I don't approve of humans killing other humans — whether it is an isolated elderly farming couple somewhere in the outposts or a family with children in the wealthy suburbs or a young black boy on the streets — for whatever reason. Therefore I don't want the state of which I am a citizen to set an example of killing, certainly not in the name of the people of California.

In states where capital punishment has been abolished, there is a lower (though slight) rate of death crimes among the populace.

Ending the death penalty in California was a great step toward a truly better state — a nudge in the evolution of man toward becoming truly human. Let's keep it that way.

Helpful Deputy Even Watered Plants

So many people write in criticizing the police and sheriffs for various reasons, but few ever give them the "pat on the back" that is due them.

Recently my wife and I went away on a vacation trip and notified the sheriff's department that we would be away.

Upon our return we again advised that we were back. The next day the deputy assigned to keep a watch on our house called on us and not only showed us a couple of things which were not very secure, but also took the time to show us how to rectify our weaknesses.

This fine public service was not all that he did. Believe it or not, he noted that a few new plants we had put in our garden were drooping so he watered them for us. Now, some might say that he shouldn't have so spent his time, but to us it showed the real concern that our sheriffs have for the people he serves.

We would like to publicly thank the sheriff's office for having such real human beings on their staff.

Water District Board Hasn't Changed Much

Marin Municipal Water District's board of directors has not changed much since last March when they attempted to get special legislation to bypass the public's right to vote on the Sonoma-Marin Aqueduct and then when unsuccessful tried to prevent a ballot argument on the issue (the aqueduct was subsequently defeated 9 to 1 in the November election).

I read with some disgust your article, "Brief Flare-Up Over Future Supply of Water" of April 27. When did the board of directors of a public utility start thinking they could summarily refuse to answer questions from the public — even if the question is posed by an opponent of the chairman's son? . . .

Once again MMWD has revealed its basic dislike of public scrutiny. Hopefully, an active citizenry can prevent the water board from attempting to circumvent the electorate on future expansion (if any) of the water supply.

Arrigonian's Retort To Boxer Supporters

Barbara Boxer's advisers must be secret Arrigoni supporters.

First they told us that she slew the water district dragon virtually single-handed last November. That message brought flinty comments from folks who watch-dogged the dit long before Mrs. Boxer knew where Marin County was located.

Next they had Mrs. Boxer advocating a halt to security at Civic Center. While delighting Ruchel Magee and Rick Beban, this position did not thrill hundreds of citizens serving on jury panels.

Now Mrs. Boxer's letter-writing team is telling us that Mr. Arrigoni has been lazing on the job. This doesn't wash with numerous civic leaders long impressed with his stamina in attending unending night meetings of many kinds — in off-election years.

Finally, her campaign statements assure that Mrs. Boxer will be a "full-time supervisor". The matrons of Greenbrae arch eyebrows over coffeecups at this one. A mother of two willing to assign her tots to a surrogate mother? Really!

Encouragement Urged For Senator Behr

State Sen. Peter Behr has initiated such a wealth of constructive legislation that your paper should be singling him out for praise.

It is difficult to oppose vested interests and push successfully for conservation, yet he has done this consistently — e.g. the Wild Rivers Bills, the Redwood Forest Preserves, etc.

Senator Behr is now working on ironing out the inequities of the Medi-Cal health provisions. He seeks legislation to repeal the onerous requirements imposed on physicians to phone San Francisco for permission to treat many patients. He wants to make emergency treatment less dependent on the patient producing the "little stickers". He needs support because he is bucking the Sacramento "price slasher". Yet he is doing this quietly and in such a way that costs won't be out-of-bounds, and yet more humane medical care will be offered.

Will your readers write him and encourage him?

Thieu's Resignation Small Price To Pay For End To The War

PARIS — On the front page of the mass circulation newspaper France Soir is the big black headline, "Vietnam—La Debacle." As the rout of the South Vietnamese armies continues the atmosphere resembles that of 1954 when the French faced the disaster of Dien Bien Phu and the destruction of the French fighting force in Indochina.

Under the wise leadership of Premier Pierre Mendes-France, a conference of all the powers involved, including Communist China, concluded in Geneva a settlement creating a North and a South Vietnam. Eighteen years and several hundred thousand dead later, negotiation is the only way out for the United States.

That is the only way short of total destruction by bombing of the population centers of North Vietnam. And while that could very well bring a greatly widened war, it cannot be ruled out. In the frenetic atmosphere surrounding the talks, one report out of the rumor mill is that the North Vietnamese are girding for new American B-52 attacks on Hanoi and Haiphong and on the dikes, with resulting flooding of the North's principal crop land.

WHILE THE COMMUNIST side produced nothing fundamentally new at the resumed peace talks, they seemed to lay down only one condition for a cease-fire and the opening of a political settlement arrived at between the two Vietnams. That condition is the resignation of South Vietnam's president, Nguyen Van Thieu.

Following his resignation a temporary government of "three segments" would hold supervised elections. The Communist spokesman did not say how these elections would be supervised. But, surely, westerners would be permitted to observe the process.

Under the Geneva accords of 1954, free elections were to have been held in both Vietnams at the end of a two-year period. They were frustrated by the then-premier of South Vietnam, Ngo Din-Diem, with the sanction of Sec. of State John Foster Dulles. Dulles said that free elections in a Communist state were impossible.

SURELY, THIEU'S resignation is a small price to pay for the end to the war. With American protection he could go abroad to live. When Diem was overthrown with the knowledge, if not the support, of Washington, he was slain with members of his family and several of the palace guard in what was a minor "blood bath."

Some signs point to a possible neutral government in Saigon that could negotiate with the North. Tran van Dohn, who arrived in Paris the other day from Saigon for no visible reason, is chairman of the Defense Committee of the Assembly. But, more important, he is a close ally of General "Big" Minh, who has long held a neutral position in the tortuous politics of South Vietnam. Minh had seriously considered running for president last fall until Thieu decreed it was to be a one-man race.

Minh is widely respected. He could conceivably head a neutral government in Thieu's place. That would in no sense be a capitulation or in President Nixon's phrase a "defeat." It would be a way to save face all around. Surely, Thieu must know that he cannot sustain a government with his armies collapsing in what sounds like a total rout.

THIS WAR MUST somehow be ended and quickly. The suffering perpetrated by the North Vietnamese invasion, the shelling of defenseless cities such as Anloc and Quangtri, and the American bombing with the diabolical new antipersonnel bombs are intolerable.

President Nixon has been known to react in crisis with impulsive anger. He has said he would not use tactical nuclear weapons and he will not throw American troops back into the fighting. This leaves him with little latitude. To mine the harbors, to bomb again and, in Barry Goldwater's classic phrase, to reduce North Vietnam to a parking lot will make any exit impossible

AEC Refuses To Abandon Dangerous Waste Burial Plan

You have to give the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission credit for persistence.

Despite protests from the governor of Georgia and environmental protection groups all over the Southeast, the AEC is moving ahead with a "feasibility study" on whether it would be safe to bury radioactive wastes in underground tunnels beneath the AEC's big plutonium plant on the Savannah River in western South Carolina.

ONE FEASIBILITY study was conducted at the AEC's request in 1965 by a special committee of the National Academy of Sciences. The committee reached a conclusion that the project was "dangerous" because the wastes might leak out of the bedrock storage tunnels.

If they did, they might spread deadly contamination through the vast underground water reservoir that geologists call the Tuscaloosa Aquifer.

A great part of the public and private water supply of the Southeast comes from the Tuscaloosa Aquifer. Poisoning it with wastes such as Cesium-137, Strontium-90, and Plutonium-239, which remain highly radioactive for up to a thousand years, would be an ecological

THE NEW FEASIBILITY study has received public blessing from Dr. L.E. Priester Jr., deputy director of the South Carolina Environmental Health Unit. Dr. Priester appeared in person at an AEC-sponsored news conference to announce that "we don't object to the proposed study" He did not clarify whom he meant by "we," but presumably he spoke for the South Carolina state government.

He certainly did not speak for the government of Georgia, which lies directly across the Savannah River from the AEC's proposed underground storage tunnels. Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter immediately declared "strong opposition" to the storage project, which he said could be "a catastrophe for Georgia" as well as other states.

"Exploratory studies from 1961 through 1971 have not produced an absolutely safe method for isolation of high-level radioactive wastes in bedrock disposal tunnels," Carter said.

NATHANIEL STETSON, the AEC's top man at the Savannah River Plant, emphasized to reporters that "at this time, the AEC has made no decision" about actual storage of radioactive wastes in tunnels beneath his plant.

All AEC wants right now, Stetson said, is a budget authorization to spend $15 million to dig "exploratory" tunnels 1,500 feet down into bedrock. These tunnels would be eight feet in diameter and 8,000 feet long —big enough to become actual storage caverns very quickly if the AEC gets the answer it hopes to get from the new "feasibility study."

Humorists Face Chilling Threat: President McGovern Isn't Funny

WASHINGTON — An ad hoc committee of humor writers and political cartoonists held an emergency meeting last week end in Washington to see what they could do about Sen. George McGovern, who suddenly has become a viable presidential candidate.

The chairman of the committee in an opening statenent warned the writers and cartoonists attending that there was a possibility that McGovern could win the Democratic nomination, and if he did, they would be obligated to satirize him in words and drawings.

"IT'S IMPOSSIBLE," a humor writer said. "McGovern has been running for a year now, and there is not one thing humorous about him."

"May I remind you," another cartoonist said, "that you said the same thing about Nixon in 1968."

"Nixon's different," the first cartoonist said. "You can at least draw his nose. You can't even make a sketch of McGovern. He looks like everyone's high school chemistry teacher. If I don't put his name on the seat of his pants, no one knows who the heck he is."

A humor columnist said, "It's worse when you're trying to write something funny about him. Has anyone managed to write anything funny about McGovern?"

There was dead silence in the room. "How can you write something funny about a man who comes from South Dakota?" a writer asked defensively.

THE CHAIRMAN said, "Well at least we're in agreement that McGovern isn't naturally funny. The next question is how do we make him funny?"

There was dead silence in the room.

The chairman said, "Gentlemen, if by some chance McGovern were elected President of the United States, our jobs would be at stake. We would have to make fun of him for four years."

"BETTER WALLACEthan McGovern!" a gag writer yelled.

"You mean you'd rather have George Wallace as President of the United States than George McGovern?"

"We have to think of ourselves," the gag writer protested. "We know all of us could live with Wallace!"

"Huzzah! Huzzah!" the crowd shouted.

"Even Humphrey would provide us with more material than McGovern," A cartoonist yelled. "I've got a lot of reject cartoons left over on him."

"You're avoiding the issue," the chairman warned. "This meeting was called to decide what to do about McGovern. A few months ago the chance of his being President was out of the question. But now we may have to live with him, and we have to decide how we can do it. What I suggest we do right now is test ourselves. The writers start writing funny gags about McGovern, and the cartoonists start drawing funny pictures of him. Then we'll exchange the ideas. You've got 30 minutes to produce something."

THE WRITERS and cartoonists got out their pads and pencils. The only sound in the room was a voice asking, "May I borrow your eraser?"

At the end of 30 minutes, the chairman called the meeting to order. "What have we got?"

The cartoonists held blank sketch pads.

"Cripes!" the chairman said. "What about the writers?"

"I have one," said one of the country's leading satirists. "Why does McGovern wear red suspenders?"

"To hold up his pants?" the chairman asked.

"You were peeking," the satirist said peevishly.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Declining Test Scores And Indefinite Goals

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Accomplishments of California public school pupils last school year fell still farther behind national norms.

This was shown by statewide test results in sixth and 12th grades, of which a summary was presented to the State Board of Education Thursday by Wilson C. Riles, state superintendent.

IN SIXTH GRADE, Riles reported, median test scores "are slightly below publishers' norms and have declined since last year" (1970-71) in scholastic aptitude ("IQ") tests and in all four of the basic skill areas — reading, language, spelling and arithmetic. The drop in arithmetic was greatest at 2.8 points.

In 12th grade, the median scholastic aptitude score declined 1.9 points. Scores in reading, language, spelling and mathematics declined very slightly. All were below national norms.

THESE NATIONAL norms which California pupils are falling farther and farther behind are themselves so low as to be cause for alarm. The United States Chamber of Commerce noted in its April-May "Washington Report on Urban Affairs" (which appeared only a few days before Superintendent Riles made his report on the statewide testing):

"Today about 35 million adults are functionally illiterate . . . One-third of all high school graduates taking the fifth-grade level armed forces qualifying exam fail."

The chamber went on to remark:

"More than 20,000 programs and projects across the nation, affecting nine million children a year, were established under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 . . . Where student accomplishment was measured, little improvement was seen."

California has had its share of state-funded programs besides participating in the federal effort. In addition, California school districts have tried an assortment of gimmicks, all adding to the cost of operating the schools, which were touted as sure to improve pupil accomplishment. The sad results are told in declining test scores.

A CLUE TO WHY pupil accomplishments continue to decline may be found in another report given the State Board of Education about four hours after Riles presented the summary of test results. This was the final report of the Advisory Commission on School District Budgeting and Accounting, which included an "Educational Planning and Evaluation Guide" for a program planning and budgeting system.

A key part of this so-called accountability program is setting goals for pupil accomplishment. The manual divides the goals into instructional and non-instructional. But nowhere do the instructional oals include any specified level of accomplishment in reading, writing, arithmetic — or any other subject.

The manual raises the reader's hopes temporarily by giving examples of suggested objectives which might be set in trying to achieve the broad (and indefinite) goals. One such example: "Upon completion of the term, a sixth grade pupil will be able to read and pronounce with 80 per cent accuracy a district-compiled list of sixth grade words selected from the basic Stanford Achievement Test—Reading."

Although this does not call for defining the words or knowing how to use them, it does sound rather definite. But two pages farther on, the manual cautions:

"Experience has shown that it is impractical to initially state the percentage of students who will achieve the expected results."

It never even hints that attaining the objectives should be required for promotion to the next higher grade.

THE U.S. CHAMBER of Commerce report declared: "Accountability is the keystone to effective education . . . It involves setting objectives, such as determining reading or math levels to be attained by a certain grade, an independent audit of accomplishments and public disclosure of results."

The U.S. Chamber and those who write the guidelines for Californria schools don't seem to be talking the same language.

1950 Studebaker Reported Stolen

A 1950 Studebaker, license DOH363, belonging to Earl R. Phelps of 1135 Fourth Street, was stolen sometime between Saturday night and Tuesday morning, San Rafael police reported yesterday.

Phelps said the car had been parked in a lot at Third and Cijos streets, police said.

Convicted Murderer Paroled; Still Protests Her Innocence

FRONTERA (UPI) —A 42-year-old mother of four convicted of drugging and burning to death her dentist husband was freed on parole Wednesday after serving the minimum seven years of a life prison term.

Lucille Miller left the California Institution for Women still protesting her innocence. Her attorney, Robert Steinberg, who met her at the gate, said he and lawyer F. Lee Bailey, planned to continue efforts to have her conviction overturned.

Mrs. Miller told newsmen she planned to change her name. Terms of her parole forbade her from returning to the Riverside-San Bernardino area. She formerly lived at Alta Loma.

Superintendent Virginia Carlson of the prison said Mrs. Miller had three job offers as a stenographer in the Los Angeles area.

Three of her children, Guy, 17, Ron, 15, and Kimi Kay, 6, will live with her.

Mrs. Miller's oldest child, Debbie, 21, is away at college.

She said, "I'm dying to see the children. They were very disappointed that I wouldn't let them come down here today. But of course I couldn't. They were afraid they'd miss something."

The brunette Mrs. Miller wore a navy blue skirt, red pullover and print jacket when she left the prison. She departed with Steinberg in a black limousine. "She's going to fade into the sunset," the attorney said. "She really wants to get a fresh life to go somewhere else. People remembered too much."

Asked if she still maintained her innocence, she said, "Definitely." Although she said she underwent no physical harm in prison, she added, "Incarceration is a mental thing—it's a mental hell."

Her youngest child was born June 6, 1965, when Mrs. Miller was granted an unprecedented maternity leave from prison. Since then she has left the prison only twice, both within the past 45 days for dental appointments with her husband's brother.

Mrs. Miller was convicted March 5, 1965, of the 1964 murder of her husband, Dr. Gordon E. Miller.

Miller burned to death in the family's gasoline soaked Volkswagen near the family home. He had been drugged with barbiturates and was asleep in the front seat.

Prosecutors charged that Mrs. Miller slew her husband because of her love for a San Bernardino attorney and because she wanted to collect her husband's $100,000 insurance policy. The insurance has been placed in trust for the couple's children.

Mrs. Miller served a total of seven years and two months in prison.

Students Will Conduct Tuesday

The San Rafael High School Symphonic Band will present four senior student conductors in a free public program of music for wind band Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The four students, who will conduct works by Mendelssohn, Kalinnikoff, Rimsky-Korsakoff and Alfred Reed, are Gladys Mendelson, Greg Goodall, Charles Harris and Missy Crowell.

Also on the program will be two contemporary numbers, a Toccata by Fisher Tull and introduction and capriccio by John Barnes Chance. Featured soloist will be pianist Robert Bauer.

Generic Drug Rule Opposed

The Marin County Human Rights Commission has asked Gov. Ronald Reagan to reconsider a state directive requiring pharmacists to dispense generic drugs rather than brand name products when filling Medi-Cal prescriptions.

In a letter to Reagan, the commission said his directive has placed "pharmacists in the position of either refusing to dispense medication they know is not proper for the (welfare) recipient, or offering products and dosages they know may be harmful or ineffective.

The state's directive, issued earlier this year, is part of the governor's welfare reform package and is aimed at saving about $1 million annually on the state's $100 million drug bill.

Bennett Is Accused Of Paper Theft

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A "petty theft report" has been filed against William M. Bennett of Kentfield, a member of the State Board of Equalization who was accused by a capitol shoeshine operator of trying to steal six newspapers.

Bennett denied the accusation.

Earl Reeves said Bennett, 54, a consumer advocate, picked up six different newspapers worth 90 cents from Reeves' newsstand Wednesday and walked away after putting only a nickle in the collection cup.

Reeves, who has operated a popular shoeshine stand and newspaper concession between the two legislative chambers for the past six years, said "stop that man."

Police stopped Bennett near the first floor exit and escorted him back to the capitol's second floor where the stand is located.

Reeves said Bennett then offered to pay a dollar for the papers, but "I said, 'no thank you.'" Bennett left the capitol without the six newspapers.

"I've seen him do it several times before," Reeves complained.

State Police Sgt. Burle Fletcher said he had filed a "petty theft report" on the incident and presumed Reeves planned to file charges.

Bennett, who receives $25,000 a year in his state post, told a reporter: "That's quite a story. It ain't true. I feel sorry for the fellow ... I talk too much. There's nothing to it."

Ross Board Hikes Pay For Seven

The Ross School District board has voted pay increases to seven of its nine nonteaching employees which will cost the district an additional $3,047 next year, according to Supt. Thomas A. Anderson.

He said the men do not have a salary schedule, and that in some cases the raises were 5.5 per cent.

The board has also committed $650 of its reserve funds to cover a deficit in the town's recreation program. Judith Goode, co-chairman of the program, said the deficit resulted from unanticipated workmen's compensation and social security expenses.

Anderson said the additional funds bring the district's support of the program to $2,650, and he didn't expect any further contributions from the board.

Responding to a plea from Hope Braghetta, chairman of the 1972 Parent-Teacher's Association summer school program, the board contributed $800 for general expenses.

Funds Approved For Drug Centers

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Directors of the United Bay Area Crusade yesterday voted funds for two Marin drug treatment agencies.

Center Point was awarded $15,200 for a residential treatment program to cover an eight-month period retroactive to May 1. Marin Open House was given $12,368 for the same period to fund an auxillary program for addict rehabilitation.

Both agencies are in San Rafael.

No Antiwar Policy Ever By Supervisors

Marin County Supervisors have never passed a resolution in opposition to the war in Southeast Asia as was incorrectly reported Tuesday by the Independent-Journal.

While reference was made to such a resolution during Tuesday's board meeting, a search of records showed the board's only action was to put a proposition calling for withdrawal of troops on the November 1970 ballot and subsequently to send letters to federal officials noting Marin residents voted 40,012 to 33,868 for withdrawal.

About 15 war protesters urged the board Tuesday to make some show of opposition to the war. Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni and Michael Wornum said they were willing to "reaffirm" the board's earlier action in sending the letters.

Supervisors Louis H. Baar and John F. McInnis declined saying they relied on the president's handling of the war.

Then Supervisor-elect Arnold M. Baptiste was not involved in the 1970 actions as was erroneously reported.

Larkspur Panel Rejects Four-Parcel Lot Split

The Larkspur Planning Commission has unanimously rejected a request from the Poco Development Co. of Boston, Mass., to split 4.5 acres at the northwest end of Olive Avenue into four lots.

According to city Planning Director John Appleton, the company planned to create three single-family dwellings on the plot with a large three-acre piece of vacant land surrounding them.

Appleton said 15 to 20 adjacent property owners went to Tuesday night's meeting, objecting that too many houses were planned for too small a property. He said planners objected to the density and the fact that all three houses were to be served by a 540-foot driveway, which they said was too long.

The Larkspur Planning Commission Also:

CONDOMINIUMS — Approved subdividing 26 existing apartments at 75 Upper Via Cassitas, Greenbrae, allowing them to be sold individually as condominiums. John A. and Estelle Moran, present owners of the property, plan to sell it to a Texas corporation.

DOCKS — Postponed until June 13 a public hearing on proposed dock and float policies on Corte Madera Creek.

LIGHTS — Rejected lighting fixtures proposed for the parking lot of the Alpha Beta Market now under construction at Doherty Drive and Magnolia Avenue, ordering Gene Gerity, the store's architect, to submit other designs, which will prevent outside spillage of light.

FEES — Continued until May 23 action on a proposed fee schedule for review of planning proposals.

MEMBERSHIP — Extended its membership in the City-County Planning Council of Marin, and named Sifford as its representative. Sifford, who had represented the council when he served on that body, originally suggested Larkspur join the commission.

ARCHITECTURE — Learned that the city staff will inform each planner in advance of matters before the city's architectural review board, so he can decide whether to attend.

MEETING — Set a joint meeting with the city council at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the city council chamber to discuss recommendations on the county-wide general plan.

Coffees Announced

Coffees for Barbara Boxer of Greenbrae, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Second District, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Fairfax home of Lynn McLellan, 88 Ridge Road; 8 p.m. Monday at the Fairfax home of Gayle Stewart, 10 Hawthorne Court; 10 a.m. Tuesday at the San Anselmo home of Gery Gomez, 931 Butterfield Road; 10:30 a.m. Wednesday at the San Anselmo home of Dr. Herman C. Waetjen, 83 Jordan Avenue; 10:30 a.m. May 18 at the San Anselmo home of Richard C. Hein, and 8 p.m. May 18 at the San Anselmo home of Rev. Robert Lee, 18 Kensington Court.

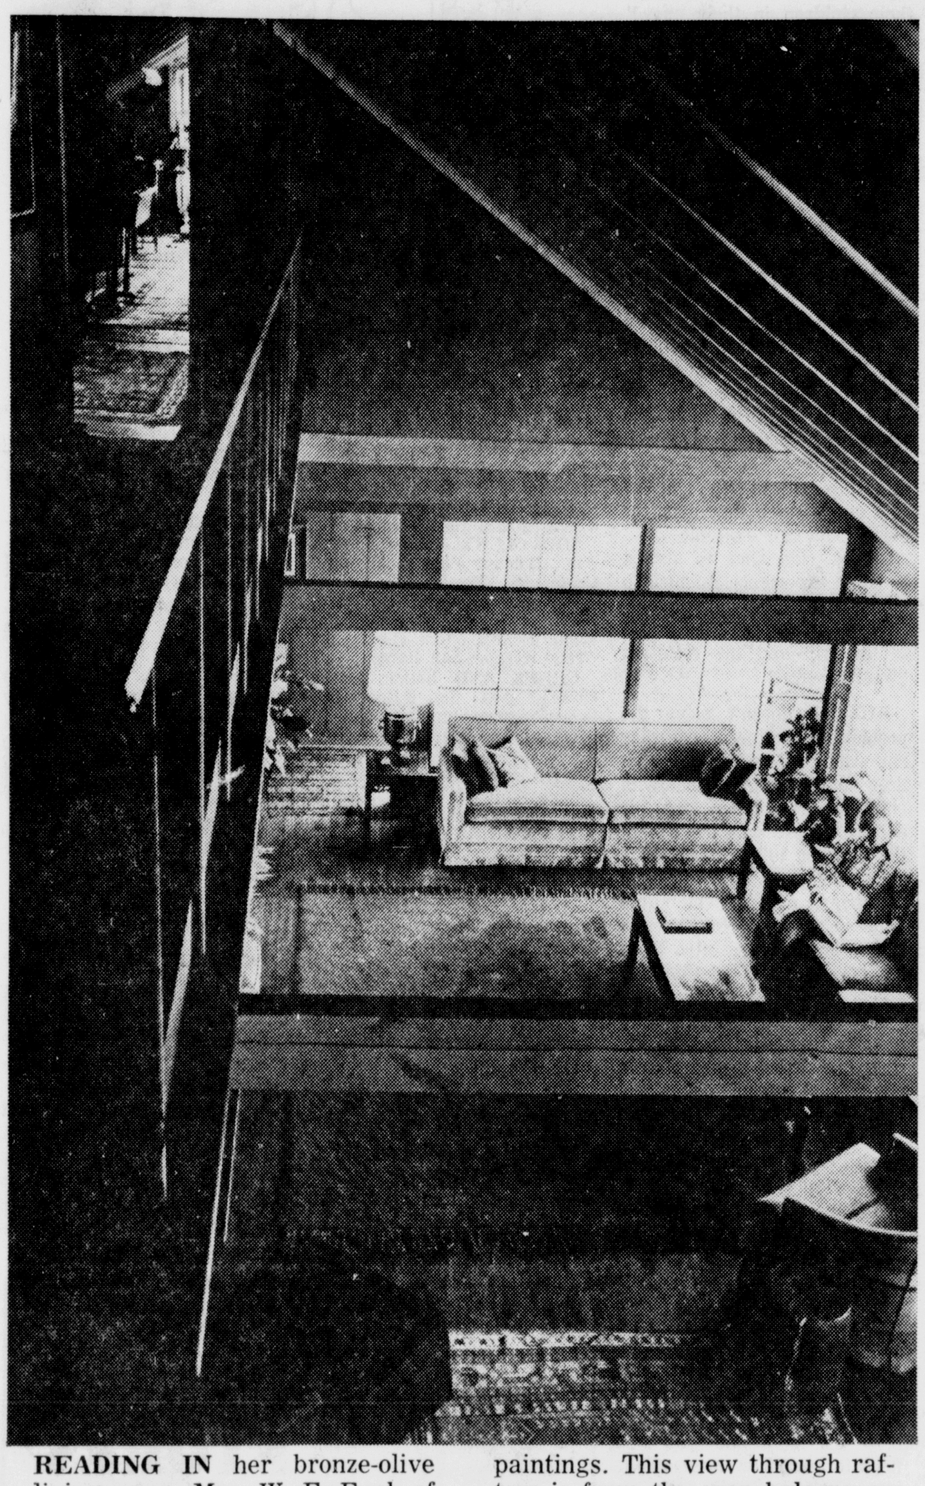
Annual Belvedere-Tiburon House Tour Set Wednesday



READING IN her bronze-olive living room, Mrs. W. F. Funk of Belvedere Lagoon relaxes in her "big, little house" decorated with souvenirs of European travel and paintings. This view through rafters is from the open balcony on the second floor which has a guest room and an art studio.

IN HER contemporary galley kitchen where skylights invite daylight in and large windows offer a bay view over tree tops, Mrs. Rodney Friedman of Belvedere Island bakes cookies. Esthetics were more important than practicality to her architect husband when he planned this ultra modern kitchen.

Victorian To Modern Selections

By PAT BALMES

A spectrum of architecture and decor from Victorian to contemporary design of the 1970s will be seen on the 22nd annual house tour of St. Stephen's Guild of Belvedere-Tiburon. The tour of six Belvedere Island and Lagoon homes will be held Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., with proceeds from the event to benefit guild activities.

The tour homes are those of Messrs. and Mmes. C. Havens Beech, Richard C. Otter, Rodney Friedman, Irwin Roberts, W. F. Funk and Mrs. Mary Mahoney.

Tour-goers will pass through an antique wrought-iron gate from old St. Francis Hospital which opens into a garden surrounding Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Roberts' Belvedere Lagoon homes.

Its safari theme is accomplished in the living room by green jungle print upholstery and zebra skins. Its glass wall opens onto the patio deck beside the lagoon.

In the study is an animal-skin wall hanging which was made in China. Indian and African print materials, bamboo furniture and a zebra-skin rug carry the safari theme into the children's rooms.

ARCHITECT RODNEY Friedman created for his family a redwood and glass home overlooking San Francisco Yacht Club harbor. Tall windows, skylights, sundecks and large rooms with white-painted walls give a bright, airy feeling.

In the living room oriental rugs cover dark wood floors. There are chrome and leather Breuer chairs and a Thonet rocker. Behind the fireplace is a booklined study.

The galley kitchen has a skylight, large windows, six movable spotlights on a track, teak cabinets, ceramic-tile counter tops and an ultra-marine blue heath tile floor.

Downstairs is the master suite composed of a bedroom-sitting room, sundeck, dressing room and redwood-lined sauna. The boy's room has an antique ship's bunk from S.S. Exhibitor covered with a family heirloom quilt. The girl's room has a long desk with shelves for handmade treasures. Patchwork quilts were made by Mrs. Friedman.

THE TWO-STORY apartment of Mrs. Mary Mahoney is furnished with antiques and paintings. In the living room are an antique English keyhole desk, red lacquered prayer tables, an 18th Century English dressing table and a 17th century Chinese lacquered cabinet. Paintings are "Blue Spinnakers" by James Twitty and "The White Horse" by Mary Cady.

Upstairs is a sitting room-bedroom with an 18th Century writing table. The painting "Yellow Poppies" by McCullough hangs on the wall. The boy's room is decorated with a large American flag and the girl's room is done in yellow and white.

"CASA MIA," the Beach Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Otter, was completed in 1895. Sixty-seven steps lead up through terraced gardens to the Mediterranean-style house.

The living room combines 18th Century furnishings, bold blue and white porcelain patterned material and deep tetra negre carpeting. The armoire is Mexican. Over the antique Japanese altar table is a silver paper screen. A larger screen is silk.

The dining room, wallpapered with antique French paper handpainted by Zuber, has an Adam-style fireplace of verde antique marble, a French chandelier and Chippendale chairs.

The kitchen has skylights and a compact work area concealed behind a pickled-finish paneling. Over the antique walnut table is a painting by Emily Burns.

THE VICTORIAN home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Havens Beech of Belvedere, built in 1892, is one of six houses on St. Stephen's Guild of Belvedere-Tiburon house tour on Wednesday. The tour will be held between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. and transportation to the houses is available at San Francisco Yacht Club where tea will be served from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Upstairs is a Victorian guest room and large deck. Two downstairs bedrooms, furnished with antiques, are done in yellow and white.

THE LAGOON home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Funk opens into a gallery where a Portuguese runner covers the brick floor. The living and dining rooms have a lagoon view and are covered by a cathedral ceiling. Muted bronze green is background there for treasures gathered on world travels. Above the fireplace hangs a painting by Carol Sideman.

Brilliant yellow upholstery, ferns and stained-glass windows decorate the garden room. In the study is a collection of antique maps, an 18th century English oak desk and a Wheatley Allen bird sculpture. The kitchen and television rooms are done in soft bronze and teal blue.

Hot pink silk against grass cloth and a mixture of furniture styles decorate the master bedroom. Its antique bureau is Italian and its tansu is oriental.

Upstairs an open balcony expands the living space of the house. At one end is a small guest room, accented in orange, and at the other end is an art studio for Mr. and Mrs. Funk.

Downstairs, the living room is full of dark, rich colors and patterns. The rug is a royal Sarouk, the sofa is of empire design. On the standing lamp is a handpainted parchment shade. Over the desk, is hung a gold leaf mirror with bisque insets. Beyond is a wicker-filled sun porch paved with brilliant tiles.

Tickets and complimentary transportation may be obtained on the tour day at San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I want to marry Nancy, and I will, the day she turns 18. I'm 21, have a good job, have never been in major trouble — but her father hates me. She doesn't have a mother.

He is against all guys, but me especially because we're serious — and she is just six months from being 18 when she can marry without his consent.

The other day he ran me off the road in his car, dented his fender, and then he turned in a citizen's complaint saying I was a reckless driver and hit him. I would have been in bad trouble, except there was a witness he didn't notice.

I could bring charges against him, but that would only make it worse for Nancy.

Yesterday she was driving her father to work, when I came along in the opposite direction. She only just raised her hand in a little wave, but as I looked back I saw him slap her so hard she almost went off the road. Whenever she doesn't do exactly as he says, he beats her.

The only time she can call me is when he's away, and we see each other at our own risk. The first year I knew her he let us date once a week, but when he thought he'd lose her, he cracked down. He says he'll beat me to a pulp if he catches us togehter.

I can't give her up, but I may be dead if I don't. I don't think she's safe, living with him. What can I do? — BARNEY

DEAR BARNEY:

If Nancy is in real danger (and can prove it via neighbors or relatives) then she should ask court permission to move from her father's house into a foster home where she would be protected from him. (Are things really this bad?) — SUE

DEAR BARNEY:

. . .But if he is only violent on one subject — you —well, a six-month wait isn't eternity.

In a battle that only time can win, the best offense is often a retreat — until time is on your side. — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

I'm almost 15 and, for a boy, I don't have too many friends. I'm not lonely at school because I have lots of acquaintances but they all disappear after the last class and on weekends and, believe me, having no one to care enough to even call you up is quite a morale smasher.

There's nothing odd about me. I act friendly and nice. I may not have enemies, but I'd sure enjoy some close friends. Some guys tell me they'll call so I end up sitting by the phone, but it never rings.

Next fall we'll move to another town and I can hardly face it because I know it will be the same old bust. Could you please tell me how to act because, believe me, loneliness isn't a happy thing. — TIRED OF BEING FRIENDLESS

DEAT TOBF:

Have you ever thought the problem may not be in the way you act but in whom you choose for friends? You have to look hard sometimes to find a guy who could be closer than "just an acquaintance." Maybe you're heading for the popular fellas, or the leaders, and ignoring the nice ordinary kid who is really your type.

Don't enter the new school with a negative attitude. Go in knowing you'll be accepted. Stay easy and friendly, go out for sports (if they're your bag) join clubs, or get into some kind of extracurricular activity. You'll make it if you stop being so anxious. — SUE

DEAR TIRED:

You said "wait by the phone but it never rings." Are you so afraid of being turned off that you won't make the first call? I'd guess you're pretty shy under that "friendly and nice" smile, but if you'll remember a lot of other fellows are also putting on an act, you won't find it so hard to start a real friendship. Good luck! — HELEN

Tips Given On Organic Gardening

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Popular organic gardening, pruning of shrubs and plants and watering were all discussed in a light vein by Albert Wilson for the Marin Country Club Garden Club Tuesday in Novato.

There are all kinds of soil in California, but the adobe becomes the richest soil with additives he told the group Tuesday. It is retentive and stubborn, but with the addition of sand, leaf mold and redwood shavings, it "literally fluffs and foams through the fingers," he said.

He showed a healthy plant with "50 thread roots" which grows through the spongy soil.

Asked how to water citrus plants, Wilson raised his index finger, then touched the soil. "Your finger, if dry, water — your finger, if wet, leave it alone." The roots want to breathe, he said, and if wet every day, they're in a bathtub.

"Sprinkle the garden, by the hour, in one place." He added.

He brought branches of rhododenron in bloom to the meeting. Have the strength of character to prune them back, he told the audience. Asked when they should be pruned, he brought laughter when he answered, "the fifth month, 8th day at 4 in the afternoon." Give them plenty of water, he said. He said to ask friends over and give them blooms of rhododendron. The friends will think "you are generous and you can prune tha shrub at the time."

Windsor beans or horse beans can be planted under shrubs, the beans picked and eaten, and then the green plants put into the soil as a good source of nitrogen he suggested. The beans and also alfalfa are friendly bacteria, Wilson said.

If the leaves on azaleas turn yellow, the leaves have chlorosis, or a "belly ache," the gardening authority said. Give the azalea a shower bath with a solution made of a handful of epsom salts in three gallons of water, every Monday morning for three weeks and the green will return to the leaves, he said.

Another gardening rule he gave the audience was to water plants three times with fresh water and then add fertilizer, because if fertilizer is added to roots that are dry they can burn. The burned roots can also turn leaves yellow on a plant.

PARENT AND CHILD

For Many The School Bus Is Now A Symbol Of Strife

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

There were few opponents to school busing in the late 1940s and through most of the 1950s. In fact, as one September Saturday Evening Post cover after another chronicled, it was a sign of affluence to be riding a bus to school.

Either it meant that you were a farm youth who had graduated out of the one-room schoolhouse and could go to school in town with the other children or you were living in a "Dick and Jane" suburb, and the nearest school was more than three or four blocks away.

In the South, buses were used to keep the races apart. For white parents, then, busing was a good thing.

Poor children walked to school. Middle-class children rode the bus. And the rich went away to school or arrived at private institutions in limousines. This, oversimplified, was the "American way."

But once the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the notion of "separate but equal" and ruled that schools should be bi-racial at least and multi-racial at best, the school bus has fallen out of favor with many.

WHAT WAS a sign of middle-class affluence — the school bus —has now become, for many, a symbol of strife. Many black parents resent that their children, in order to attend school with white youngsters, must ride long distances through heavy traffic to get to the suburbs or to white neighborhoods. They are also displeased with the hostile atmosphere that sometimes greets their children in their "new" school.

And white parents, who moved out of the city (or never lived there at all) because they did not like what urbanization was doing to inner-city schools, resent that their children must not only spend wasted time on a school bus, but must go right back into the neighborhood out of which they deliberately moved.

Some thought is being given to making the school bus into a mobile classroom. Such a program is being tried out in a school district in Colorado. The school buses there are equipped with all types of audiovisual materials. Headsets are linked to a complicated tape deck for every rider, for example.

A bus ride that is also a learning experience might help alleviate the concern many parents have regarding the length of the trip and the resultant "wasted" time.

BUT IT doesn't solve the problem of families of one race not wanting to send their children to the same school with children of another race or culture. Those who don't want the children to sit in the same classrooms, use the same gym facilities, mix at the same dances, or work together on school projects are often those who say it is the bus ride they object to.

But a pluralistic society means pluralistic schools. There is strong evidence from educational testing that "separate" is not "equal." Therefore the controversy over who will or will not ride a bus to school will continue.

And it is the parents who are going to have to make the adjustment. Countless studies have shown that most children are "color blind." CBS News last week documented this with skits put on by Pontiac, Mich., pupils spoofing the racial bigotry of their elders. Pontiac is integrating via busing.

So it's Mom and Dad who need to learn how to get along in a multi-cultural America, who need to change hostile school atmospheres into healing environments.

Dream Patterns Explored As Link To Life's Meaning

By JOAN LISETOR

Everybody dreams five dreams a night, according to Jungian psychiatrist, Dr. Howard I. Levene of Kentfield, who uses the dreams of his patients to help them with what he considers the major problem of our time — a lack of meaning in life.

He also uses their dreams to entertain audiences, as he did last night in the first of a weekly series of round table discussions sponsored by Marin Chapter of the Singles Organization of the Bay Area at the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera.

He described the dreams of a male engineer, a male physician and a female psychiatric nurse.

The engineer had the outward appearance of sophistication, Levene explained, but suffered from a super ego and an inability to express his feelings. His dreams in the early stages of analysis evidenced an inability to relate to women as equals and a need for a powerful gun. As his treatment progressed he laid down his gun and was able to relate and even offer help to a woman.

The physician had little respect for women and dreamed of his wife as an object only for sex, when he first came to Levene for help. In dreams about his girlfriend he was unable to express love. The next dream he recreated for Doctor Levene had symbols that often precede deep depressions and nervous breakdowns, according to Doctor Levene.

"He dreamed a young man was on a motorcycle, going very fast. He knew the man was going to crash, and he did. He smashed into an automobile," the psychiatrist said.

As the dreamer approached the injured man, the dream faded out.

The patient was seeing his own impending disaster. He was the man on the motorcycle, the psychiatrist explained, because every person in a dream is some aspect of the self.

In the case of the young doctor, his psychosis which lasted about 10 days helped him break out of behavior behavoiur pattern and he is now recovered and vacationing in Hawaii — alone.

The nurse saw herself as a friend who needed help in a dream. She had a drug problem, so also manifested herself as a man, sleeping as the result of drugs, while a baby cried for help.

Skin Seen As Mirror Of System

The skin is the mirror of the nervous system, quick to react to any sort of strain or pressure with rashes and redness, according to cosmetics manufacturer Charles Revson.

"We eat food that has no nutritional value; we live and work under pressures in offices that are artificially heated and cooled; we are active in sports and pastimes that subject the skin to the destructive effect of sand, sea, air, dirt, grit and weather.

Living the way we do, the skin often over-reacts and results in rashes, redness, tautness and broken blood vessels," he said.

Whole Earth Author Plans Life Forum

MENLO PARK (UPI)—Stewart Brand, whose "Whole Earth Catalog" made him a millionaire, said yesterday he will use $100,000 of his profits to establish a "Life Forum" in conjunction with the United Nations Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm next month.

Brand said the U.N. conference "can express only the voices of government and cannot address itself to the more fundamental political, economic and social ills which underlie the environmental symptoms.

"We believe it is imperative to attend to the real needs of people rather than of governments," he said.

Brand said the Life Forum project would include a demonstration by American Indians showing the "ravishing of native cultures by careless technologies.

In addition, Brand said, the forum will conduct an "earth household," which he said would be "a rare opportunity to set an example for all nations of an involved community working together and caring for itself."

Brand won a National Book Club Award for his "Last Whole Earth Catalog."

"We are going to Stockholm to continue the action we had a piece of in the 'Last Whole Earth Catalog'—helping raise planetary consciousness, helping raise ecological good faith and good technique," Brand said.

The "Whole Earth Catalog" became the bible of hippies, organic-food enthusiasts, communes and others in the "counter-culture." It became a spectacular success with its collection of information for living in the woods, growing organic foods and the like.

It made so much money that Brand gave thousands of dollars of his profits away last year at a party in San Francisco.

Hub Moves Into Disaster Planning

By JEFF GREER

Marin County is two steps nearer eventual readiness to care for its citizens in disaster or war, officials reported this week.

The City of San Anselmo became the first of the county's 11 cities to win required state and federal approval of its local disaster preparations plan. And the California Office of Emergency Services began gathering data for a new brochure that will tell Marinites where to obtain shelter and care in an emergency.

Frank E. Kirby, county coordinator of emergency services, said most other Marin cities are on San Anselmo's heels in preparing their own area plans — which are required to mesh with the county's plan — but that the efforts have been slowed because administrators now are busy with city budget sessions.

Kirby himself has been given new quarters, in the county communications center, replacing the offices and duties shared with the county's health department. Kirby and other officials have refined the county's plan to the point of thinking about testing it.

San Anselmo's disaster plan approval makes the city eligible again for federal matching funds for emergency planning vanpower and for surplus materials available to help firefighting, police and other emergency services.

The county and all cities lost their eligibility last July, when state and federal officials junked a Marin County disaster plan that had gone unrevised since it was drafted in 1960.

State and federal officials cited new laws that made the county and each city's officials responsible for their citizens' protection.

Even after the February 1971 earthquake that killed scores of persons and wreaked havoc in the San Fernando Valley, then County Administrator Alan Bruce was opposed to spending money for disaster planning. He turned down state and federal funds for publication of a disaster instructions map and booklet for Marin.

The San Francisco Peninsula, Santa Clara and Alameda counties accepted the offer; their pamphlets were published recently. Kirby said yesterday that Marin citizens seeing the brochures elsewhere, had urged a similar one for Marin. Kirby recently obtained state support for the once-spurned booklet.

As a result, he said, two experts from Sacramento are in the county this week — and probably for several weeks — making a new survey of buildings that could be used as shelters for natural disasters or radioactive fallout.

"The shelter concept for a while was sort of discredited, but has taken a new swing of the pendulum," Kirby noted. "Now the federal and state men are talking about multiple use of potential shelters."

After the two state men locate Marin's shelter possibilities, their data will be put into a map for the future Marin County brochure.

Meanwhile, the county's doctors, health officials, nurses and hospital authorities are meeting almost weekly to review preparedness training films and make new disaster plans. Kirby has attended a series of regional and state conferences on earthquake problems, and he is working with Marin school officials and communication experts to create a new low-cost radio warning system to protect youngsters and their teachers.

An Experiment In Acupuncture

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two Chinese acupuncture experts Wednesday relieved the arthritic hip pains suffered by the president-elect of the California Medical Association.

"There's no question there is considerable relief of pain in my hip —the pain that I had when I came in is essentially and literally gone," said Dr. Thomas Elmendorf of the needle treatment.

The Willows, Calif. doctor had steel needles placed in his hip, behind his knee and along his lower back by Dr. B. C. Pien, a former Hong Kong herbalist; and Dr. Leung Kok Yuen of Vancouver, B.C., who heads the North American College of Acupuncture.

Lotion Recalled By Bristol-Myers

The FDA said Wednesday that the recall covers Tanya distributed between January, 1969, and February, 1972, which Bristol-Myers discovered contains bacteria that could be harmful to some persons.

Marin-Based Firms Sue Association

I-J Special Report

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court in San Francisco, charges that the association, composed of such companies as Avon Products, Inc., Amway Corporation, Stanley Home Products, Inc., Tupper Corp. and others, has for some time tried to monopolize the market using several devices.

Among them, the suit alleges, are: disparaging the Holiday Magic group to discourage prospective employees, distributing false and misleading "press releases" about the Holiday Magic group, and through a European affiliate writing a letter to the Swedish government implying that the Holiday Magic group operated illegally and improperly and against the principals of Swedish law.

More Than $11,000 In Petaluma School Pledges

A week-old private fund drive has brought more than $11,000 in promised contributions for Petaluma elementary schools, the board of education heard last night.

Vice president Gwendolyn Adkins of the Save Our Schools Committee said the group will continue polling parents to see how much can be raised toward the committee goal of $40,000. The funds are needed to head off double sessions and the closing of Grant School.

Another progress report will be given by the committee at the May 23 board meeting.

Two weeks ago the board announced budget cuts that would require all elementary schools to go on double sessions and Grant School to be closed. Two tax increase elections have failed in the community in recent months.

The board said last night that if additional state funds are received, a portion would go to increased salaries for employees and hiring new teachers to reduce the pupil-teacher ratio from one to 29.5-1 to 27-1. Three principals would also be freed from teaching duties.

If more funds are available, the board said it would return schools to single sessions, restore partial busing and 1.5 music teaching positions.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer raised the possibility of graduate students from Sonoma State College helping second and fourth grade teachers with music programs, a target of board cuts.

The board also received a preliminary 1972-73 budget for the high school district and found that the financial condition is better than the elementary district's.

An estimated budget of $6,670,107 reflected hiring of 29 additional teachers to cope with an expected increase of 500 students in junior and senior high schools.

Meyer said the basic tax rate would stay at its maximum of $1.55 per $100 assessed valuation, but that overrides may be increased by at least 31 cents.

Board member Sol Fishman offered a resolution calling for a moratorium on residential building in the district until high school capacities can catch up with enrollment and until spening per student meets at least the state average.

Meyer said the resolution was held over for more discussion at the May 23 meeting.

In other business, the board accepted the resignation of teachers Sally Dunn and Gail Gregson. Both will move out of the area.

UMBRELLA AGENCY

By JAY GOODWIN

Willie G. Hall has come a long way in a short time.

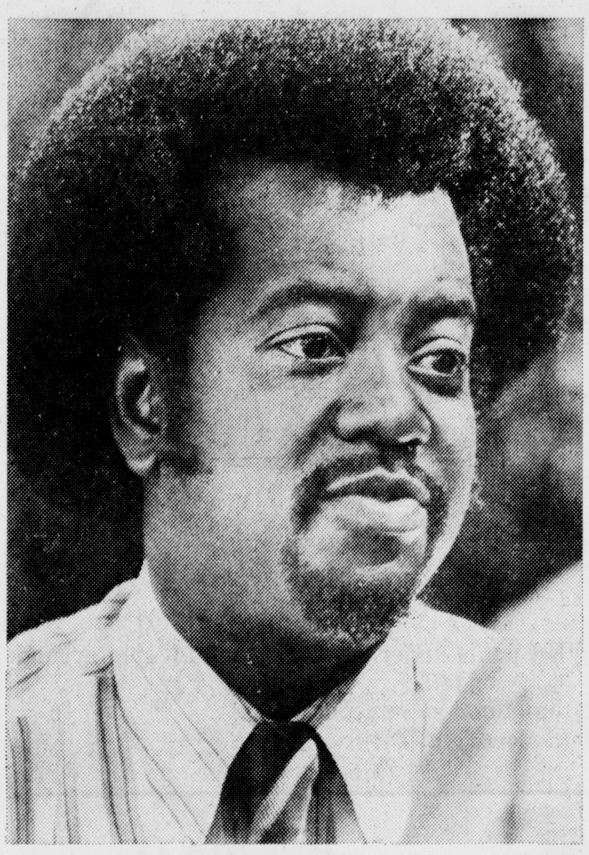
Ten years ago he was editor of his student newspaper at North Carolina Central University in Durham, N.C.

Seven years ago, he was teaching English to Ethiopians as a Peace Corps volunteer in Africa.

Three years ago, he was criss-crossing Northern California as a program officer for the Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA).

Today, Willie G. Hall, at 31, directs more than 300 volunteers in California as the state director of Action — an umbrella agency established by President Nixon last July to coordinate all federal volunteer programs.

Hall is responsible for all Action programs in the state, including the Peace Corps, VISTA, Foster Grandparents, Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE), Active Corps of Executives (ACE), Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), and University Year for Action. His salary is $18,737 a year.



WILLIE G. HALL
(Independent-Journal photo)

Like most people, Hall did not spend his youth daydreaming about a career as a professional volunteer. In fact, he never gave the possibility a thought until he graduated from college in 1962 with a bachelor's degree in English.

As he recalls, "Those were the days before everyone became discouraged. Before Vietnam ... before the riots of 1964 and 1965 ... and before President Kennedy was killed."

"I joined the Peace Corps for all the traditional reasons — plus one," he said. "I also wanted to see Africa and get to know the African people as a black American."

With seven volunteers and a friendly White House send-off from the President, Hall flew to Ethiopia in 1962, where his group was formally received by Haille Selassie.

As the group's only Black, Hall was often a mystery to the Ethiopians he met.

He recalls villagers muttering to themselves, in their native tongues, "Here is this guy who's black, but speaks perfect English — what the hell is going on?"

"I was almost in three fights in Africa. They thought I was an Ethiopian who had learned English in America and wouldn't speak Amharic because I was ashamed of my heritage.

"Of course that wasn't true. I just didn't know the language."

At the end of his two-year commitment, Hall was enjoying his life in Africa enough to sign on for an additional year.

"There were obvious cultural differences between myself and the Ethiopians. For instance, I like jazz ... hot dogs ... hamburgers. But, I was very happy there."

Sitting cross-legged on the fireplace of his hilltop Mill Valley home, Hall spoke about his job as jazz floated from his stereo system.

The music, he said, revealed that his heritage and tastes were more American than African.

Residents in urban ghettos and impoverished areas are not what they used to be, said Hall. Accordingly, Action's approach to fighting poverty is changing rapidly.

"Today the domestic poverty community is fairly sophisticated. They don't need a lot of helping hands. They need people who know what they're doing."

With this idea in mind, Action has beefed up its program to recruit skilled volunteers with degrees in law, business, engineering, nursing and the like.

"There is still a place for the generalist, said Hall, "If he'll accept the training that we'll give him."

A VISTA group is working in the San Francisco Hall of Justice to get prisoners released on their own recognizance.

In rural areas of Northern California, VISTA volunteers are assisting poor families secure federally subsidized housing loans.

"Whatever the actual impact of the individual programs, you can't downplay the fact that programs like the Peace Corps and VISTA indicate that someone cares," said Hall.

"VISTA is just a drop in the bucket. It certainly isn't the program that's going to solve all the problems of poverty."

Though convinced that Action is a worthwhile, effective social agency, Hall admits that it is plagued with serious shortcomings.

Just the size and scope of the bureaucracy are enough to limit the agency's effectiveness, he explained.

"While I don't doubt Washington's good intentions, I seriously doubt their ability to Action Washington and adequately make decisions about California."

Hall is also concerned with the size of the agency he now will head in California.

"There's a danger as you move up that you'll lose touch with what the volunteers are actually doing. This mustn't happen, because the volunteers are what the porgram is all about."

As he looked out his picture window, across the valley to the Richardson Bay, he shurgged his shoulders and summed up the challenge of his new job:

"It's gonna be a long, hard road."

Two Districts Envliven Debate

Candidates in the second and fourth districts enlivened an otherwise mild encounter last night as the nine contestants for Marin County supervisor met in debate at the College of Marin.

The session, sponsored by the Leagues of Women Voters of Central and Southern Marin, was the second mass gathering of the candidates as the June 6 election approaches.

Essentially, it emerged as a clash between two of the three hopefuls in the second district, incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Barbara Boxer, a one-time stockbroker from Greenbrae running with a vow to be a full-time supervisor. Dr. William J. Filante, a Greenbrae eye specialist, is the third contestant for Arrigoni's seat.

In the fourth district, insurance agent James Dougan was the discordant voice for the most part as fellow challengers Michael R. Peevey, a California Labor Federation official; attorney Gary T. Giacomini, and medical technologist Patricia T. Maginnis found much common ground on the major issue of the evening — the environment.

Incumbent Michael Wornum and Rev. Samuel J. Banks Jr., vying for the third district seat, had little or no disagreement.

The Vietnam War emerged as an issue for the first time in the wake of President Nixon's decision to mine the entrances to North Vietnam ports, and it was this that sparked the first exchange between Arrigoni and Mrs. Boxer.

To both applause and critical remarks from the audience, Mrs. Boxer preceded her opening remarks with an attack on Arrigoni for not speaking out at once at Tuesday's board meeting against step-up in the war.

"If I had been chairman of the board of supervisors (which Arrigoni is), I would have given up the gavel to deplore what is happening in Vietnam," she said.

Arrigoni later countered that he had introduced the 1970 resolution before the supervisors that led to a vote by Marinites calling for a troop withdrawal date in Vietnam.

Wornum, noting a move such as that suggested by Mrs. Boxer was stalled because of the absence of Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste, said he would raise the issue again at Baptiste's return.

While generally in support of the board taking a stand on state and international affairs, Dougan drew mixed audience reaction on the war issue when he declared it was time "to stand up for a little while and be Americans... I think we should stand behind our President."

Two questions were posed to the candidates at the start of the debate — whether they favored consolidating sanitary districts in Marin and how relations between city and county government could be improved.

All said some form of sewer agency merger was necessary, as well as agreeing consolidation might in the future extend to such services as police, fire and parks. But none was willing to support the concept of a City and County of Marin.

Wornum, Arrigoni, Peevey and Giacomini flatly endorsed the Marin Municipal Water District assuming the sewage treatment function in Marin, while the other candidates had various governing proposals.

Most of the candidates stressed the importance of the preliminary countywide master plan, to be considered for adoption soon by the board of supervisors, in promoting county-city cooperation, as well as a tool for limiting growth.

Peevey was hopeful of a way the plan, which calls largely for restricting growth to the county's eastern corridor, could become binding even if adopted only by a majority of the cities. But Dougan criticized the suggestion, questioning the ethics if San Rafael and Novato, the county's two largest cities, were opposed to the plan.

Giacomini raised the possibility of a strengthened City-County Planning Council taking on the role of a countywide planning agency in the future.

While most of the candidates said they would support water supply restriction as a means of controlling growth in the event regular planning measures failed, Dougan, Banks and Filante were hesitant or outright opposed.

All but Mrs. Boxer endorsed limited civilian jet flights from Hamilton Air Force Base. Those in favor said the operation would help reduce auto pollution growing out of Marin traffic to San Francisco International Airport and attracting light industry to Marin, but Mrs. Boxer said a heliport might be a better civilian use for Hamilton and added that the county didn't need any more light industry.

With Filante and Miss Maginnis undecided, the candidates said they opposed Proposition 9, the statewide pollution initiative on the June 6 ballot. Most noted, however, that some features of the proposal were laudable.

The candidates promised full disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures prior to the election. Dougan, in fact, read his tally sheet thus far from a scrap of paper pulled from his pocket.

"My largest single contributor was my mother, who gave me $150," he said, sparking laughter in the audience.

That brought this quip from Wornum: "I think your mother's a cheapskate because mine gave me $500."

"My mother didn't give me anything at all," said Arrigoni.

Vandals Hit Construction Equipment

Instrument panel gauges were smashed and sugar poured into the fuel tanks of a bulldozer and loader located at a construction site at the west end of Freitas Parkway, San Rafael police said yesterday.

Lyle E. Kibbe, 35, of P. O. Box 115, Brown's Valley, an equipment operator for Triangle Engineering Co. of Marysville, told police the vandalism occurred on two separate occasions between last Friday and Tuesday morning.

Damage to the two machines was estimated at $700, police said.

Hongisto Plans Stay At Synanon

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The sheriff of San Francisco and nine of his deputies are moving into Oakland's Synanon Center to learn "how the heroin addict feels."

Sheriff Richard Hongisto said the officers volunteered for the experience and would continue working their regular shifts while at Synanon.

Bank Expects Economy Boost

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Bank of America feels that 1972 will be a good year for California's economy.

The bank's economists said Wednesday real disposable income is expected to grow about 5 per cent this year, compared with 2.8 per cent in 1971. Employment is projected to increase 2.3 per cent, the bank said, and unemployment should decrease from last year's figure of 7 per cent to 5.8 per cent.

The bank said state aerospace employment is expected to hold steady, and other manufacturing areas are expected to increase employment by about 2 per cent.

The bank cautioned, however, that a temporary summertime lull in consumer spending gains could be expected because of a delayed reaction to the onetime increase in state personal income tax collections resulting from new withholding requirements.

Corte Madera Creek Study Is Agreed On

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Officials of the county and the town of Ross have tentatively agreed to begin new studies aimed at keeping Corte Madera Creek in its natural state and rerouting flood waters underground.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said yesterday the two sides informally agreed to the proposal Monday but it must still be approved by the board of supervisors, Ross Town Council and Ross Valley Flood Control Advisory Board.

The proposal calls for hiring a consultant to study realigning the flood control channel through underground conduits beneath Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Sylvan and Shady Lanes.

The conduits would be less wide than those previously studied, he said, and would not result in any street widening. Undergrounding a flood control channel was studied earlier but brought objection from Ross residents who opposed any widening of Sir Francis Drake.

Arrigoni said he had been told by Ray W. Foreaker Jr., county public works director, that the study could be made for about $250.

Arrigoni said others agreeing to the study included Ross Mayor Frederick S. Allen, town councilman Julie Osterloh, and Warren Perry, mayor of San Anselmo. Others attending the meeting included Foreaker, the city engineers and Peter Valentine, a Ross resident successful in bringing the Corte Madera Creek flood control project to a halt pending a referendum vote.

The creek project — delayed at least a year by Valentine's action — calls for placing a concrete channel in Corte Madera Creek. It has been opposed on grounds that the aesthetic and ecological balance of the creek would be destroyed.

Besides Valentine's action, the creek project is entangled in a legal dispute between the county and town over who should pay for improving drainage in Ross.

The county maintains it should pay only $60,000 of the work which is estimated at more than $300,000. Ross claims the county should pay all as part of the flood control project.

Arrigoni said by placing the flood conduits under the streets, some of Ross's drainage problems may prove easier and cheaper to correct.

Eisenhower Dollars Showing Big Profit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary John B. Connally says the government is making money on the new Eisenhower silver dollar.

He told a congressional hearing Wednesday that the Mint sold 10.4 million of the coins last year for a profit of $40.4 million. The coins now being offered to collectors contain 40 per cent silver and sell for $10 for a proof coin and $3 for an uncirculated one.

A Clerk's Error In Indictment

Because of a mistake in the clerk's record of a grand jury session, the Independent-Journal reported yesterday that Eddie Lee Griffin Jr. was indicted on a charge of possession of a firebomb which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison.

Griffin was actually indicted for first degree burglary, which carries a maximum penalty of life in prison. Burglary in this case is defined as going with a firebomb into the Marin City fire house and sheriff's substation then under construction.

The 21-year-old member of the Black Liberation Army was arrested March 27 by a deputy who said he found Griffin crawling into a heating duct with the bomb. The device exploded harmlessly after it was removed.

The new unofficial totals with all precincts reporting gave Humphrey 487,321 votes, McGovern 468,208, Sen. Edmund Muskie 103,852, Sen. Henry Jackson 96,668 and Eugene McCarthy 26,242.

All Finesses Are Equal, But Some Of Them Are More Equal

When you take a finesse you have an even chance to gain a trick. You also have an even chance to lose the finesse. If you have a choice between two finesses, how do you know which to take? Isn't one even chance as good as another? As George Orwell might have put it: "All finesses are equal, but some are more equal than others."

FINESSE PROBLEM

Put yourself in South's shoes. You win the first or second spade trick and wonder whether to finesse in hearts or in diamonds.

If the heart finesse wins, you have a spade, four hearts, two diamonds and two clubs — nine of the best. If you decide to try the diamonds instead, and happen to guess right, you have a spade, a heart, five diamonds and two clubs.

Which suit should you try? If you decide to finesse in diamonds, which way do you finesse?

COMBINATION SHOT

Your best chance is to try a combination shot. First try to drop the missing honor in one of the red suits; and then, if it doesn't drop, try the finesse in the other suit. This gives you two chances instead of only one.

Which card is more likely to drop — the king of hearts or the queen of diamonds? The answer is very obvious.

HEART FINESSE

Therefore you lay down the king and ace of diamonds as a starter. If the queen fails to drop, you will be in position to try the heart finesse.

As it happens, however, the queen of diamonds does drop. Thereupon you take your nine tricks and score the game and rubber. No finesse is necessary.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - K Q J 9 7
♥ - 5 3
♦ - Q 3
♣ - Q 9 8 5.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two clubs.

The hand isn't quite good enough for a raise to three spades, so you bid a side suit with the intention of raising spades at your next turn. Don't worry about the weakness of your clubs when you have such good spades to go back to.

The California Highway Patrol said a load of logs shifted on his truck and it overturned on the roadway.

Ford Freeway Is Giant Toll Taker

DETROIT (UPI)—The Edsel Ford Freeway in Detroit accounted for 56 per cent of the traffic fatalities on Detroit's total freeway system in 1971, making it twice as dangerous — fatality-wise—than any other freeway in the city.

But the total freeway system of approximately 53 miles had an exceptionally low death rate of 1.9 deaths per 100 million miles of vehicle travel, the lowest Detroit has ever recorded, and much better than the figures for the country's Interstate freeway system.

ABSOLUTE PRIVACY

is a hard thing to find these days, but here's a house that's got it, and great sun, and a nice view. The house itself is real funny. Lots of rooms, here and there, and porches and windows, all more or less in the modern manner. It needs some work, and taste, and imagination, but it has wonderful potential, if you know what you're doing. Lots of level land for outdoor living and tall trees all around. Interesting at $37,500. Our exclusive.

BIG FELLOW — A North American musk ox: it's not exactly cuddly, but it's pretty friendly. The U.S. recently sent Red China two of them in exchange for a pair of pandas.

By ROBIN WRIGHT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Ominously still, the creature stared sideways. Those two-foot-long horns, pointed and always ready for an attack; that hulking five-foot frame, a symbol of mastered strength; and that eerie air of fierce confidence — overwhelming.

This shaggy monster was supposed to be a gift of friendship?

At first view, it was hard to believe that in exchange for those appealingly cuddly panda bears, the U.S. sent China two of these remnants of the Ice Age, the North American musk ox.

It also seemed a good thing that the animals the two countries exchanged don't symbolize their new foreign policies, because musk ox look about as fierce as pandas look friendly.

Ironically, it's actually the other way around: the panda can be an ornery animal, while the musk ox is a gently affectionate creature.

Another paradox is that the panda is no more a bear than the musk ox is an oxen. Score one for deception. Again it's a good thing there's no symbolism between the animals and the new Sino-U.S. relations.

Instead, the panda is a member of the raccoon family, and the musk ox is of the sheep-goat classification.

The case of the musk ox is similar. Its name was derived partly from the size and many similarities with oxen, and partly from its reputedly musky odor, which many now deny it has.

You might call the poor musk ox a victim of first impressions, as evidenced in name, reputation, and history. Now scarce because hunters sought them as wild animals until recently, musk oxen actually are very practical creatures to domesticate.

The arctic-tundra natives are as well rounded as the beef cow, but even more useful. They milk, shed hair as soft and valuable as cashmere, provide top-grade meat (muskburgers?), and have marketable hides.

Alaskan villagers knit scarves from musk oxen's fine underwool, called quiviut, which is shed in blanketlike sheets each spring. Warm and lightweight, the scarves sell for as much as $50 each.

And Alaskan farmers now are trying further to develop the animal's talents by training them for travel, like horses, since they fare so well in subzero weather and can achieve very high speeds despite half-ton weights.

On top of all that, musk oxen are considered the smartest of all ruminants. After merely observing, they've been known to duplicate actions as intricate as opening a lock.

The strictly vegetarian creatures also can be as sweet as they are clever. An assistant manager of an Alaskan herd described them as "much safer than a dairy bull."

And John Goodrich, a Vermont farmer who may have the only two nonzoo musk oxen in the continental U.S., said that his follow him around, often nuzzling his pockets or his hand for apples.

"If you're kind to them, they learn to trust you and will do almost anything for you," he said of his "Girlie" and "Little Girlie."

And although he said they'll fight to the end if angered enough, they won't run into a human being if he's standing still. They stop eight to 10 feet from humans, reasons ununown.

Another benefit is that musk ox have relatively long life spans many, like horses, live 25 years.

For that reason the two tiny oxen that traveled to Peking last month hopefully will entertain Chinese zoo watchers for a long time.

Milton and Matilda, former residents of the San Francisco Zoo, were only 8 months and 1½ years respectively, on the date of their departure. Now they're scraggly, bewildered little calves with hair that looks like rumpled balls of steel wool.

As their 100-pound frames grow, the Chinese can expect to see their long, coarse brown hair extended almost to the ground, gradually concealing a short tail and two small ears.

Their neckless heads will sprout horns, growing longer each year until they look like two perfect curls at the sides of their heads. With those horns on a five-foot frame, Milton and Matilda will be an awesome sight. Just remember, they like apples.

Pedestrian In Good Condition

The victim, of 321 C Street, was struck at 7:55 a.m. at the intersection of Bayview and D streets by a car driven by Ralph L. Giese, 49, of 1834 Fourth street, police reported.

According to police, Giese said he was blinded by the sun as he turned from Bayview onto D Street and was unable to avoid the accident.

Marin School Board Meeting Is Tonight

The Marin County Board of Education, meeting today at 7:30 p.m., will notify from 10 to 12 district teachers they will be fired, according to Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain.

The action follows a decision by Rudolf H. Michaels, a state hearing officers, that the board is justified in reducing its staff. Fifty-four teachers were notified in March they might be fired and appealed the decision to the state. In the meantime routine resignations have reduced the number to about 12.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

No-Fault Insurance In A Key Assembly Victory

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A key Assembly committee has approved narrowly a mandatory system of modified no-fault automobile insurance despite strong opposition by trial lawyers and an insurance company.

The bill by Assemblyman Jack Fenton, D-Montebello, went to the floor on a split 11-6 vote, the minimum needed for approval, by the Ways and Means Committee.

"If and when this bill gets to the Senate," Fenton said, "there will be changes and compromises."

As presently written, the proposal would require every California motorist to purchase minimum insurance coverage. Car owners would be required to show proof of the insurance when registering for license plates each year.

Regardless of who was at fault in an accident, the insurance company would pay up to $10,000 in liability damages to its insureds. The motorist or passenger could go to court to collect for "pain and suffering" only when the medical bills exceeded $1,000.

Proponents of no-fault legislation contend that the reduced number of court cases under the system would stabilize or perhaps reduce insurance premiums.

The measure was opposed by the American Trial Lawyers Association, the California Trial Lawyers Association and the Farmers Insurance Group. Their representatives said that premiums would increase under no-fault and predicted a citizen "backlash."

"There will be no reduction in premiums in any of these bills," said Marvin Lewis, president of the American Trial Lawyers. "There's going to be an increase in premiums."

Under the proposed measure, the insurance company would pay regardless of fault medical expenses incurred for diagnosis, cure, recovery, rehabiitation, including drugs and semiprivate hospital room.

But the policy would not pay for "pain and suffering" unless the medical expenses exceeded $1,000 and the patient went to court to determine fault and collect from the other party.

WELFARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has killed a bill to empower welfare investigators to inspect confidential bank records when they suspect an aid recipient of fraud. The vote was 14-20.

Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, led the opposition Wednesday saying he didn't believe "any old, snoopy welfare fellow" should have access to the documents.

But the author, Sen. Clark Bradley, R-San Jose, said the bill would formally ratify the current practices of some welfare fraud examiners.

STALLS AID

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate has refused to vote swift approval to an Assembly-passed measure urging the Reagan administration to reduce the amount of money adult children are required to contribute for support of their elderly welfare parents.

On an 8-13 vote Wednesday, the Senate denied Sen. Ralph Dills, D-Gardena, permission to withdraw from the Health and Welfare Committee a resolution by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco.

Both houses of the legislature have approved separate bills cutting back to pre-1971 levels the amount of financial support "responsible relatives" must contribute to their parents receiving aid to the elderly.

THIRD TIME

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —For the third consecutive year, the state Senate has overwhelmingly approved legislation making it mandatory first-degree murder to kill an on-duty policeman.

But an opponent, Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, said the legislature should defeat such measures and concentrate harder on approving bills to improve peace officer salaries and fringe benefits.

The proposal by Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, cleared the Senate on a 28-5 vote Wednesday and was sent to the Assembly where virtually identical Richardson-authored legislation has been twice previously killed in the Criminal Justice Committee.

QUAKE PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Education Committee has approved legislation designed to make schools earthquake-proof after seismologist Charles Richter warned the panel there is no area in the state safe from quakes.

Richter, who devised the Richter scale to measure the intensity of earthquakes, told the committee Wednesday that California has a "long record of either ignoring or inadequately providing against earthquake risks."

He said most major earthquakes have occurred during non-school hours.

"But this is nothing we can gamble on," he said.

The committee approved and sent to the floor a constitutional amendment by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, that would require a simple majority vote by local school districts to pass bond measures for repair or replacement of schools determined to be unsafe from earthquake hazards.

Currently, a two-thirds vote is required for local bond issue approval.

ENVIRONMENT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A so-called "environmental bill of rights" was approved Wednesday by the Assembly and sent to the Senate.

The proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, cleared the lower house on a 60-3 vote.

It declares that it is state policy to "protect natural resources, to develop and maintain an environment of high quality, and to assure clean air, pure water, freedom from excessive noise, and enjoyment of scenic, historic, natural and esthetic values."

RETIRE PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly Ways and Means comittee has approved a $20 million bill designed to increase retirement benefits for 23,000 local law officers and firemen.

The bill by Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg, D-Sacramento, would give peace officers and firemen who are members of the public employes retirement system the same benefits as highway patrolmen. They would be permitted to retire at age 50 after 25 years of service at half of their highest pay.

ENDORSEMENT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Rules Committee reversed itself today and endorsed Gov. Ronald Reagan's nomination of land developer Roy T. Brophy to the state University and Colleges Board of Trustees.

The Democratic — dominated committee took no action, however, on the governor's appointment of three other Republicans to the board.

Still hanging in Rules Committee limbo are the nominations of Mrs. Jeannette Ritchie, a Menlo Park nurse, Robert Beaver, a Fullerton contractor, and Frank Adams, a Piedmont lawyer and former president of the California Republican Assembly.

Preliminary Budget Is Approved

A preliminary water department budget of $614,867 for 1972-73 was approved yesterday by the Petaluma Water Commission.

The budget proposal to go to the city council represents an increase of $91,472 over this year's budget of $532,395.

The commission heard that the largest portion of the increase will be set aside in case the Sonoma County Water Agency increases the price on water it sells to Petaluma. Secretary Kay Hagan said the general maintenance portion of the budget was also increased to reflect higher prices.

The commission approved the budget, but said it had reservations about a $7,000 allocation to buy data processing equipment for water billings. Members said more information must be shown to prove Petaluma is large enough to warrant more sophisticated equipment.

Shorter Hours Bill Is Advanced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation lowering from 84 to 72 the number of hours Division of Forestry firefighters are required to work during the fire season has been approved by the Assembly Ways and Means Commiittee.

Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post said the bill by Assemblyman Frank Murphy Jr., R-Santa Cruz, would add $3.9 million in 1974-75 to state firefighting costs and $1.2 million to the costs of some local agencies.

The measure was sent to the floor Wednesday on a 14-3 vote.

Airline Chiefs Urge Bigger Guard Force

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The nation's major airlines urged the government Thursday to bolster the federal guard force at airports and finance weapons detection devices to help foil hijackers.

In a letter to Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe and signed by 11 airlines, industry officials urged Volpe to schedule a meeting shortly to discuss the proposal.

Under the present system, the airlines supply weapons detection devices which cost about $1,000 each. The government provides a force of about 1,000 marshals to protect airports from hijackers.

The airlines gave no details on the number of new guards needed, or the amount needed to finance weapons detection devices.

The airlines said they were making every effort to meet the strict new federal standards for airport security, which went into effect Feb. 5, but said "airline compliance alone will not stop air piracy or threats of sabotage."

The government should provide guards "at active airline gate positions" for immediate action if a weapons detection device sounds an alert, the airlines' letter said. The guards also would be able to prevent "forced entry" of a hijacker through an airline boarding gate, it said.

Under the present hijack security program, the airlines screen passengers and baggage with a weapons detection device, and use a behavioral profile designed to alert ticket agents to a potential hijacker.

The behavioral profile has not proven foolproof, nor are there enough weapons detection devices in use, critics of the program say. Airline officials believe an augmented force of airport guards would help close the loopholes.

Airlines signing the letter to Volpe were American, Braniff, Continental, Delta, Eastern, Northeast, Northwest, Pan American, Trans World, Western and United.

The nation's two latest hijackings — of an Eastern Air Lines plane from Allentown, Pa., and a Western airliner from Salt Lake City —occurred just last Friday.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Death Certificates Don't Tell About Person's Social Habits

After a person dies, the physician is reluctant to discuss the more personal habits and psychological events that may have contributed to his demise. But taboos about studying death are disappearing and a new science, called thanatology, is emerging. It is an important step forward, because many personal factors bring on diseases that lead to premature or sudden death.

THIS IS said despite the fact that the physician and family may prefer to forget the past. The deceased may have been a heavy drinker or smoker, a "swinger," or careless about personal habits. Harmful traits never appear on the death certificate, even though they may have shortened life. It is much easier to blame death on the heart, liver, or a stroke.

Psychological stresses also may kill a person, but here again, we never see this mentioned on a death certificate.

As an example, the psychic stress induced on a vulnerable population by lawyers is a factor contributing to a fatal outcome. Legal delays and constant haggling mean sleepless nights and considerable anxieties for their clients. Legal problems dragged out for months might be solved in an afternoon, if the concerned parties were willing to get together. If one of the clients dies of a heart attack, the doctor blames the heart, but the family will claim that he was "scared to death" or the tension associated with impending litigation was too much for his old ticker.

WE MAY learn more about this in the future, when a person agrees to have his heart monitored during trying situations that cannot be ignored. Cardiac monitoring is a simple procedure and it may help the physician determine whether the experience should be terminated before serious physical consequences occur.

We realize that it is impossible to monitor everyone facing a trying situation, but for those who have one or more high-risk factors for a heart attack, it may be worthwhile.

PRECLINICAL DIABETES

J. P. writes: Can preclinical diabetes be cured by diet?

REPLY

No, but diabetes can be delayed in many through the use of a low calorie diet to lose weight. Preclinical diabetes is diagnosed by giving an individual sugar and testing the blood for several hours thereafter. The person with this condition reacts in much the same way as the diabetic. Ordinarily, he does not show evidence of diabetes.

AGE AND HEART ATTACKS

M. A. writes: Are heart attacks more serious in midlife than in old age?

REPLY

Yes, because the basic cause of coronary thrombosis is narrowing of a hardened coronary artery. Arteriosclerosis that is causing symptoms is serious at any age, but when it develops in midlife, the process is somewhat premature and is a sign of early deterioration.

OLIVES

M. A. writes: My young son loves olives and eats a can at a sitting. What should I do about it?

REPLY

Call him Oliver. Who buys the olives?

BITTER GALL

I.B. writes: Periodically I vomit bitter gall. The doctor had two X-rays taken, but they didn't show any gall-bladder disease. What else could cause these attacks?

REPLY

Ordinary indigestion. Bile may seep upwards into the stomach, especially when the individual retches. It has left the gallbladder and is in the intestine.

Trespassing Is Denied In Court

A lesser charge of trespassing has been substituted for burglary in the case of Frederick Neville Henderson, 32, of no known address.

Henderson pleaded innocent to the misdemeanor count in Marin Municipal Court and a pretrial conference was set for Monday.

The man was allegedly found by the owner in a home on Cascade Drive in Mill Valley April 29. The prowler fled, but was arrested minutes later by Mill Valley police.

Earthquake-Proof School Bill Passed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — After seismologist Charles Richter warned there is no area in the state safe from earthquakes, the Senate Education Committee yesterday passed legislation designed to make schools earthquake-proof.

The panel approved and sent to the floor a constitutional amendment by Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, that would require a simple majority vote by local school districts to pass bond measures for repair or replacement of schools determined to be unsafe from earthquake hazards.

Currently, a two-thirds vote is required for bond issue approval.

The proposed amendment, which would require voter approval, and a companion implementation bill by Moscone were passed on 6-2 votes.

Richter, who devised the Richter scale to measure the intensity of earthquakes, told the committee California has a "long record of either ignoring or inadequately providing against earthquake riuks."

Richter said most of the major earthquakes in the past occurred during non-school hours.

"But this is nothing we can gamble on," he said.

Sen. Fred Marler Jr., R-Redding, asked Richter if some schools should have less strict safety standards because of lower earthquake risks.

"There is no settled area in the state not out of striking range," Richter said.

Richter also warned that earthquakes stronger than past temblors may still occur.

"We cannot assume that the largest events that taken place are the largest," he said.

Sen. Moscone told the panel that some 1,7000 school buildings in the state do not meet safety standards required by the Field Act and may have to be abandoned.

"These measures will provide money that must be spent before 1975," Moscone said.

The Field Act requires that schools meet construction safety standards by 1975.

The measures were opposed by the state Department of General Services, the California Real Estate Association and the California Taxpayers Association.

Dugald Gillies, a representative of the California Real Estate Association, argued the legislation would place a new burden on property taxpayers.

Sen. Marler and Sen. Dennis Carpenter, R-Newport Beach, cast the two "no" votes against both measures.

No Charge Filed In Check Case

No charge has been filed against Leroy Raymond Willey, 40, of Santa Clara in connection with four bad checks pending further investigation, the district attorney's office said yesterday.

The former Petaluma resident had been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of passing the checks in Mill Valley in December as well as car theft.

He pleaded innocent Monday to the theft of a car from Annex Motors in San Rafael March 19 and a jury trial was set for the week of May 30.

Mars' Frosty Polar Cap Supports Water Theory

PASADENA (UPI)—The frosty south polar cap of Mars may consist mostly of water ice rather than carbon dioxide as thought previously, a research team reported Wednesday.

The findings confirmed further the theory that liquid water existed on Mars in the past, eroding channels and grooves in the surface and increasing the chances for life to develop.

The geologic report was prepared by a team of scientists headed by Dr. James A. Cutts of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory and was based on four months of photography from the Mariner 9 spacecraft still orbiting Mars.

The white south polar ice cap expands to about 2,000 miles in diameter in the Martian winter, but in the spring it shrinks to a residual cap of about 200 miles in diameter.

"The fact that the residual cap doesn't go away suggests that it is water ice and perhaps is quite thick," the report said.

"The carbon dioxide (dry ice) frost coating is believed to be very thin.

"If water had been abundantly supplied as vapor on Mars, much of it should have migrated to the polar region. Once there, and collected into thick deposits, water ice would be quite stable.

The scientists noted that volcanic craters have been detected in photos returned by Mariner 9. This suggests that, in a process similar to that which occurred on earth, water vapor was formed in the atmosphere by volcanic action.

State Reports On Withholding

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Reagan administration reported Wednesday the state has collected $287.7 million in state personal income taxes through the payroll withholding system since it was started Jan. 1.

Director Sigurd I. Hansen of the Department of Human Resources Development said checks totaling that amount were received through Monday. He said the checks represented the bulk of the returns from employers covering the first quarter of this year.

Hansen said the tax money has been received at HRD at the rate of 65 to 70 mailbags a day, ranging in daily totals from $8 million to $18 million.

Earthquake Rocks Northern Japan

TOKYO (UPI)—An earthquake rocked northern Japan today but no damage was reported.

The quake was felt at 9:45 a.m. in Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost island, and the northern part of Honshu, the nation's largest island.

CALLING ALL CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard
HELP STAMP OUT DULL HOME MOVIES

Movies are an action medium in photography. They'll record scenic wonders beautifully, too, but the distinctive feature of any home movie should be that it MOVES.

That means action . . . and action means, usually, people doing something. That's where the trouble usually comes in. When people know they're on camera, they have a tendency to "freeze up" and stare at the photographer . . . stopping the action. Or they'll wave and smile self-consciously toward the camera. The result tends to be the usual dull home movie.

One solution is an old one: Use the "candid camera" approach, trying to catch your subjects unawares so that they act naturally instead of freezing for the camera. Remember that most movie scenes shouldn't last more than 15 seconds, anyway, so you don't have to stay hiding for long.

You'll be surprised how many candid opportunities arise for fresh, natural, active home movies when you start looking for them . . . and stay alert, ready for action.

If you haven't looked lately, you'll be surprised at the selection of easy-to-use movie cameras available. Come in and look them over . . . and get in on the action!

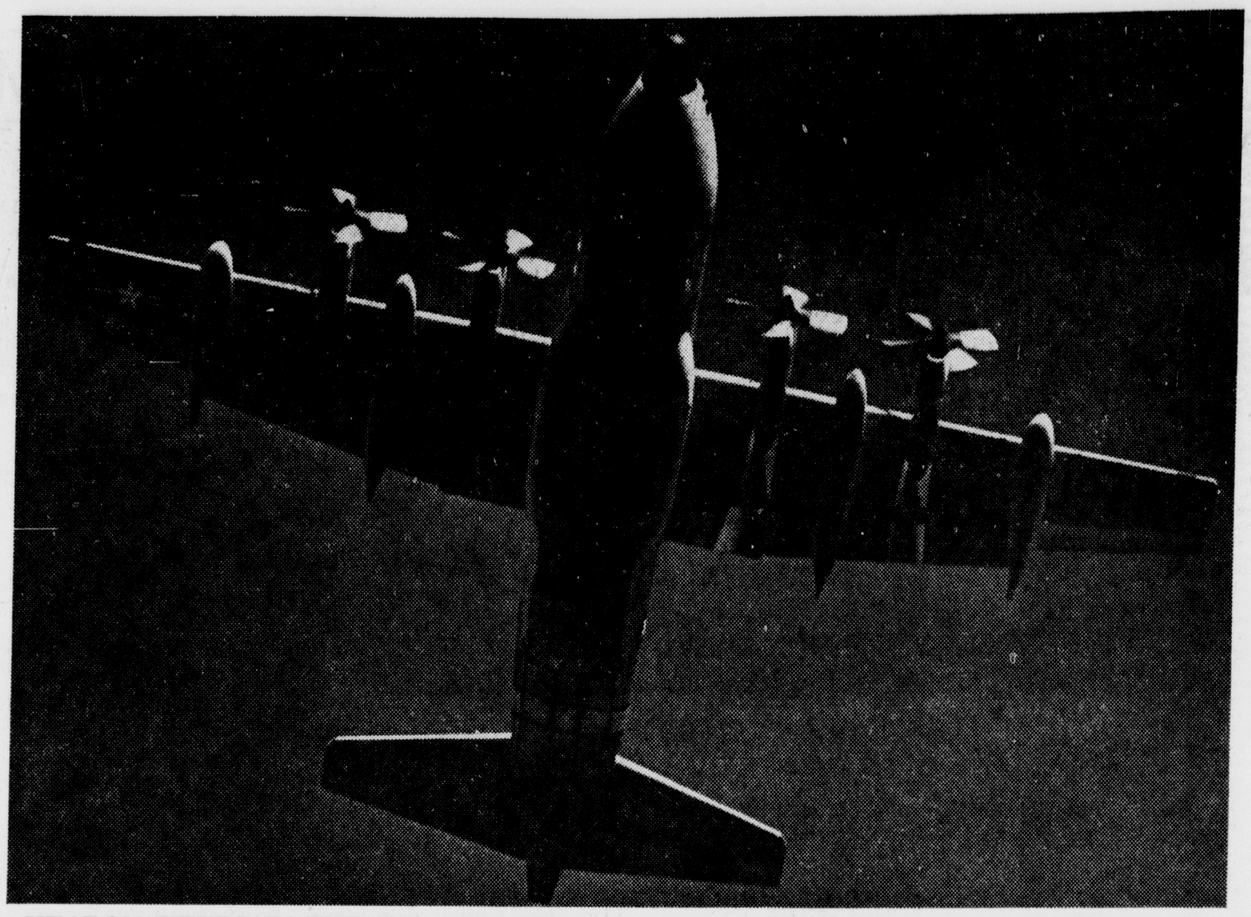
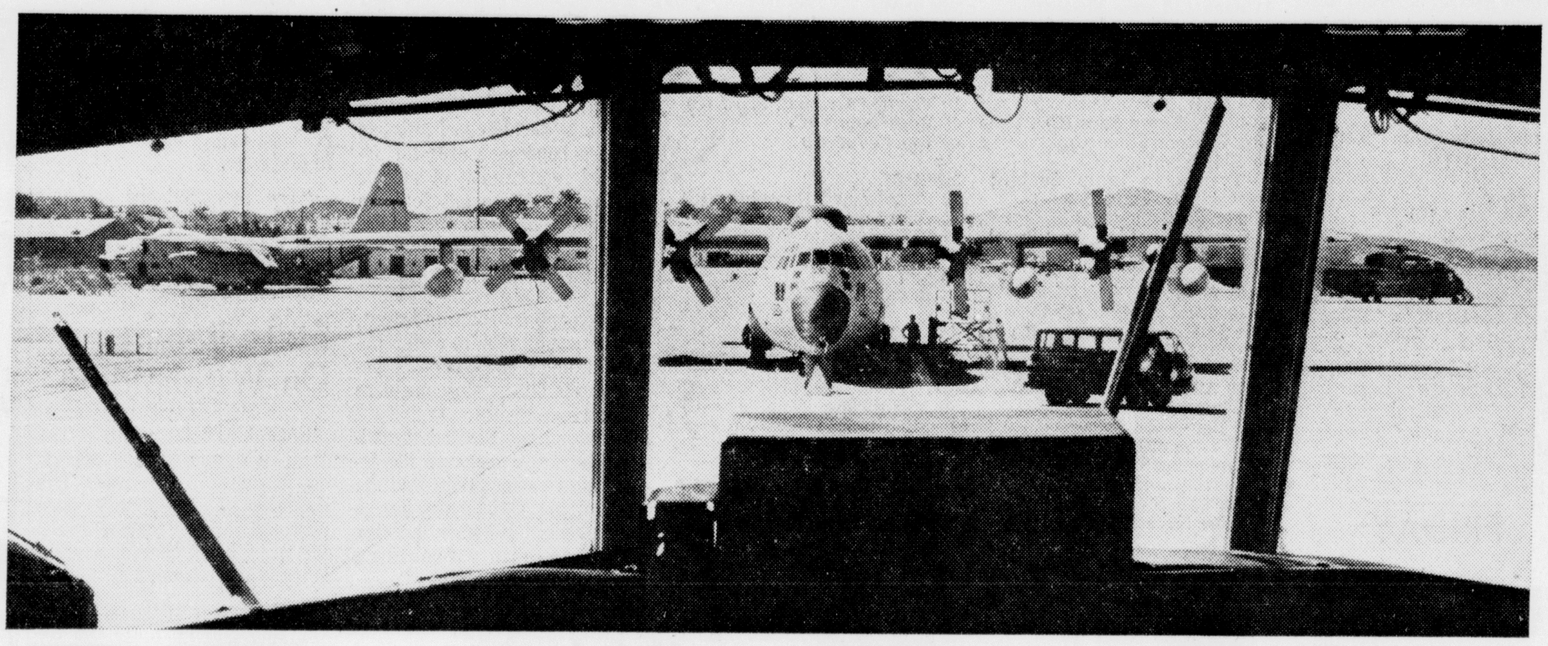
BAILING OUT — Almost together, two pararescuemen, T/Sgt. John Carlson and S/Sgt Michael J. Howard, leave the HC-130 from 1,200 feet on a qualifying jump.



HEADQUARTERS IN THE SKY — An HC-130 Hercules, a medium sized turbojet aircraft, one of five assigned to the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base, soars on a practice run carrying pararescuemen. The squadron covers approximately one third of the Western U.S. and 1,000 miles over the Pacific Ocean. Sixty to 70 per cent of its missions involve rescue of civilians in distress.

BLOSSOMS —Side by side, two full parachutes resemble blossoming flowers as they float toward the earth carrying two pararescuemen, Carlson and Howard in a practice jump toward a simulated injured person on the ground.



WINGED WORKHORSE — An HC-130 seen from the cockpit of another HC-130 on the flight line at Hamilton Air Force Base appears to be a reflection. The planes are the work horses of the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery, whose mission extends throughout one third of the Western U.S. and 1,000 miles over the Pacific Ocean. The squadron's motto is "That Others May Live" and 60 to 70 per cent of its missions involve rescue of civilians in distress.

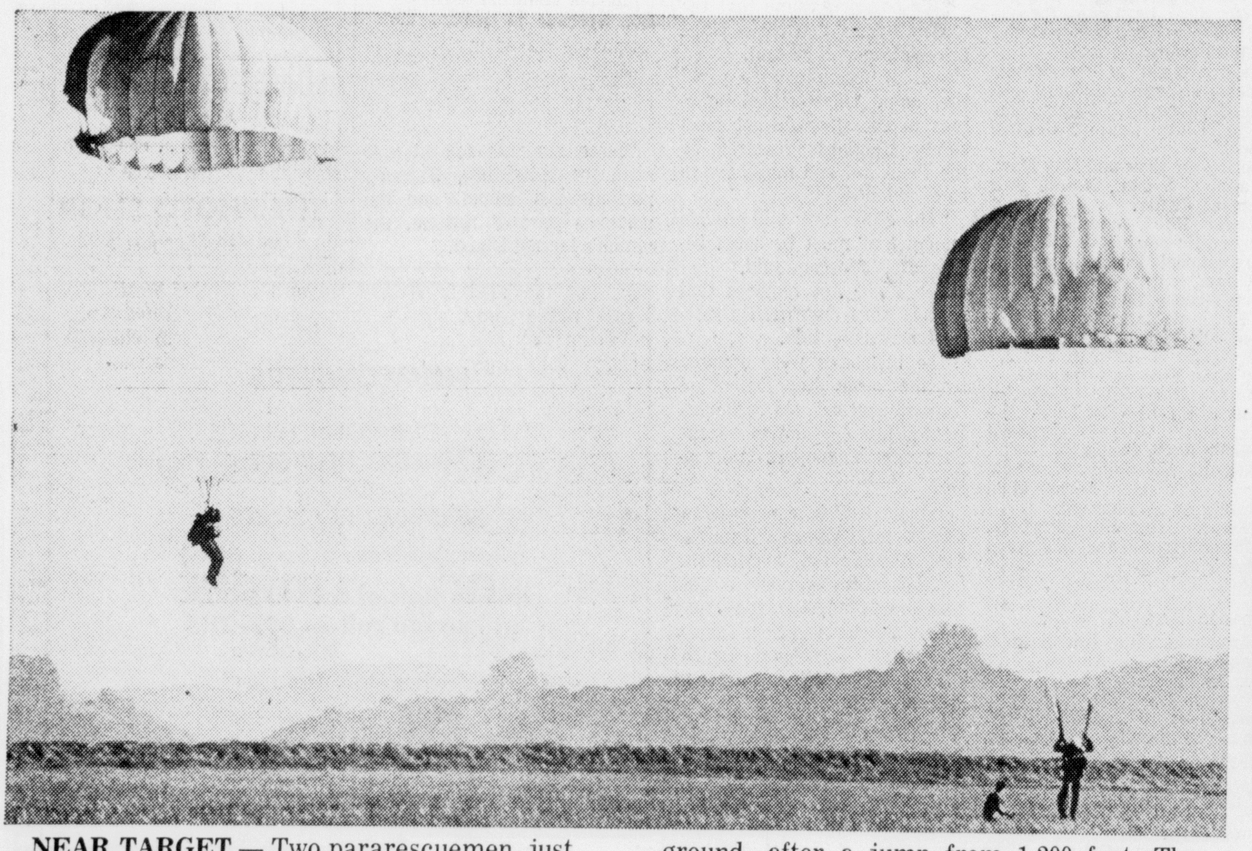
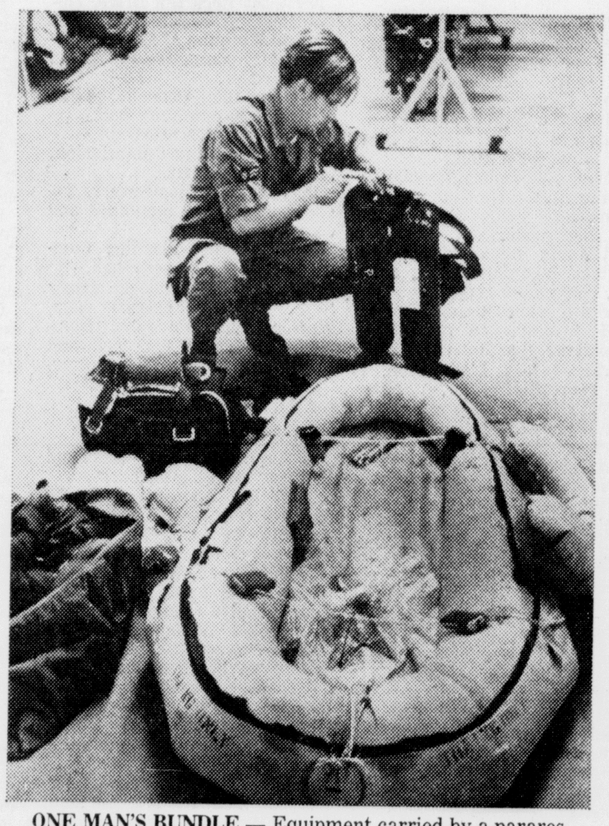
Motto: That Others May Live

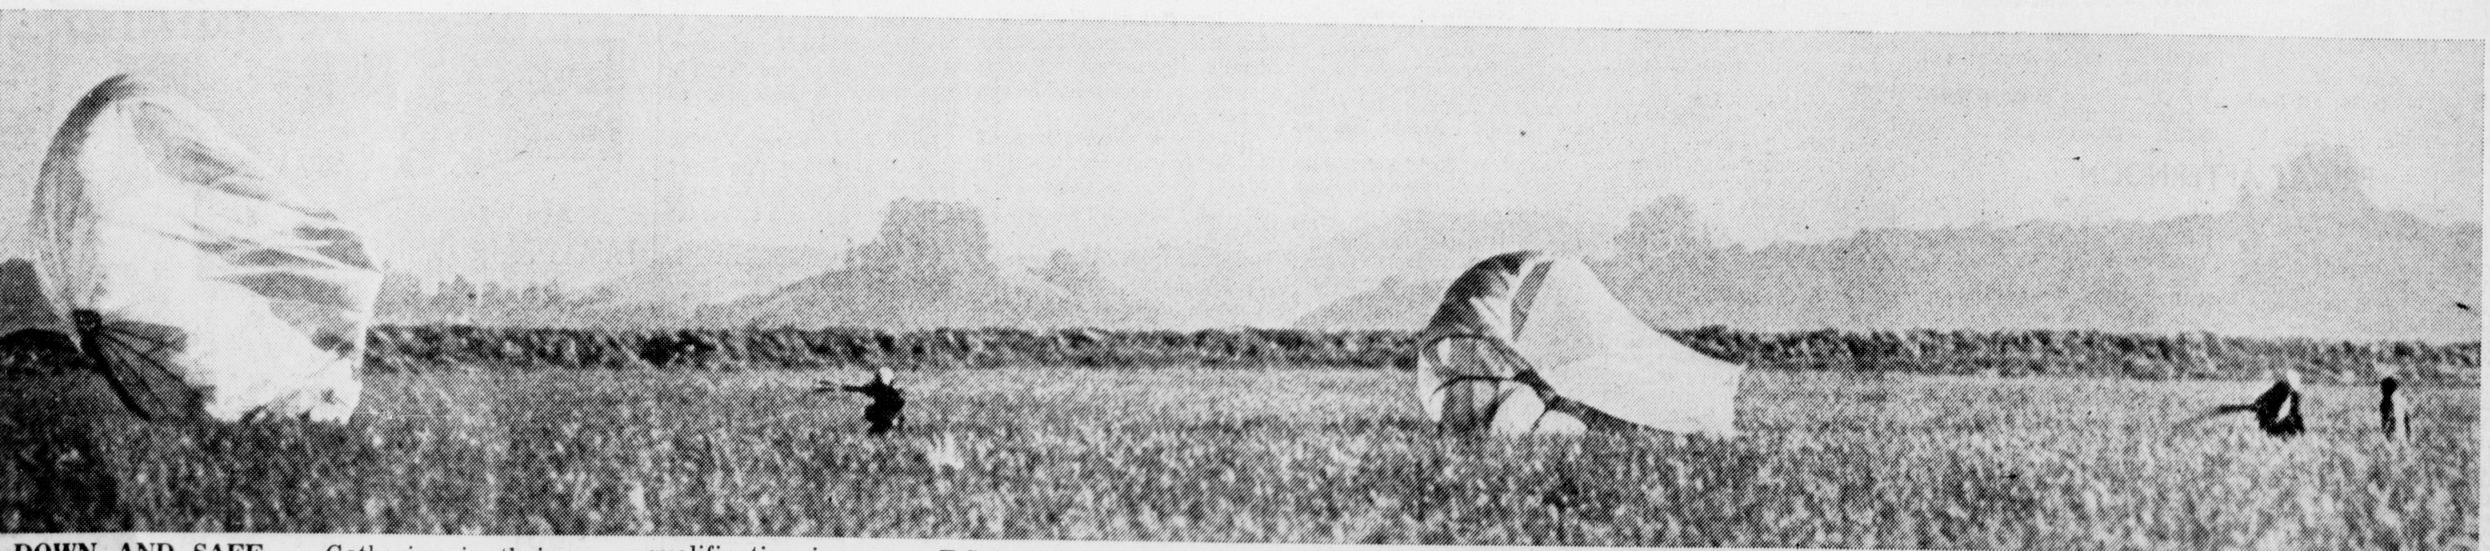


NEAR TARGET — Two pararescuemen, just yards apart, land in the tall grass of a practice field, very close to their target at right, a simulated injured person on the ground, after a jump from 1,200 feet. The pararescuemen maneuver their way to the target with parachutes designed so they can be steered in any direction.



ONE MAN'S BUNDLE — Equipment carried by a pararescueman weighs about 150 pounds including raft, medical supplies and air tanks. Airman 1/C, a pararescueman, checks his bundle before making a parachute jump. With scuba equipment, a pararescueman carries 300 pounds in equipment.

AFTER THE JUMP — At the other end of an unfurled parachute, an unidentified pararescueman starts the time consuming task of repacking his own parachute. With practice and help from another person, the job can be done in about 30 minutes.



DOWN AND SAFE — Gathering in their parachutes in a level field after a successful qualification jump are T/Sgt. John Carlson and S/Sgt. Michael Howard, pararescuemen from the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron.

SPORT NOTES

Marin Prep Stars Picking Colleges

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Steve McGee of Redwood is headed for University of Hawaii and Novato High School's Roger Rechsteiner and Marty Moroski are hoping for appointments to the Air Force Academy in Colorado but other Marin County premier athletes are planning to stick closer to home.

Of the 16 top athletes (two from each MCAL school) honored Tuesday night by the KTIM Sportsman's Club at its 14th annual banquet, this time held at Ignacio's Alvarado Inn, six said they planned to enroll at College of Marin after June graduation. I can just see that Tar coaching staff drooling now.

Tamalpais High's Greg Biber, Drake's Dave Segale, Marin Catholic's Steve Sherry, San Marin's Marty Larsen and Terra Linda's Brian Jordan and Michael Sabel, all fine all-around athletes, are planning on College of Marin.

Dan Young of Redwood and Bill Lechner of San Rafael will be at University of California at Davis when the fall semester begins. San Rafael's Scott Duncan, who has a date in the Shrine North-South football game this summer in Los Angeles to make before college, said he had picked University of California, Berkeley. Drake's Tom Perry is headed for Stanford so those two might be across the lines from each other in the Big Game two or three years from now.

Marin Catholic's Paul Riccardi has chosen University of San Francisco and Greg Mazares of San Marin is trying to pick between University of Nevada and San Jose State. If a professional baseball career doesn't come first, Tam's Clifford Hall will probably be at San Diego State.

The names of Biber and Sherry were familiar on the KTIM Sportsman's Club award roster. Greg's big brother, Mike was a Tam winner in 1967 and Steve's big brother, Vince, won at Marin Catholic in 1965.

When master of ceremonies Bob Dinsmore of KTIM introduced the guest speaker, Golden State Warriors' Joe Ellis, he called him "one of the nicest gentlemen in pro sports." After a question and answer session with Joe, I think those in attendance felt the same way.

When he was asked the inevitable question, "Where is Nate Thurmond going to play next season?" Ellis said he didn't have the slightest idea but added with a smile, "As soon as I find out myself I will give you a call."

Ellis said he felt the Warriors had a good nucleus with which to work in 1973, that is if

Biber Sets Low Hurdles Track Mark

Greg Biber of Tamalpais set a new 180-yard low hurdles record of 20.8 yesterday in the second day of trials for the Marin County Athletic League meet at the College of Marin in Kentfield.

In Class B, Darrel Elder of Redwood set new MCAL meet marks in the shot put and the discus. Elder heaved the shot seven feet beyond the previous record, with a 57-6½ put. Hs discus throw was nine feet past the old mark, in 145-1¼.

The trials the past two days have hewn the fields for the finals to eight in each event. The meet begins at 10 a.m. Saturday.

ALL-STAR BASEBALL ON JUNE 17

The second annual Marin-Sonoma All-Star High School baseball game will be held Saturday night, June 17, at 8 o'clock, at Albert Park in San Rafael.

The game will pit a 15-member team of graduating seniors from the Marin County Athletic League against a 15-player aggregation drawn from the Sonoma County teams of the North Bay League and Sonoma County League.

Proceeds will benefit the high school scholarship fund of the Italian Athletic Club of Marin, a Corte Madera-based group.

BATTLE FOR THE BALL — Mexico's Francisco Barba (5) and United States' John Carenza battled for control of the ball during an Olympic zone qualifying soccer match last night at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. The United States moved a step closer to an Olympic berth by gaining a 2-2 tie.

Olympic Drive By U.S. Booters

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Mike Seerey's scoring and the goaltending of Shep Messing are moving the United States closer to their first Olympic berth in soccer.

Seerey, of St. Louis University, scored both American goals and Harvard's Messing made several outstanding saves Wednesday night to give the United States a 2-2 tie with Mexico before 12,687 chilly fans at Kezar Stadium.

The Yanks need a win over Jamaica in St. Louis Sunday to clinch a trip to Munich for the international games this summer. Previously, the U.S. has never survived the qualifying round.

Armando Pina headed in a pass from Angel Talavera in the 16th minute of the second half to earn Mexico the tie in the Olympic Zone qualifying match. Pina's goal ruined an excellent comeback by the Americans.

Trailing 0-1, the Yanks tied the game 1-1 in the 38th minute of the first half when Seerey took a header from John Carenza of Southern Illinois University and tallied from 10 yards.

The USA took a 2-1 lead in the fifth minute of the second half when Seerey booted a corner kick from San Jose State's Mani Hernandez past Mexican goalie Rogilio Ruiz from three yards out.

Brett Stifles A's; Brewers Victorious

OAKLAND (UPI) — Ken Brett, a young lefthander trying to make his mark in the big leagues, says he's a pitcher now, and who is to disagree after the way he handled the Oakland A's for the second time this year.

Brett shut out the A's on three hits Wednesday night as the Milwaukee Brewers snapped Oakland's winning streak at five games with a 4-0 victory. Brett walked only one man and struck out four and he had only one difficult inning.

That came in the third when the A's loaded the bases with none out on a double by Brant Alyea, a walk to Larry Brown and a fielders choice sacrifice by pitcher Jim Hunter. Duane Anderson followed with a liner to right but Billy Conigliaro grabbed it and threw home to double Alyea. Then Brett got Angel Mangual on a fly to center.

Back-to-back doubles by Dave May and George Scott, an infield out and an error by Hunter (now 2-2) on a tap back

Suburban, Sanitary Softball Teams Win

Pitcher Williams, Cash To The Giants

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willie Mays was traded to the New York Mets by the San Francisco Giants today.

The Mets gave the Giants minor league pitcher Charlie Williams, now at Tidewater, and an undisclosed amount of cash.

The announcement, made by Bob Scheffing, Mets' general manager, ended weeklong speculation that Mays would return to the city where he began his spectacular career as a rookie in 1951 with the Giants.

"I'm happy to say that we've acquired a new player today in Willie Mays," said Scheffing. "We gave Charlie Williams, promising young pitcher, but we couldn't give the other player Mr. (Horace) Stoneham wanted. The cash substituted for that."

The announcement followed a morning meeting of Scheffing, Stoneham, Mays, Mets board chairman M. Donald Grant, and Mets manager Yogi Berra.

Willie, 41, has been a part-time performer for the Giants this young season, but in his last appearance for them he singled as a pinchhitter Tuesday night in Montreal to lift his season average to .184 for the 19 games he played in. He has hit 646 homers, second only to Babe Ruth's 714 but only one ahead of Hank Aaron.

Williams, a righthander, has a 3-2 record with Tidewater. He worked his first complete game Wednesday last night, giving up seven hits as the Tides defeated Richmond, 4-3.

Mays left the hotel for the ball park, but it seemed unlikely he would play in either the afternoon or night game against the Dodgers. The proper "staging" would be for him to take the field Friday night against the team that just traded him away.

Mays, a native of Westfield, Ala., was called up in 1951 from the Minneapolis farm club in the American Association.

Baseball Race True To Form

By LEW CODDINGTON

The Marin County Athletic League, which has acquired a reputation for torrid baseball races, is running true to form this year.

Although Redwood High School led by three full games with a 7-0 record at the season's midpoint, the race has tightened. There are now six teams within two games of each other. Redwood is 8-3, San Marin is 7-4, and four clubs are locked at 6-5 — Drake, Marin Catholic, Novato and Terra Linda.

TIGHTER

It could get tighter. It is not inconceivable, and may even be likely, that the standings on Sunday morning could find Redwood at 8-4 and the other five teams at 7-5.

"The season will be won or lost in the second half," Redwood coach Al Endriss kept saying early in the year, when it looked as if his team would disappear into the stratosphere. His words are coming home to roost.

OWN DESTINY

Redwood still has control over its own destiny. If the Giants defeat last-place Tamalpais and split with two contenders in their final three games, they will finish at 10-4. San Marin would have to sweep all three to tie for the title, and what the other four teams do would be academic.

The hottest team in the league now is Marin Catholic, the pre-season favorite, which has won four of its last five, including an epic 15-inning tussle with Novato Tuesday, 2-1. The Wildcats can't forget last year, when they came vaulting up from the middle of the pack with six straight victories to pass faltering Novato at the wire.

TERRA LINDA

Inexperienced Terra Linda had won five of six games until being knocked off by previously winless Tam Tuesday. The Trojans had only 25 hits in the six outings, but managed to score 28 runs.

Terra Linda is in the weakest position of any contender, however. The Trojans lost once to each of the non-contenders, San Rafael and Tam. They also face the toughest remaining schedule: San Marin, Marin Catholic and Redwoodl.

San Marin is riding the crest of a three-game winning streak, achieved apparently with mirrors. The Mustangs' idea of a rally is a walk, stolen base, wild pitch and squeeze bunt. Nobody, however, seems to have come up with a better idea.

SOME TEAMS

In the past, some teams used to score by getting a number of clean hits in succession, but this method of play is no longer practiced in the MCAL. It's a pitcher's league, unless your name is Mike Lamb.

Lamb, a left hander who attends Novato, is the unluckiest individual to come along since Herbert Hoover. Lamb surrendered no earned runs in 15 innings Tuesday and lost. He lost twice earlier by 3-2 scores, giving up two earned runs in the two games. Last week he ran into Tim Nowell when the Tamalpais hurler was pitching a one-hitter, but he won that one with a two-hitter of his own.

LAMB

Before Marin Catholic scored in the 15th, Lamb had pitched 22 consecutive scoreless innings, with one victory to show for it. (Marin Catholic's Don Bianchini had a similar streak of 19 snapped when Novato tallied in the 15th.)

Drake, although unable to mount a sustained winning streak all year, has kept away from losing binges and now is coach Dick Creighton's winningest Pirate team.

Who will win? It's anybody's guess.

Ruggles, Hall Pace Statistics

Mark Ruggles of Redwood High School regained the earned-run average lead and Clifford Hall of Tamalpais retained his batting lead in Marin County Athletic League baseball statistics through 11 games.

HALL

Despite a subpar week (one hit in four at-bats), Hall remained about the coveted .400 mark at .424. His competition fell away from him, however. John Billings of Drake dropped 48 points to .381 but advanced from third place to second on the list.

Pitchers dominated Ruggles ERA of 0.81 ranked a hair ahead of teammate Gene Frey at 0.851 and Marin Catholic's Don Bianchini at 0.853, computed on a seven-inning basis.

SABEL

Mike Sabel of Terra Linda is the league's winningest pitcher at 5-3, and leads in innings pitched, 51⅔. He has appeared in 10 of the Trojans' 11 games as a starter or reliever.

The outburst of pitching has massacred batting averages. Only nine batters with 22 at-bats or more are hitting above .300.

LOPEZ

Ex-Gridder Admits Use Of Drugs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

PHILADELPHIA — The former captain of the Delaware State College football team was arrested yesterday on burglary charges. He told detectives he was using five bags of heroin a day when he and 12 others were suspended from the squad for using drugs.

Leslie W. Dennis, 21, Philadelphia, was arrested as he ran from the front door of a home. Police said the house was being burglarized. They had been called by a neighbor who saw someone enter the house.

Police found a claw hammer and a hypodermic needle in the pockets of Dennis. He was charged with burglary, attempted larceny, conspiracy and possession of burglary tools.

Basketball

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Bob Cousy will enter his fourth year of coaching in the National Basketball Association with an unusual contract.

Cousy and the Cincinnati Royals, who will move to Kansas City next season, entered an open-end arrangement Wednesday. Cousy will have the option of continuing or quitting at the end of each season, general manager Joe Axelson said.

Golf

EL PASO, Tex. — Brigham Young, which has won seven of nine tournaments it has entered this year, will be favored to dethrone Arizona State as champion when the Western Athletic Conference golf tournament opens today at El Paso Country Club.

Both team and individual championships will be decided in 54 holes of medal play — 18 holes today and 36 holes tomorrow.

Greg Harmon of New Mexico will defend his individual title against Novato's Ray Leach of BYU, the 1970 titlist who did not compete last year because of a throat infection.

Baseball

BOSTON — Boston Red Sox outfielder Carl Yastrzemski suffered a "small tear" in a knee ligament earlier this week but will not require surgery, team physician Dr. Thomas Tierney said today.

After examining X-rays this morning, Tierney said Yastrzemski would stay at Sancta Maria Hospital in Cambridge for "a few days" before returning home on crutches.

Thurmond decides to stay with the Golden Staters and not jump to the American Basketball Association.

When asked who, for him, was the most difficult player to guard, Ellis scratched his chin, looked up and replied, "John Havlicek of the Celtics. He is continuous motion." Which NBA player guards Ellis the best? "Anyone who can get an elbow on me," said he.

Ellis said he felt a merger between the two rival pro leagues "is inevitable. The money will finally run out." He was referring to the bidding wars that go to millions of dollars for basketball flesh.

An answer to one question must have really popped the bubble for those who think pro athletes have an exotic time on road trips. What do they do when not on the court? "We see a lot of movies and watch a lot of television."

How exciting.

Honors For A Pair Of Bowlers

By RON LENT

Zeno Gelatti's vocation is his avocation—bowling.

The San Anselman, who joined former Corte Madera resident Jick Treadway as the newest members in the Marin County bowling Hall of Fame, is a San Leandro bowling alley manager.

The Bayfair Lanes manager has not had his bowling enthusiasm tempered by the 30 years of intensive play. "I've always said you must enjoy what you do," the 62-year-old bowler with a 195 per game average commented, "and I certainly do like it. Otherwise, I wouldn't do it."

Thus, Gelatti doesn't mind the long, daily commute from San Anselmo to San Leandro in the East Bay. "It gives me time to think and do some decision-making. In fact, I kind of like it.

"You know," he continued, "managing a bowling alley takes up a lot of time. That's probably the biggest part of it — time. I often work all day and into the night, but I've been in San Leandro for 10 years. And I've had opportunities elsewhere, including Greenbrae, but I decided it was best to stay where I was."

ZENO GELATTI
Bowling manager

Gelatti, who began managing at San Rafael's Country Club Bowl in 1960, recalled: "It wasn't easy at first. When I got to Country Club Bowl, I had to operate the bowling, the restaurant, the bar and swim club. I did this because there was no one else to do it. It was tough, but it was what I wanted to do."

However, in 1962, Gelatti ventured to Sacramento, operating an alley there for about a year before taking over at Bayfair. He voiced satisfaction over his Bayfair experiences, stating: "I've been treated very well there, I can't complain."

Gelatti did not complain about his bowling past, characterized by a penchant for having good times and making money.

He began bowling in 1942 while working in the San Francisco produce business with Sunrise Produce Company. "One of my customers wanted me to join his team. I didn't want to but he prevailed. I began doing well, and I found it profitable. I won a few bucks on the side in playing against other guys.

DICK TREADWAY
In Reno

"I then began to study the game and observe other bowlers. Once I found out how the good bowlers did things, I began practicing it."

The self-taught bowler embarked on a winning career with notable stopovers in the Old Brewers League in San Francisco, which included a record three-game series of 738 pins. In 1945 and 1955, he won the all-events championship in the San Francisco Classic and has swept every honor in the Marin Association Tournament — singles, doubles, and all-events.

Like Gelatti, Treadway, who now lives in Reno, Nev., has a 30-year record ladened with championship honors and was also quite a money player. "Somewhere during (the late 1950s and early 1960s), I shot 298 and then 299 in successive weekends in pot games at Greenbrae Lanes."

And, like Gelatti, Treadway, 42, bowled a great deal in San Francisco and later took on executive duties with the Marin County Bowling Association as secretary. Gelatti was president of the 25-year-old organization in 1947 and 1955.

Treadway, a former San Francisco stock broker and now a part owner and bartender in a Reno motel and cocktail lounge, had listed his great accomplishment as a 245 triplicate series recorded in 1968 at Country Club Bowl.

Both Treadway, who owned a 201 Marin County average, and Gelatti were inducted March 25 into the Hall of Fame for "contributions to Marin County Bowling Association and for their bowling records," according to Walter Carter, MCBA treasurer.

Carter added, "those two richly deserved being named into the hall," a belief Marin County bowling observers would concur with.

Errant Throw Aids Baltimore Victory

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Baltimore needed a bit of luck to keep pace with the surprising first-place Cleveland Indians yesterday.

The Baltimore Orioles got it when Texas catcher Ken Suarez hit Brooks Robinson in the neck on a throw to first with the bases loaded, enabling Merv Rettermund to score from second. The Orioles won, 1-0, but so did Cleveland, 7-2, over Kansas City.

In other AL games, California beat Boston 5-1, Milwaukee shut out Oakland 4-0, Chicago blanked Detroit 7-0 and Minnesota stopped New York 2-0.

Chicago topped Cincinnati 4-2, San Diego edged Philadelphia 5-3, Atlanta bombed Pittsburgh 8-4, San Francisco stopped Montreal 7-3, Houston defeated St. Louis 10-7 and New York shaded Los Angeles 4-3 in 14 innings.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Follow The Line

By LEE TREVINO

When you start lining up a shot, remember that what you get is what you hit. The idea is to line up with the clubface.

It looks like I'm doing a "Trevino shuffle" when I address the ball. I move my left foot around a lot. And I keep moving until my body is comfortable. That's a good tip in any game.

I always point the blade of the club along an imaginary line to where I want the ball to go. If you run up there and bust it without envisioning a path for that ball, you may as well go back to the bar.

Other pros say I keep the clubface on line longer than anyone of the tour. I hope so, right down that imaginary stripe. Then that baby's taking the best path to the green.

The best players set the club down so the sweet spot has a bead on the target area. Only then do they take their stance.

Market's Gain Steady, Cautious

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange made a steady gain amid underlying caution during the first two hours today.

Analysts said investors were remaining cautious in reaction to international news developments.

Prices moved slightly higher on the American Stock Exchange in sluggish trading.

On the NYSE, oil stocks were the strongest group. Atlantic Richfield was up 2 1-4 while most other issues were higher in fractions. Some optimism developed over a report a decision is imminent on the proposed Trans-Alaskan Pipeline.

Alaska Interstate Co., a pipeline firm, gained 3 3-4 on the report. It led the most active list on a volume of 131,000 shares.

Steel issues were mixed in fractions and motor stocks eased slightly. General Motors was down 5-8, Ford 1-4.

INVESTING

Six-Bond Portfolio Suggested

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am retired, 79, and my wife is 62. I would like a safe 6 per cent to 7 per cent interest bearing investment for $25,000 now with another $25,000 to be added at the end of the year. Monthly income would be preferable. — W.B.

A. A portfolio of six different bond issues will provide you with income ranging from $268 to $325 each month. At recent discounted quotes the $64,000 face value bond portfolio will cost $49,600 for eventual capital gains of $14,400 and a current return of 7 per cent. Interest on all six issues is covered at least 2.2x and the bonds are rated BBB or better. Maturities on these NYSE-listed securities are 14 to 20 years away.

For income in January and July, 11M Lone Star Industries 4⅞s of 1990; 10M Ashland Oil 6.15 of 1992 will provide $308 in each February and August. Purchase of 11M Niagara Mohawk 4⅞s of 1987 and 12M Consolidated Edison 5s of 1990 will provide income in March, April, September and October. The final two months in each half will be covered by 10M each in Whirlpool 5¾s of 1986 and Western Union 6½s of 1989.

With your initial $25,000 purchase Cons. Edison, Niagara Mohawk and Western Union; the other three to be purchased when additional capital is available. Commission costs should be reduced by splitting the purchase in this way.

Q. I would very much appreciate your telling me the difference between TelePrompTer and TelePrompTer w.i. This listing appeared for several weeks on the ASE. —E.P.

A. Prior to a stock split, shares aaded both on an old and a new, or when issued basis. In this case, directors declared a four-for-one split and TelePrompTer was quoted both ways for about a month. You probably noted that the w.i. price was close to one quarter of the regular price.

Apartments And Townhouses Going Up In East San Rafael

Apartments and townhouses are going up like mad on both sides of Kerner Boulevard and the extension of Bellam Boulevard in East San Rafael.

Woodside Homes of Gilroy hopes to complete its 187-unit Camelot Apartments by the end of June. They are renting for $175 to $255 per month. These apartments are clustered along Larkspur and Novato Streets to the east of Kerner Boulevard.

On the west side of Kerner and toward the bay, McKeon Construction of Sacramento has started the first 130 of the 500 townhouses it plans to build on 40 acres by the end of this year. The development is called Bahia de Rafael.

Prices range from $21,500 to $29,750. The first 130 units are already sold before they are completed.

A NEEDLEPOINT shop called Stitchbirds opened this week at 21 Poplar Avenue in Ross, in the same building as Patti's Poodle Cottage.

Owners of the new store are Betsy Shuey and Janet McLenegan, both of Kentfield, whose hobbies are needlepoint. "We decided to expand on our hobbies and go into business," said Mrs. Shuey. The store carries canvases and other supplies for needlepoint work.

The Stitchbirds is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

JAMES H. O'CONNOR of Tiburon has been promoted to vice president, loan administration, of San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Association.

O'Connor has been with the association since 1958. He is a past president of the San Francisco chapter of the American Savings and Loan Institute and has been a frequent instructor in the Institute's educational program. He has been a member of the Loan Service Managers' Committee of the California Savings and Loan League since 1968 and is now serving as secretary of the Bay Area Mortgage Association.

First American Title, now located at 341 Third Street, is headed by Manager Hayes R. Culpepper. "We'd like to get into the new building by Christmas," said Culpepper. Architects Wagstaff & McDonald of San Anselmo are working with city officials on the plans, including offstreet parking.

The company is the successor to Sequoia Title, which was founded in 1964 in San Rafael and merged with First American Title in 1967.

S.D. MENIST of Kentfield and Keith M. Askew of San Anselmo were re-elected to top posts in the National Automobile Club at the annual meeting held last week in San Francisco.

Menist

Menist, president of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, was re-elected chairman of the board. Askew, manager of Hartford Insurance Group in San Francisco, was re-elected statewide president of the National Automobile Club.

MONTESSORI SCHOOL of Mill Valley, formerly located on Tennessee Valley Road, was moved into new permanent quarters at 7 Thomas Drive in a building recently purchased by the owner-administrators, Mr. and Mrs. John Lord of Ross.

The new location, remodeled to school specifications, will have open house this coming Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 12 noon. The public is invited.

The school enrolls children from ages 2½ to 6 years, and offers a daily Montessori program from 9 a.m. to 12 noon or 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. with extended day care available from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. where necessary. The summer program begins June 19.

The Mill Valley school is one of four such schools operated by Ross Academy Montessori Schools, with headquarters on Poplar Drive in Ross.

CAPITAL REAL ESTATE Management Co., Los Angeles-based company that manages about 8,000 apartments, announced that its first two Northern California projects are ready for rental, both in Marin.
